Esquimalt-Vic West is the best Little League baseball team in Canada, thanks to excellent pitching by Dave O'Brien and Mike Bitten, near-flawless fielding and a last-minute batting practice called by manager Bob Bull and coach Jim Uhren. The batting drill took place Saturday morning and in the afternoon the B.C. champions socked three home runs to sweep two games from Lethbridge and take the Canadian title in Mississauga, Ont. Esquimalt-Vic West now competes in the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., starting today. Page 12.

Elsewhere on today's sports pages:

The B.C. Soccer League believes it has found a loophole in a Canadian Soccer Association directive forcing two Victoria clubs, Gorge Molsons and London Boxing Club, to play in the Vancouver Island League next season. As a result, the teams are ready to enter the B.C. league and play against Mainland clubs again. Page 12.

Two Esquimalt teams by the same name, the Teamsters, won provincial lacrosse championships on the weekend but two Victoria clubs didn't fare as well. Esquimalt won titles in Junior "B" and Intermediate "B" playdowns. Victoria McDonalds were eliminated in Pacific Junior "A" semi-finals and Victoria Island Pacific Oil lost out in the B.C. Intermediate "A" finals. Page 12.

In golf, Victoria's John Morgan came close to winning the Alberta Open in Edmonton. His chances blew away in the wind on the final nine holes, however, and Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., grabbed the victory. Page 13.

When baseball's Cincinnati Reds are winning, their fans refer to them as the Big Red Machine. They're winning these days and now are only 2½ games behind the leading Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West. That's the closest they've been to first place since April 26. The Dodgers, meanwhile, could use a tuneup. They lost 10-3 to Pittsburgh Pirates, their sixth defeat in a row. Page 15.

U.S. Envoy Killed In Cypriot Protest

Times News Services

The U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, Rodger Davies, was killed today in a rain of submachinegun fire by gunmen who stormed the American embassy in Nicosia under cover of a riot by 700 Greek Cypriots screaming against U.S. failure to stop the Turkish invasion of the island.

The gunmen wore the military-style uniforms favored by Eoka-B, the Greek Cypriot guerrilla organization that has fought for years to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said an unidentified U.S. marine also was killed in a burst of submachinegun fire.

Clerides rushed to the embassy to try to help and issued a statement deploring "this heinous crime."

In Athens, Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis denounced the shooting and said it will only add to Greece's troubles over Cyprus.

Also in Athens, thousands of demonstrators clashed with police in Constitution Square today when a hunger strike by students over Cyprus erupted into anti-American riots.

Seven policemen were injured in the rioting. Police detained 23 persons but later released all but four.

The violence erupted after three days of anti-American rallies in various parts of Greece in the wake of strong popular feeling over the alleged U.S. support of the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

Correspondent Michael Keats said Davies was killed when a mob of 700 Greek Cypriots descended on the embassy screaming "Kissinger! Kissinger! Get your Turkish friends to help you now!"

The mob burned U.S. Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger in effigy and set fire to at least five cars in the embassy compound. The cars blew up when flames reached their gasoline tanks, darkening the embassy area with clouds of thick black smoke.

The demonstators burned the U.S. flag, shouting, "burn them down, as they burned Cyprus down."

Police hurled tear gas grenades at the demonstrators in a futile effort to hold them back.

But still the mob came on, carrying banners reading Murderers, Your Mask Has Fallen and NATO Murderers of Cyprus.

On the military front, correspondent Nat Gibson reported the Turks within three miles of the Nicosia - Limassol Road, the only road to the Mediterranean still open.

Hundreds of Greek Cypriot refugees were streaming down the 32-mile road, he reported.

In Washington, Defence Secretary James Schlesinger accused the invasion force of going too far and hinted at a possible cut off in U.S. military aid to Turkey.

People Crisis Eyed

Times News Services

BUCHAREST — Representatives of more than 130 nations are gathered here to discuss the population crisis which is taking shape as one of the greatest problems the world has to face.

Organizers of the United Nations World Population Conference, however, fear it may degenerate into a quarrel between rich and poor countries.

Despite a mood of official optimism, plenty of private qualms remain with many of the poorer countries demanding curbs on what they consider excessive consumption by advanced countries.

A row over seating has already cast a pall over the meeting.

Several Communist countries, led by China, and Romania, have campaigned for the seating of an uninvited delegation from the Vietnam Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) the Viet Cong.

The main question before the conference, which formally opened today is the global explosion in man's numbers that is beginning to tax both the earth's capacity to produce food and many of its other resources.

Given the current world population growth rate of two per cent annually, man's numbers will double every 35 years.

It took mankind all of its history until the early 19th century to reach one billion; only another 100 years were needed to double that figure; at 3.8 billion last year, the population is expected to double by the end of the century.

Roughly 85 per cent of the projected increases would be in underdeveloped countries.

The very fact that the conference is taking place is viewed by Western specialists as a major achievement.

This is the first attempt by world governments to grapple with the problem that contributes to widespread hunger, a deteriorating environment, and a vicious cycle of poverty and misery in developing nations of the Third World.

Because of the complexity of the problem and because of growing inter-dependence in areas of food production, energy, raw materials and uncontrolled human fertility; the conference is not likely to come up with a firm plan of action.

GREEK PURGE

ATHENS (AP) — The commander-in-chief of the Greek armed forces and nine other top members of the army command were ousted today, the government announced.

The purges appeared to be a move to further strengthen the civilian government's hold over the armed forces by Premier Constantine Caramanlis.

IRA Guerrillas Blast Way Free

Times News Services

DUBLIN — Police and troops today mounted one of the biggest dragnets ever seen in the Irish republic in an effort to recapture 19 guerrillas who blasted their way out of a top-security jail.

The men, all leading members of the violent Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army, broke out of Portlaoise jail 50 miles southwest of here Sunday.

They used explosives to open two gates before hijacking cars at gunpoint.

In Ulster thousands of heavily armed British troops combed the countryside today.

Although an Irish security official claimed the Irish had "sealed off all the escape routes," a spokesman at the Lisburn British Army headquarters for Ulster said "an immediate tightening of security was ordered on the frontier."

Most of the escapers were from the north and others from border areas.

British troops boarded Dublin-to-Belfast trains at the border for intensive searches and long lines of automobiles formed at border checkpoints where soldiers looked for the jailbreakers among returning weekenders.

"Sadly the escape will be a boost to IRA morale which has been reeling in recent months from the effect of a series of successes by the army and police in the north," a British army officer said.

The Irish government, embarrassed by the second spectacular IRA jailbreak in 10 months, has ordered an inquiry.

The previous escape featured a helicopter snatch of three IRA men from Dublin's Mountjoy jail.

The latest escapees are believed to include former Londonderry Provisional leader Martin McGuinness and Kevin Mallon, the leading "provo" in the Mountjoy escape.

Pot Final Straw

SEATTLE (AP) — First they took Kathy Corey's TV, a radio, a strong box and finally a hair dryer.

But when they took her marijuana plants from her apartment, that was the last straw.

Kathy phoned police to report the latest loss, although she was unable to place a monetary value on the plants.

Kathy, who has been robbed four times in the past month, says stolen property is stolen property and should be reported even if it is marijuana.

"I suppose I had a lots of nerve to report it, but those were my plants and I don't feel it's wrong to be growing them. If I have to go to jail for reporting it, I will."

A police spokesman said no action was planned against Miss Corey.

And she said police saw the plants when they visited her following the earlier burglaries but they took no action.

"Every officer who has come up here has seen it. One told me he liked it; another said he thought the plants looked pretty healthy."

NEWS BRIEFS

Black Moderator

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Rev. Wilbur K. Howard, a black Ottawa minister, was elected moderator of the United Church of Canada today. Howard, 62, is the first black man ever chosen for the position, highest in the church that claims about two million members and adherents and is the largest in Canada.

Amnesty Eyed

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford told a stunned audience of ex-servicemen today he is prepared to consider conditional amnesty on young exiles who refused to serve in Vietnam and who now are willing to "work their way back" into U.S. society.

Takeover Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain workers today urged Justice Minister Otto Lang to recall paliament and legislate the takeover of grain elevators here. It described the wheat pools as "unnecessary and inefficient oligarchies" and complained they have created bottlenecks in the export of wheat.

Pilot Pay Hike

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Pacific Air pilots have reached a settlement in contract negotiations allowing for pay increases ranging from 14 to about 33 per cent in a 14-month agreement.

Current salaries range from $11,000 to $64,000 a year.

Reds Cut Road

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners today cut a key northern approach road to Saigon and captured a large village seven miles from the provincial capital of Tay Ninh in the heaviest Communist attacks in two years, South Vietnamese officers said.

WATERLOO MAN SEEN LIKELY UVIC CHOICE

Dr. Howard Petch, academic vice-president at the University of Waterloo, will likely be named the new president of the University of Victoria later this week.

A source close to the selections committee at the university said today that Petch is front-runner on a short list of candidates. The university's board of governors met today and there were indications it was to clean up details before announcing a successor to Dr. Hugh Farquhar. (See Page 17.)

Among candidates for the presidency known to be under close consideration are Petch, Dr. Walter Young, head of university's political science department, and a Dr. Harrow from Queen's University.

Mayors Chase Elusive Cabinet

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

MESACHIE LAKE — A delegation of alarmed mayors from northern B.C. chased up the Island Highway today in search of some positive answers from the provincial cabinet.

Concerned about the lack of communication on the status of northwestern development, the mayors arrived in Victoria this morning only to find all the ministers they had hoped to see had left town for a special cabinet meeting here, three miles west of Cowichan Lake.

The mayors were not to be swayed from their purpose, however, and jumped into a borrowed car and set off in search of the cabinet.

The determined delegation includes Mayors George Thom of Kitimat, Peter Lester of Prince George and J. J. Kempf from Houston.

The delegation arrived at the forest camp where cabinet was meeting around noon and slipped past the guard at the gate by saying they had a meeting with the ministers.

"The security system was lousy," said one of the mayors, "because anyone could walk in and say they were part of cabinet."

Once inside the compound, they talked with Highways Minister Graham Lea and finally reached an agreement to return at 3 p.m. to talk with Northern Affairs Minister Alf Nunweiler.

They were disappointed they did not get to meet with Resources Minister Bob Williams or Ecnomic Development Minister Gary Lauk, and one of the delegates said, "I think we've been pushed down to the second string."

The mayors were sent from a meeting of northwestern mayors and regional district chairmen in Kitimat over the weekend where a resolution was drawn up to present to cabinet.

The resolution said the local government representatives fear that recent statements by the government "indicated some serious reservations by the spokesman as to the direction and the speed with which the government intends to move in expanding the economy of B.C. and this northwest sector in particular."

The representatives said they fully support regional economic expansion of the northwest as outlined by the Government.

Last spring Resources Minister Williams announced details of a $500 million development plan, including new transportation plans, lower freight rates, new sawmills and resource development, for the northwest sector of the province.

Thom said today his group has heard nothing "official" but had indications of a change in thought or a change of priorities on the part of the government.

RUBBLE STILL SMOULDERS on a city block in downtown Los Angeles which was wiped out by an explosion Saturday night. The mysterious alphabet bomber — sought in a three-death blast at Los Angeles International Airport earlier this month — has claimed responsibility for the blast which police earlier said was caused by a chemical ignition.

TEACHERS TO DEMAND HEFTY PAY RAISES

Times News Services

NARAMATA — School trustees and taxpayers in British Columbia were warned Sunday to be braced for hefty pay-hike demands by the province's teachers.

In a speech opening the B.C. Teachers' Federation summer conference, president Jim McFarlan said the demands would be "a hell of a lot."

"Inflation has eroded many of the gains of last year," he added, pointing out that teachers will be even worse off than they were before the last settlements if inflation continues at its present rate.

Mistaken for Hit-Man, Girl Slain

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Edith Perchman was delivering the Detroit Free Press on her regular route when she approached the Rudolph Acosta residence in Highland Park.

It was about 5 a.m. Sunday and still dark. Her father, Marion, who always drove her, was waiting in his car with Edith's 11-year-old sister and one of her friends.

Edith was about to flip the newspaper onto Acosta's front porch when a shotgun blast from a window in the house sprayed her in the face.

She fell in the yard, but pulled herself up and was stumbling toward her father's car when a man appeared on the porch with a pistol and began firing.

Police say Edith was hit at least 15 times in the two shootings.

She died after being admitted to hospital.

The girl's father told police he also was fired at as he pulled his daughter into the car from a grassy strip between the sidewalk and the curb.

Perchman was not hit, but as he sped off the car door flew open and Edith fell to the pavement. Perchman lost control and his car slammed into a nearby house.

Perchman was taken to hospital in serious condition with internal injuries. Edith's sister and friend were not hurt.

Acosta, 24, who told police he mistook the girl for a "hit man," was arraigned on charges of manslaughter and freed on $2,500 bail. An examination was set for Sept. 10. Police said he surrendered without a struggle when police arrived at his house.

Police said Acosta was not charged with murder because he did not intend to kill the girl. Detective Donald Roberts said state police had told Acosta that someone was out to kill him in connection with the drug-related death of another individual, and that Acosta apparently thought the girl was the assailant.

About 200 angry neighbors are demanding that Acosta be charged with murder.

Bishop 'Ran Guns'

TEL AVIV (CP) — The Israeli government has jailed the Greek Catholic Archbishop of Jerusalem on charges of gun running for Arab terrorists in occupied Jordan.

The Israeli police announced that they searched Archbishop Hilarion Capudji's Mercedes sedan Aug. 7 as he returned from Lebanon and found "a large quantity of weapons and explosive material hidden in varrious parts of the car."

The police said the arms were being smuggled from the Al Fatah guerrilla organization in Lebanon to Palestinian terrorists in the West Bank territory Israel took from Jordan in the 1967 war.

The archbishop, a 52-year-old Syrian, was taken into custody, but this was kept secret while the Israeli government tried through intermediaries to get Greek Catholic headquarters in Beirut to transfer him out of the country.

However, informed sources said the Israeli military insisted the matter was too serious and an example should be made of the prelate. On Sunday he was brought before a Jerusalem magistrate who ordered him held for 15 days more while the investigation continued.

The Greek Catholic Church is an Eastern rite branch of the Roman Catholic Church and is under Vatican authority although its bishops are not papal appointees. Archbishop Capudji's diocese covered East Jerusalem, the occupied West Bank, and the towns of Ramle, Jaffa and Lod. His flock numbers only about 5,000 members.

The archbishop is a militant Arab nationalist who has boycotted every Israeli official event since the 1967 war brought his headquarters in East Jerusalem under Israeli rule.

Provider Officer Injured

An officer from the Esquimalt-based HMCS Provider was flown to hospital at CFB Esquimalt Sunday after escaping serious injury when his rented plane crashed at Kodiak, Alaska.

Lieut. K. S. Madera suffered a fracture ankle and cuts when his Cessna 172, rented from Western Alaska Airlines, crashed into Kodiak harbor.

He and his three passengers, Lieut. W. Tiercey, Lieut. R. B. Bieber, fellow ships officers, and Lieut. W. G. Sutherland of the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, were rescued by a crew from Provider.

Madera and his companions were on shore leave at the time of the incident. The pilot was the most seriously injured.

MAYOR CONSIDERS YOUTHS' CURFEW

BURNS LAKE (CP) — The mayor of this northwestern British Columbia community says village council is seriously considering imposing an old curfew following the outbreak of a disturbance last week.

Mayor John Baker said the bylaw, passed during the Second World War, requires all children 14 and younger to be off village streets by 10 p.m.

Baker said in an interview that 10 and 12 year olds made up a large percentage of the unruly mob which filled village streets Aug. 10 and threatened violence.

"They were waving pop bottles and shouting," said the mayor." . . . Maybe if their parents realize they face a fine they will do something about keeping their kids off the streets."

Baker said the disturbance was part of a dispute between local Carrier Inddians and two Cree families who recently arrived from Alberta. Whites were also involved, he said.

Burns Lake is 350 miles northwest of Vancouver on the Endako River.

Turkish Troops Pillage Small Greek Villages

AYIOS THEODHOROS, Cyprus (WP) — Turkish troops occupying the isolated Cyprus panhandle are looting and subjecting Greek-Cypriot villagers to an oppressive military rule.

Extending 30 miles into the Mediterranean, the eight-mile-wide peninsula is a fertile grain-growing region, and Greek-Cypriot officials allege the Turks have forced most Greeks to flee their homes and farms and are deliberately making life difficult for those who stayed.

In a three-hour tour of the area where Greeks normally outnumber the Turks by 18,000 to 6,000 most of the Greek villages were deserted except for Turkish army sentries.

Doors to most of the Greek stores and homes were broken open and in those examined by a reporter drawers and closets were ransacked with the contents thrown on the floor.

The few Greek-Cypriots who could be found were plainly nervous about speaking in the presence of an escorting armed Turkish officer who insisted on eavesdropping.

Nevertheless, the Greeks complained they were short of food and said their sheep and cattle were dying of thirst and hunger because of strict Turkish rules restricting them to their homes and villages.

On the main street of Trikomo, an all-Greek village of more than 2,000 people in normal times, eight-to-10 Greek men aged between 16 and 70 were walking in a tight group under the guard of an impassive Turkish soldier holding an automatic rifle at the ready.

They seemed relieved, almost joyful to see the Turkish information officer and eagerly extended small slips of paper which they said the local Turkish command issued permitting them to leave their homes to buy food.

The officer ordered the soldier to back off, but when the group moved on again the soldier was again striding purposefully behind them.

One of the men, a 70-year-old retired chef, said: "We have been given passes to leave our houses to get bread but always there are these soldiers pointing their guns at us, and I thought they were going to shoot us."

Sweat broke on the man's brow as he made his complaint in the hearing of a Turkish officer.

"They came in our houses searching and they broke everything. The people who have gone. Their houses have been broken into."

The looting and intimidation of the Greeks was occurring in the most blatant fashion and in circumstances of such tight military discipline that it could not be dismissed as the acts of unruly individuals.

Uniformed Turkish soldiers were driving civilian cars and motorcycles and gassing them up at unattended Greek-owned filling stations.

One soldier obstructed traffic while he dragged a rebellious cow through a narrow village street with two calves skittering ahead.

Other Turks loaded sacks of corn from a Greek granary to a truck.

Two truck-loads of tiger suited commandos paused beside a drugstore long enough for a few of the men to force their way in and return with sodas and ballpoint pens.

A truck which headed west through this village was loaded with cooking stoves.

The escort officer could only suggest it might be connected to readjustment of Turkish-Cypriot housing.

Civilian Turkish Cypriots were seen emerging from a Greek house with armfuls of clothing while jeeploads of Turks passing by appeared not even to notice.

Some of the Turkish Cypriots could be seen casually leading cattle back to their villages.

Meanwhile, Reuters reports that one of every 10 persons on Cyprus has taken refuge in British military bases on the island since the Turkish invasion last month.

A British military spokesman said there were nearly 70,000 Greek-and Turkish-Cypriot refugees from the island's total population of about 660,000 at the two British bases of—Episkopi and Dhekelia, according to the agency.

Only 200 Turkish-Cypriots had sought sanctuary at Dhekelia, the spokesman said.

But about 7,000 were at Episkopi in the southwest of the Island. Just 200 Greek-Cypriots were at that base.

Pushbike Gun Battle

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two plainclothes policemen were riding bicycles in Central Park Sunday night, trying to nab bike thieves.

Instead, two thieves stole their bikes and escaped in a hail of bullets.

Police said officers Carlo Cielva and James Silvia were on decoy patrol when one of the bikes broke down and they stopped to repair it. Two men, one pointing a gun, approached and demanded the bikes.

As the robbers started to ride off, the policemen identified themselves and pulled their guns.

The armed bandit fired two shots and the officers fired six shots after them.

No one apparently was hit, police said, and no arrests had been made.

Arson Suspected At Drug Centre

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arson is suspected in a fire early Sunday at a building occupied by the Narcotic Addiction Foundation of B.C., police said.

Officers said they are probing a possibility that a flammable substance was thrown into the premises.

Piles of papers in a basement printing room caught fire and caused considerable damage to that section of the building. There was also considerable water and smoke damage to the rest of the building.

RICHFORD, N.Y. (AP) — After finding little success with his thumb, a frustrated hitch-hiker took off his clothes Sunday in hopes of attracting a ride.

The ride he attracted was a Tioga County sheriff's patrol car which promptly took him to court. The hitch-hiker, identified as Richard Spadaro, 25, of New York City, told arresting officers he took off his clothes to attract a woman driver.

Spadaro was sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $100 for disturbing the peace.

Top Aides To Trial On Time

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Judge John J. Sirica today rejected motions for a delay in the Watergate cover-up trial and said it will begin Sept. 9 as scheduled.

"There is no better time to try this case than the present time," Sirica said at the end of a one-hour, 50 minute hearing.

William Hundley, who is representing former U.S. attorney-general John Mitchell, said during the hearing on the motions to delay the trial that the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment debate and the "forced resignation" of President Nixon, had created publicity that required a postponement of the trial.

"The publicity already has died down," Sirica said. "You can pick up the Washington Post and can't hardly find a Watergate story."

Newsweek magazine, meanwhile, claims John Erlichman decided to call Nixon to the witness stand in the cover-up trial because he feels Nixon betrayed him.

Newsweek quotes sources close to the former White House domestic affairs adviser as saying that he made his decision to bring his former boss into court as a defence witness after reading the transcript of the June 23, 1972, White House tapes.

These were the tapes which showed the former president knew aobut the Watergate cover-up months earlier than he had claimed.

In them, the president and another top aide, H. R. Haldeman, discussed a plan to stop an FBI investigation into the history of money which was paid to the Watergate burglars.

The two men also discussed the role which Erlichman would play in the cover-up.

The tapes also included mention that Mitchell also knew about the cover-up.

Strikes Banned

NAIROBI (AP) — President Jomo Kenyatta has banned all strikes in Kenya. Last month bank workers and employees at Nairobi's Embakasi Airport went on strike and Nairobi University was closed this week after students refused to end a week-long boycott of lectures. Several high schools have been closed after students went on strike.

Mini dead? They're pulling our leg

In the fashion capitals of Europe the word is that the mini-skirt, on the wane in recent years, is truly dead at last.

But in downtown Victoria, those exposed legs go striding on . . .

Fashion stories report this year's fall and winter collections from London, Rome, Paris and New York, definitely drop the hemline below the knee.

But an American fashion writer says from Paris that doesn't mean the mini is dead because women are liberated and they wear what they want.

So it seems in Victoria, where a photographic look around downtown showed minis are still here.

It also showed that women really don't care that much for skirts of any length. Many of them were wearing pants.

FISHBOAT HITS ROCK

With only her stern and mast showing, Water Groening's fish boat Bonnie Loch, was towed into Sooke on Sunday after hitting a rock at San Juan Harbor near Port Renfrew.

The Delta-based boat was taken in tow by a fishboat from Port Moody, Doug Buster's Port Moody.

Groening was unharmed although his boat may be a write-off.

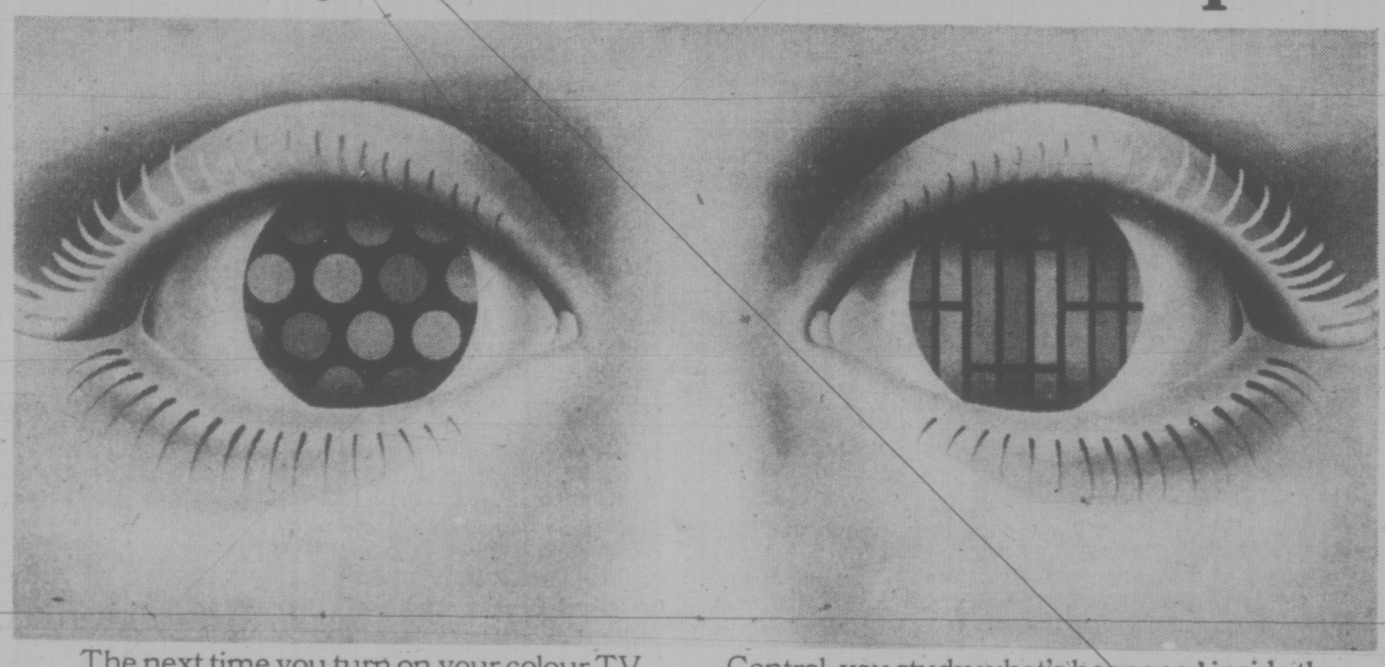
Why $500 worth of stripes in front of your eyes beats $500 worth of spots.



The next time you turn on your colour TV, go up to the screen with the magnifying glass, and take a close look at what's really making up that colour picture you're looking at. Dots. Red, blue and green dots. If the dots are kind of blurry, they're coming at you through a white matrix.

And we can tell you right now that your set is at least 5 years old. Because the black matrix improvement has been around about that long. Colours against a black background will always stand out much better than colours against a white background.

So maybe it's time for a new colour TV.

When you do decide to go shopping take the magnifying glass with you.

When the salesman turns a set on, go through the same procedure.

Examine the screen up close with the glass. The dots look much clearer now, because they're coming through a black matrix. Now stand back and look at the picture. You may be so impressed with the brilliance (as compared with what you've been seeing at home), that you'll start getting out your chequebook right then and there.

Don't do it.

Drop in to any Toshiba dealer.

And don't forget the magnifying glass. Go right up to the screen with the glass, as soon as the salesman turns on the 14" screen C-335. While he's talking about 100% solid state dependability, plug-in modules for easy servicing, Automatic Fine Tuning and Automatic Balance Control, you study what's happened inside the colour. Black background for definition, you've seen that already. But, the dots aren't dots any longer. They're stripes of colour. And it doesn't take a lot of thought to realize there's more colour area in a stripe than in a dot.

It's these colour stripes against the black background that give you the most brilliant colour picture in the industry.

Now stand back and look. That's called Toshiba Blackstripe™ colour television. It's $500 worth of colour if ever you saw it. And for only $479.95 (suggested retail).

It Must Be Made Viable

Perhaps the greatest loser in the conflict on Cyprus has been the United Nations. The manner in which Turkey has fought ahead without regard to UN-arranged truce lines and stopping times — even to the point of encircling United Nations troops and wounding a number of them, although the casualties may have been due to bombing and shelling errors — has left UN peace-keeping prestige at a low ebb.

Cyprus ambassador Rossides put the matter very plainly to the UN Security Council last week when he said that the Turkish action on the island "calls in question the very essence of the United Nations Charter and the raison d'etre of our organization. I believe that this Council should give the most immediate and searching attention to the implications of this situation both for the immediate problem of Cyprus and for the future effectiveness of the United Nations."

It has been found impossible, against an aggressive nation ready to take risks, for the UN to make its decisions stick. Pleas from the UN Security Council for observance of the various cease-fire arrangements were brushed aside whenever the Turks were ready to make further advances. The result has been that most nations, large and small, are now looking at the UN with doubts of its effectiveness in policing any active conflict. Obviously, more muscle and more respect must be instilled if the UN is to be useful.

It must be remembered, of course, that the United Nations organization is not a body with authority derived from the sky. It can be only as effective and high-principled as the member nations which form its body. So far, it has proved impossible in most cases to separate self-interest from national policy in the UN; various national protests have not been followed up by sufficient international contributions to UN policing forces; there are too many irons in each country's fire to help agreement on better performance.

Apart from the fact that it is not fair to troops to put them in indefensible positions, curbed by non-participation orders, and little better than sitting ducks when the action gets hot, there is the need to keep the UN concept clear, and unhampered by successive defeats.

The mere presence of troops, of course, constitutes some gain, but they must be guaranteed an opportunity to function properly. Their purpose is not to take part in battles, it is to prevent battles by separating the combatants. That requires adequate deterrent firepower to impress belligerents, and, above all, the certainty of a heavy hand from UN Headquarters against any nation that flouts UN authority.

If the existing UN concept were to be destroyed or allowed to become enfeebled, the world would have to find a substitute. It will be better to build on what we have than to start to lay primitive foundations on still shakier ground.

Students

Although it is frequently denied, the use of helpless consumers as the hostages in labor contract battles is now common — in fact, expected. The latest example has a particularly nasty twist, however, in that about 1,300 employees of the University of B.C. are planning to strike to enforce their demand for higher wages, and a union negotiating committee member indicates that the step may be taken during the September 3-to-6 period when some 20,000 students will be registering for their courses.

That could inflict a great deal of unnecessary hardship on many students, since some must come from up-country to enter applications for their courses. In addition, any delay in the university's registration process could seriously delay the start of classes.

Quite apart from the merits of the union's demand for a monthly increase of $250 across-the-board, over a period of 21 months, there is an element of unfairness in the threat to students. Additionally, since university budgets are governed strictly by the amount of funds received annually from the provincial government, there is a very limited opportunity for "management" to be able to agree to unusually large demands.

Too great a wage bill inevitably must raise the question of retrenchment in other areas, including the possible discontinuance of some jobs. There is no factor of annual profit in university budgets which might serve as a buffer for substantial increases. But even apart from that, it would be dirty pool to take it out on students.

Hope for Tourists, Sort Of

To anyone who has tried to cope with holiday expenses in Britain, particularly in London, lined up for restaurant tables, shopped for hotel rooms within his budget, and wondered why there is so little change from a pound note, it will come as a surprise to learn that Britian's tourist trade is sharply reduced this year, prices are falling and many hotels are only partially filled at the height of the season. And much the same conditions are said to hold on the continent.

One of the reasons for the empty hotel rooms, according to The Economist, is that the Wilson government offered 20 per cent grants toward construction of hotel accommodation. The result was an increase of more than 50 per cent in London hotel rooms — an over-building program that would have meant unused rooms even if there had not been a slump in the total of visitors from all countries. On top of that, a large portion of the tourists today are said to be young, unwilling to spend much money merely for a roof over their heads, and equally unwilling to splurge in the restaurants.

All this has resulted in repercussions in industries less directly connected with the tourist trade. Reduced passenger traffic on the airlines has cut into orders for aircraft, which in turn has meant layoffs in the machine and allied industries. Travel agents, too, have felt the squeeze, and the spectacular collapse of the Court Line agency complex has demonstrated the potential dangers of the situation.

Prospective tourists from Canada, of course, can make their arrangements without risk, and indeed, stand to gain from the changed conditions reported in Britain. That is not to say that goods or services will in any way approximate a give-away level.

One new hotel at Hyde Park Corner in London will charge 22 pounds for a single room, plus tax, with a double going at some 35 pounds a night, including tax and service charge. But many hotels are reported desperate for business, and "a little haggling," both in London and on the continent, according to The Economist, may "produce a better deal than the one in the brochure."

Make Way for Mr. Speaker

OTTAWA — In a brief press release last week Robert Stanfield revealed a situation which is both surprising and disquieting. Correcting a Canadian Press report of August 13, the Conservative leader stated that he had not been consulted by the Prime Minister about the nomination of James Jerome, Liberal member for Sudbury, as Speaker of the new House of Commons.

Mr. Stanfield neither endorsed nor opposed the nomination, stating merely that his party had taken no position on the matter. But the lack of consultation in this instance is plainly unfortunate and could contribute to unnecessary difficulties in the 30th Parliament.

It is not solely a question of the usual courtesies, the "customary practice" referred to in the CP despatch. The implication is that Mr. Trudeau has treated the nomination as an ordinary government appointment, which it clearly is not. For while a government, through its majority, can enthrone a Speaker, it cannot sustain him. To rule the House he must have broad support, without it the position is impossible, as was demonstrated dramatically in the famous pipeline debate.

Well Regarded

Mr. Jerome possesses impressive credentials. On that, there appears to be general agreement. He is bilingual, a good parliamentarian, was well regarded in the role of committee chairman. Indeed, his qualifications are so obvious that the nomination in the event of Liberal success at the polls had been widely predicted in speculating stories about the next parliament.

At the same time it must be recognized that Mr. Jerome will not inherit the unprecedented prestige of his predecessor, Lucien Lamoureux. He must hope, over time, to achieve a similar authority but his position at the outset is bound to be weaker for reasons wholly unrelated to personal considerations or to the rules.

Mr. Lamoureux arrived in Ottawa at a time when the reform of parliamentary institutions was engaging the attention of all parties and was, indeed, the subject of widespread public discussion. There was very strong support for an independent Speakership, which was considered a key to other desirable changes. Views differed and still differ as to how this could be established on a permanent basis.

As the member for Stormont-Dundas, Mr. Lamoureux had been elected as a party man, a Liberal. His unusual gifts as a presiding officer had become apparent during the period 1963-1965 when he served as deputy Speaker. When he was proposed as Speaker in 1966, the nomination was warmly welcomed by the Leader of the Opposition, John Diefenbaker, and the leaders of the other parties. It was clear that he started with the goodwill of the House. But he did not have the authority which he afterwards attained.

JAMES JEROME
. . . nominated

In the months that followed, Mr. Lamoureux's position was strengthened by the abolition of appeals from Mr. Speaker's rulings and, of course, by his demonstrated good sense in the chair. Nevertheless, his position was not at that time comparable to that of the Speaker in the United Kingdom.

What brought about the change was the fact that Mr. Lamoureux severed his party ties. In the election of 1968 and again in the election of 1972 he stood as an Independent. It was generally understood that, if re-elected, he would be renominated as Speaker. This meant that Mr. Lamoureux had no obligations to a party organization and had not engaged in partisan struggles.

It did not mean that rulings, the effect of which might be to open or close off opportunities to this party or that, always commanded general consent. At times they were unwelcome to the government; at times to the opposition. But whether welcome or unwelcome, they were not suspect on the ground of partisanship because Mr. Lamoureux had placed party behind him.

Mr. Jerome will lack that advantage. It would be unreasonable to criticize him on that account. Voters, in normal course, are extremely reluctant to send independents to the House of Commons. Furthermore, Mr. Jerome could not very well have argued that his situation was unusual; that in effect he was running for the speakership. No agreement existed, and it would be presumptuous to anticipate the will of an unformed House of Commons.

In the absence of any special arrangements regarding the Speakership, Mr. Jerome stood (exactly as Mr. Lamoureux had done in two elections) as a Liberal candidate. What was a help in gaining election — party association — now looms as a handicap to be overcome in his prospective status as an impartial speaker.

Further Reform

If Parliament gained from the authority of the Lamoureux Speakership, which is certainly the consensus, it must be in the interests of Parliament that members should assist a new Speaker in every way to strengthen his position. Mr. Trudeau seemed disposed in the last House to carry reform a step farther — on his motion, after consultation with Mr. Stanfield, a Conservative member, Robert McCleave, was named deputy Speaker.

As the new Speaker will necessarily start at a disadvantage, it is important that there should be unanimity about the choice. An initiative would naturally be expected from the Prime Minister but it ought not to appear to Conservatives and NDP that Mr. Jerome is a Government appointee comparable to one of the new ministers.

It would seem, in these circumstances, that there was nothing to be lost and something to gain in prior consultations with Mr. Stanfield. It is now claimed that there was no such approach. An explanation may clear up the situation, but what is clear is that the prospective Speaker will not be helped if there is initial controversy over the manner of his nomination.

The Bluffs Could Be Called

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — To a newly-revived Cyprus crisis there was added last week the ominous rumbling of a Middle East in ferment. Arabs, Israelis, Russians and Palestinians all agreed there was serious danger of a new Arab-Israel war. It sounded as if the whole Eastern Mediterranean was about to explode.

That could, of course, be the case. But there are reasons to discount some of the worst of the disaster predictions.

For example:

● Greece is much too weak to launch, and long pursue, a war against Turkey. It would go to war only in utter desperation. What Athens needs is something to relieve the humiliation of bowing to Turkish force, not the new humiliation of a major military defeat.

● In Cyprus, what Turkey wants is autonomy for the Turkish-Cypriot population — an objective which stirs broad sympathy. It is Turkey's high-handed methods that have aroused opposition. Different methods would be likely to achieve the objective.

Talking Tough

● A new Arab-Israel war is not as imminent as statements in Tel Aviv, Moscow, Beirut, and Damascus would suggest. The truth is that Mideast diplomacy is nearing a critical juncture, and the participants are talking tough to bolster their bargaining positions.

The Mideast negotiations revolve, at the core, around the Palestinians. Except for Jordan, virtually all Arab states want an early reconvening of the Geneva conference on the Middle East. They want it in order to bring the Palestinians into the peacemaking process.

The difficulty is that to bring guerrilla leaders to Geneva on their terms, as recognized spokesmen for all Palestinians and with the creation of a Republic of Palestine high on the agenda, would be virtually to guarantee that such a Republic would be created and that they would be its rulers.

If there is to be a Republic of Palestine, Israel wishes at the very least to negotiate the terms and conditions of its creation — demilitarization for example — and to seek out Palestinian moderates as possible rulers. No such negotiation would be likely to be fruitful if the result were to be prejudged in preparations for the Geneva conference.

On the Golan Heights

Jordan shares with Israel a distate for a Palestinian state on its borders ruled by men who have long been hostile. Such a state could be a security risk to both Israel and Jordan.

So Israel and Jordan are exploring, and seem likely to agree upon, a restoration of Jordanian administration in selected areas of the West Bank. This step would confirm Jordan's right to govern the people there, who are overwhelmingly Palestinian. It would go far toward re-establishing Jordanian sovereignty over areas that the Palestinian guerrillas want included in their prospective state.

This prospect represents severe pressure on the Palestinians to scale down their demands and negotiate a settlement without attempting to predetermine the result. They do not like the pressure, and are highly critical of people, including President Sadat of Egypt, whom they blame for conniving it.

Presumably to render themselves less disqualified for a place at a peace table, the guerrillas have engaged in little terrorism this summer; but an imminent Jordan-Israel accord might touch off a new wave of it.

That would mean Israeli strikes at guerrilla bases in Lebanon and Syria. Syria and perhaps Egypt would seek to counter-retaliate.

Warnings Given

Anticipating this possibility, each side is warning the other of its strength and making visible preparations which seem intended to intimidate the other. Each is claiming the other is planning war.

Syria has been obtaining a new Soviet arsenal, including (the Israelis say) advanced MIG-23 aircraft. The Palestinians have been buying anti-aircraft rockets. Egypt has undertaken partial call-ups of reserves.

And Israel, pointing to all these preparations, has said they "call for an appropriate deployment" of Israeli forces. This, in turn, has provoked Syrian alarms about Israeli mobilization and a formal Soviet statement of "concern" about possible Israeli attack.

At the core, it is a psychological war. But it is a dangerous game. The talk could become action; the bluffs could be called. It has happened before, and no one can be sure it will not happen again.

Boy Scouts Jamboree

In the past few days I have been proud to read about the second B.C. and Yukon Boy Scouts Jamboree in various articles. As a member of the Boy Scouts of Canada, and as a participant in the Jamboree, I would like to thank you for your interest in our camp. Your publicity has done and will do a lot for Scouting.

In regard to the articles on the camp I have but two complaints. The first complaint is the fact that each article had a different set of figures on the population of the Jamboree, figures that range from 3400 boys to 5,000. The actual boy count was around 3,500, with over 500 adults in leader and service roles. The right figures should have been given to you and your competitors and such figures should have been used each time they were needed.

My second complaint is not against the news media but an answer to Anna Louise Kirton of Sooke, who seems to have a complaint against the Boy Scouts of Canada. This lady seems to be stating a complaint mainly against the provincial and local governments but is using the camp and Boy Scouts as a scapegoat to vent emotion regarding the respective governments.

In Scouting, there is the spirit of friendship and aid to others, with no wish to do any harm. I can not see permission being given for boys to swim in a lake if it would do any harm to the residents in the area. If the water is not sanitary, as it seems not to be, the Boy Scouts are forced to make the water sanitary in the same way as the people living in the area. We may not pay taxes, but we still have the problems of taxpayers.

The lady seems to think that it is a waste of taxpayers' money to help Boy Scouts. I invite her to take a look at what exactly Scouting does and how much good it does for the world.

I do not say that Scouting has no problems, but the problems that we have tend to be solved more quickly because of the spirit of brotherhood. It is Scouting's wish to be part of the community and be of service and not a hindrance.

I disagree that the average working man or woman can not afford to send a boy to camp when over 3,000 boys from across Canada have managed to pay the amount required to come to the Jamboree, an amount of $60 and up. Much of the money was raised by the boys themselves, but I know that a lot of money was shelled out by the parents. Not one boy to my knowledge, at least in my own group, was sent to camp on taxpayers' money.—Stewart A. McLeod, 457 Davida St.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of August 19, 1914

Pope Pius X died at an early hour this morning. The death of his Holiness was not entirely unexpected, as since the commencement of his illness some days ago, when symptoms of his old bronchial affliction occurred, the announcements from the Varican had been less hopeful as each was made. The Pope was 80 years old. The European war, which his Holiness declared to be "inhuman butchery", is said to have caused him great mental suffering and together with the intense heat in Rome continued to depress him. Towards the end the Pope asked for Monsignor Rosa, who remained alone with his Holiness for some time.

Ethnic Groups' 'Mediterranian' Climate Thawing Prim, Stiffnecked Toronto

The Washington Post

TORONTO — This metropolis of English-speaking Canada is not what it used to be. In seven or eight years, it turned itself from the prim and proper chief seat in North America of British Empire Loyalism, with a social life dominated by a stiffnecked clubland, into a community primarily concerned with being what Torontonians call "a people city."

The northern shoreline of Lake Ontario, cold even in the summertime, is deliberately seeing its human climate transformed into a warm Mediterranean one.

The Torontonians attribute the start of the change to the 300,000 Italians who constitute the largest group of "ethnics" in the cultural crazy-quilt that Toronto has become. Their attachment to wine with their food has almost demolished Toronto's near-prohibition and created the kind of sidewalk-cafe culture generally associated with Paris.

Non-Anglo-Saxons have been here for decades. But, as a Torontonian of Greek descent put it, "We have you Americans to thank for the way the city has become. The U.S. immigration laws cut off the large numbers from Italy and Eastern Europe in the late '50s and '60s, so they came here instead." Toronto ceased being a way-station to the U.S.

As the Toronto Star recently put it, "for almost 150 years, Ontario was the preserve of the Loyal Orange Institution, the symbol of the Protestant ascendancy . . . Toronto was regarded as the Belfast of Canada." Now, however, the Italians, Poles, Ukrainians, Portuguese and others constitute at least half of the 700,000 population inside the city limits, and Toronto now has a Catholic majority.

In 1969, thanks in large part to the new immigrants, the opposition at city hall came to power. It was an odd collection of small-socialists, Tory urban conservationists, academics and others opposed to the then-predominant "build and be damned" philosophy of the Toronto establishment embodied in the half-dozen great banks of Canada headquartered here.

"In the late '60s," said Alderman William Kilborn, a member of the city's executive and dean of humanities at Toronto's York University, "Toronto was busily destroying its human scale. We were building more than Los Angeles or New York City. Previous Toronto city administrations measured the health of the city by the number of building permits they issued. You can call it growth and progress or you can call it cancer."

A prime example was University Avenue, a Toronto equivalent of New York's Park Avenue, full of insurance companies, hospitals and other large institutions forming a canyon of tall concrete-and-glass facades with little street life outside of lunch hour and rush hours. Ironically, Kilborn recalls, it was the only place in the city where building was supervised by a special committee on good architectural design.

The University Avenue office denizens flee on their lunch hours to the nearby redolence of Toronto's large Chinatown, with dozens of good Chinese restaurants up and down Dundas Street, the kind of an area developers still have their eyes on. But a controversial city ordinance banning construction more than 45 feet high (four stories) has put a major obstacle in the path of "progress."

Now, there is the Yonge Stret pedestrian mall in the city's main shopping artery. It is full of tubs of flowers, wooden benches, sidewalk cafes and 20-year-olds, their girls and their guitars. It is a place, said one commentator, "where both halves come to see how the other half lives." There is four-year-old Ontario Place, a chic 90-acre waterfront amusement park dominated by a free movie theater shaped like a golf ball several stories high and full of Chinese, German and Irish restaurants and pubs, a children's play village, a huge tent for free concerts by the Toronto Symphony orchestra, yacht facilities and pedal boats for less affluent boating fans, and dozens of wild ducks shepherding down ducklings around the inlets.

The city's small shopkeepers have gotten very much in the spirit, grouping themselves into clusters of boutiques centered around brick courtyards that serve as outdoor cafes and meeting places. Throughout the city there are large, free-standing sculptures, mostly in the style of Henry Moore.

The latest people project is "Harborfront '74," a new concept in transforming an industrial dock area into an urban activities centre.

When the advent of containerized shipping undercut Toronto's role as a major Great Lakes dock-loading centre, the developers rushed to the waterfront to find sites to build high-rent high-rises along the lines of Chicago's Lake Shore Drive. One of the developers, who was getting frozen out of the action anyway, had his civic consciousness stirred and went to the authorities with a proposal to preserve the remaining 86 acres as something other than housing and green spaces for the rich.

The Canadian federal government bought the land for the first in-town national park in years. (Just like the U.S. Interior Department, the Canadian national parks people are more attracted by wilderness sites than by places where people live.)

UNPLEASANT CHOICES SOON TO FACE JAPAN ON AFRICAN TRADE

The London Observer

Japan quietly built up its trade with South Africa to the $1,000 million a year mark before someone started taking notice and complained. Now the Japanese are being backed into a corner under black African pressure and forced to make unpleasant decisions on its relations with the white-ruled republic.

★ ★ ★

Japan is very sensitive and vulnerable to criticism, especially when it is accompanied by threats to the smooth import of vital raw materials. Hence, the Arabs had little trouble last year in persuading the Tokyo Government to take a harder diplomatic line against Israel in return for guaranteed oil supplies.

Now the pressure is coming from black Africa, a region which is beginning to assume considerable importance in the long-term thinking of Japanese trading houses. There is oil, iron ore, uranium, copper and a good many other materials vital to Japanese industry to be tapped as long as good relations continue to exist.

★ ★ ★

And that is no longer assured. Distrust of Japanese motives is mounting, along with harsh criticism of the booming trade with South Africa, including illegal deals with Rhodesia.

The Foreign Ministry is distressed that the Organisation of African Unity (OAU) has chosen Japan as the most notorious "sanctions buster" and that nine complaints of Japanese violations of United Nations economic sanctions against the rebel British colony have been received by the world body so far.

With some feeling a Foreign Ministry official asked: "Why has Japan been singled out for such exposure when many countries, especially in Europe, are dealing with Rhodesia? We have done everything possible to comply with UN sanctions and cannot understand how any trade is continuing, if it is the case. If someone can present us with hard evidence so we can track down the companies involved we will act immediately."

Officially, the Ministry says Government investigations of the sanctions complaints have indicated either they were baseless or "unclarified", a term that has not been satisfactorily explained.

★ ★ ★

The spotlight fell on Japan when discrepancies emerged in figures of this country's imports of South African chrome ore — a vital ingredient in the manufacture of stainless and high grade steel — and South Africa's stated sales to Japan. The inference was that the difference of about 200,000 tons a year was coming from Rhodesia as being of South African origin.

Despite Government denials, it is accepted in steel and ferro-alloy industry circles that high-grade Rhodesian ore is being shipped in an there is some fear at what events in Mozambique — from where all Southern African ore is shipped to Japan — will mean for future supply. Right now half of Japan's annual needs come from Southern Africa.

Japanese cars, textile and electronic goods are also finding their way into Rhodesia, although industry sources claim the goods must somehow be getting there via third countries.

The Rhodesian furore in turn has led to increasing black displeasure at the way Japanese trade with South Africa is growing to the point where it is close to equalling this country's dealings with the rest of the African continent. Although Japan's UN delegates invariably go along with condemnations of apartheid, the Tokyo government has not supported moves to establish trade santions some say because Japanese have been given "honorary white" status in the republic.

★ ★ ★

Japanese companies, however, cannot invest in South Africa under exisiting government rules. One Tokyo newspaper recently claimed that at least 50 companies were disregarding this ban and a London-based, Japanese-owned bank has just been exposed for taking part in a multi-national loan deal to South Africa's Iron and Steel Corporation (Iscor).

Ther is a gradual dawning in business circles that the situation is becoming serious. The powerful Keidanren (Federation of Economic Organisations) — known often as the "shadow cabinet" — has agreed to form a committee with government encouragement to investigate sanctions violations and produce tighter policing procedures.

In a move seen by many as an attempt to divert attention from the trade issue, the Government in June decided to ban sporting, cultural and educational exchanges with South Africa. The Pretoria government was quick to point out that no such exchanges existed, and, of course, businessmen and tourists can still get visas.

Tonga Poised for Clash With Change

By EDWARD REYNOLDS

NUKU'ALOFA, Tonga — Until recently the feudal Tongan system meant food, land and shelter for all. But now the kingdom is poised for a collision with the 20th century and there are Tongan voices saying the clash may be bloody.

Bishop Patelisio Finau, leader of the kingdom's Catholics (most Tongans are Methodists), is one who fears for the future unless the feudal system changes. The 33 nobles who now hold large estates from the crown continue, he says, to commandeer pigs, fowls and crops from the common people—the serfs, he calls them—who meekly hand over produce from their eight and a quarter acre allotments to allow a noble to maintain his reputation for wealth and easy generosity at family and state feasts.

Bishop Finau blames overdevotion to religion for the way Tongans allow the nobles to take their food. Tongans accept the blows of the world in the certain hope of a better life hereafter, he says — and he makes a joke about it: "Our Communist brothers are right, you know. Religion really can be the opium of the masses."

Because of unemployment and poor wages (just under $2.50 a day for a laborer and 40 per cent of last year's graduates without work), many Tongans seek work overseas, chiefly in New Zealand which is now shunting home illegal Tongan migrants. Bishop Finau fears that by sending them back from the comparative freedom of the assembly line New Zealand may be exporting revolution. "All they will need is a leader."

Another Finau, Tomi Finau — no relation — is one of 14 assemblymen. The 94,000 common people elect seven assemblymen; the 33 nobles also elect seven. Six times representatives of the common people have moved for more members. Six times the nobles, reinforced by the cabinet (which the king chooses) have voted the motion down.

The common people's aim has been modest: To increase their representation to give one assemblyman for every 4,000 or 5,000 voters, against the seven men who represent the 33 nobles.

Finau says some nobles employ men in conditions of real serfdom as farm laborers who work without pay in the hope that they may get in a noble's good graces and receive, if one ever becomes available, one of the eight and a quarter acre allotments in his gift.

King Tafa'ahau Topou IV, a giant-sized man who is stricken with painful-sounding breathing difficulties, regularly launches schemes for economic salvation. There is his Dateline Hotel (which provides a handy base for foreign experts writing reports on how aid money should best be spent). There are his plans for an international airline to serve a scattered, poor and sparsely populated region which is already struggling to maintain two airlines; there is his plan to open a bank that would offer secret, Swiss-style numbered accounts in spite of his fellow-shareholders' insistence that the bank will offer no more services than are provided by the suburban branch of an ordinary bank.

The people who deride these schemes say there is no need for such high-flying ingenuity in seeking to improve life in a country where average incomes are about $150 a year in spite of rich soil and the benign climate.

And they point to the schoolrooms of the kingdom where extra ingredients for revolution are being prepared. About half the population is under 15 and many are being educated for non-existent white-collar jobs.

Very soon all of them will be breeding a generation which is likely to be marked even more badly by landlessness and unemployment and the embittered expectations of an education that came to nothing.

Mythology of Schooners

By HARRY BRUCE

LUNENBURG YACHT CLUB, HERMAN ISLAND, N.S. — In a lifetime of worshipping other men's yawls, ketches, cutters and sloops, I have never seen such a pair of beauties. They are wooden schooners. They swoop around one another in a light breeze, just off the club, and I think of the two huge, mythical birds in a sky-high dance of flight.

The American boat, the challenger, is the Agamemnon. She has an elegant clipper bow, a black hull, white trim, and a long, tapered bowsprit, like the sword on a fish. If you count the sword, the Agamemnon is 54 feet long but, on deck she has only 38 feet.

She's 11-years-old, sailed out of Nassau, registered in Florida, built in California along the lines of the classic New England coasters — and, as she slides through the mist towards shore, with the Stars and Stripes fluttering on high, you'd swear she was sailing up out of another century to loot the town. Her ambition, however, is more honorable.

She has already whipped the cream of American wooden schooners in the Great Schooner Race at Gloucester, Mass., and what she's after now is the championship of the annual International Schooner Races near Lunenburg. To get it, she has only to beat Kathi Anne II.

Kathi Anne II is blue and sleek. Her deck is creamy, her trim varnished wood. Overall, she's 46 feet long. She is lighter, slippier, more slender, less serious than Agamemnon. If boats could laugh, Kathi Anne II would laugh more than most.

For a two-year-old schooner, her reputation is already awesome. She was only 17-days-old when she beat Outward Bound, of Dedham, Mass., in these same races, in '73, she beat Amberjack of Needham, Mass., and, in competition against American boats, the margin of her victories has been huge enough to embarrass even her own crew.

Captain Mike Daniels, owner of the Agamemnon, is a British-born architect who spends several months out of each year sailing her up and down the North American coast. He's a tall, lean, charming and youthful-looking man with the air of someone who'd be quite at home at yacht clubs in exotic parts of the world. His cap is rakish and looks like authenic captain's headgear.

Captain David Stevens is not like him at all. He wears a green baseball-style cap. There are no crossed anchors on it, only the words "tree farmer". Stevens will never sail around the world. The schooners he has built take other men to Caribbean shores. These familiar waters, this corner of the country in this province, are the only home he ever wants to know.

He's an old age pensioner, a stubby, agile man who's a trifle shy with strangers. He's a non-smoker, a non-drinker, the beloved grandfather of nine, a master shipbuilder, and the most good-natured man at the helm of a racing sailboat that I've ever met.

For him, the international championship is an excuse for a family picnic on the sea, and his crew today includes sons, daughter, grandsons, a granddaughter (Kathi Anne herself), a son-in-law, old friends, and me. Thirteen in all, and most of us have nothing to do but eat, talk, and revel in the light breezes, the misty afternoon and the exquisite silence of Kathi Anne II's ghosting rush over the ocean's swell.

They talk about cabbages. They talk about sauerkraut, turnips and the pears one of the young boys grows. That kid's pears, David insists, are so juicy you have to wear rubber boots and slicker when you eat them. They talk about old salts they have known, the rum-running days, the hard days of dory fishing, and about whales.

Porpoises lope along beside us, and a power launch — built by Stevens and full of younger Stevens — cheers us on from out starboard beam. And all along that shore, there are parked cars and people at houses and cottages and boatsheds that belong to still more Stevens, and we keep on waving at their waving.

Then a beautiful thing happens. Stevens announces that Kathi Anne II has slipped into a groove in which she is so finely balanced she will sail herself. We go below and when the committee boat pulls near, the race officials see a fully-rigged schooner, with her sails perfectly set, flying over the Atlantic Ocean with no crew.

She heads straight for Tancook Island, where David was born, and, by now, Agamemnon is a mile astern. In the evening, after more than 20 miles and just under five hours of sailing, the sun suddenly shoots down like a searchlight and lights up the whole harbour. A southwest breeze gives Kathi Anne II a burst of sweet strength and she leaps across the finishing line.

Agamemnon crosses about 12 minutes later. She's flying every inch of sail she can hoist and schooners, even in defeat, have a lyrical kind of dignity.

"Beautiful," Captain Daniel shouts over to Captain Stevens. "Beautiful race."

Agamemnon is a lady. Her skipper is a gentleman. He's also a challenger of stupendous odds.

MORE POWER TO THE PROSPECTOR!

We want to help you search for B.C.'s mineral wealth. So we've replaced the outdated Grub-stake Act with the new Prospectors Assistance Act. This is what Prospectors Assistance offers:

1. Grants of $1,000 to $4,000 for exploration; lesser amounts for training.
2. A $1,000 bonus when detailed geological, geochemical or geophysical surveys are made.
3. A guaranteed bonus when diamond drilling is done: 50¢ a foot to 2,000 feet and 25¢ a foot thereafter to a prescribed maximum.
4. The opportunity for part-ownership in any government or government-negotiated development, at no cost to the prospector.
5. Assistance grants and limited government rights pertain to areas specified in the prospector's application only.

Copies of the Prospectors Assistance Act and application forms are available at all Provincial Mining Recorder offices; or write to: The Director of Prospectors Assistance, Department of Mines and Petroleum Resources, 1837 Fort Street, Victoria, B.C.

Rebel Fruit Growers Now Solo

BURNABY (CP) — After a two-year campaign for changes in British Columbia fruit marketing laws, rebel fruit growers now have to put up or shut up.

For the first time in 35 years, a wholesale and retail warehouse has opened to market fruit outside the confines of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., a marketing organization that until May was the only legal selling outlet for fruit growers.

Bert Hume, a professional fruit grower and president of the Okanagan Valley rebel group Allied Growers Ltd. has been behind the organization's sturggle to break what it says was a government-sponsored stranglehold on the Okanagan fruit industry.

"We are now at the stage where we have to put up or shut up," he said in a recent interview.

"We have been saying for two years that our way is the best; that the stranglehold on the industry by the B.C. tree fruits organization is costing the grower money to sell his crops.

"Now that (Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich) has given us the opportunity to opt out of the system and sell the fruit we grow in our own way, we have the chance to show the industry that what we have been saying for the past two years is right."

The warehouse opened here suburb last week and early indications are the growers might just be successful.

M. M. Papan, director of the Carribean trading and shipping corporatioon, the company managing the warehouse said "it's too early to tell how things will work out."

"But first indications are very encouraging. We have been very busy since we opened and the volume is growing every day."

Hume said the benefit to the consumer can be seen immediately.

"Under the established system, applies are sold on the lower mainland for between 29 and 39 cents a pound," he said.

"The grower gets back five cents a pound — but it costs him nine cents to grow that pound of apples. The government makes u most of the loss.

"Under our system, the same-grade pound of applies sells for between 24 and 27 cents a pound. We make a clear profit, after the growing costs have been deducted, of two cents a pound.

"We make a satisfactory profit; the customer gets a cheaper pound of apples — and he doesn't have to pay for his apples twice because there is not government subsidy involved."

In addition to stremlining the price, the organization has also started to change packaging and marketing methods. Hume said the use of a different cover on tapple boxes has already resulted in a substantial saving.

In their crusade for marketing changes, Hume and other allied growers members have challenged Victoria, led a rebel fruit caravan from the Oakanagan to Vancouver to sell fruit directly to the public and spent time in jail.

Last May, the B.C. government said growers who wished to opt out of the established marketing system could do so without penalty.

The fruit marketing agency was formed to prevent a price-war breaking out after the depression. Hume said the system worked for many years, but in the last few years it has failed to meet the changing demands and rising costs of the industry. It has finally resulted in growers being unable to recover their producing costs, he said.

Radioactive Leak Closes Tennessee Lab

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — A research reactor at Oak Ridge National Laboratory remained shut down today while technicians puzzled over how to retrieve a cylinder of radioactive U235 from one of the reactor system's three water pumps.

The cylinder, used in preparing radio isotopes for medical purposes, broke loose Friday from a position near the core of the reactor.

It was swept through the cooling system of the reactor by water under pressure to the pumphouse, where radiation detectors sounded an alarm.

No workers were exposed to radiation, but some offices near the pumphouse were evacuated Friday.

During the weekend, the short-lived radiation components of the object diminished and workers in offices near the pumphouse were allowed to return.

A spokesman for the Oak Ridge National Laboratory said the radiation level at the pump where the cylinder is lodged was too high to approach without some shielding.

Technicians were planning to dismantle another of the pumps to get a look at the system and try to devise the best way of getting at the cylinder of radioactive material.

Ford Rally Flops, Wall Street Gloomy

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

The great Ford rally on Wall Street proved to be a fizzle and the gloom merchants are back in business.

U.S. commentators were counting on a change of presidents to stop the slide of stock prices — but in vain.

Since Ford became president, the Dow Jones industrial index has fallen 53.35 points as of the opening of the market today.

The day Nixon resigned the index fell 12.67 and on Ford's first day as president it fell another 7.58.

Any enthusiasm Wall Street may have had for the change was tempered by indications that inflation was still running wild in the U.S.

Inflation pushes up interest rates and enables investors to make a large amount of money in very safe cash deposits rather than gambling on stock prices. Controlled inflation and moderate interest rates encourage stock investment.

What jolted the market and hampered a Ford rally was the announcement that the U.S. wholesale price index for July was up 3.8 per cent from the previous month.

That worked out to a 19.8 per cent increase on a year-to-year basis. Economists ran the numbers through their formulas for a 12-month basis, seasonally adjusted and said the price increase is the equivalent of a 44.4 per cent boost.

As a result, the Dow Jones has suffered losses for even straight trading days as of the opening this morning.

The Toronto market was just as gloomy, pulled down by the Wall Street slide. The TSE industrial index has ended in a loss every trading day since Ford became U.S. president.

Also pulling down Canadian prices was the report that housing starts are continuing to decline.

At the end of July, Canadian housing starts had fallen to an annual rate of 218,000, down from an indicated 250,000 at the end of June.

The falling trend has been evident since April.

(I the Victoria area housing starts for the first six months were down 12.8 per cent from the same period of 1973. Starts on apartments and other multiple-family structures were down 20 per cent.)

No turnaround in the housing market is expected until restrictions are eased on mortgage loans. There is little money available at any price and there is some indication that interest rates will rise again.

Mortgages for single family homes are at 11.75 to 12 per cent and in very short supply. Funds for second mortgages are also scarce and the interest rate has risen to 15.5 per cent or more.

Mortgages for condominimums are also scarce. There are ample funds for construction of rental apartments but builders have shown little interest in that type of construction in B.C. at this time.

The Bank of Canada is restricting the supply of money for mortgages until there are indications Canadian inflation is under control.

Aluminum Price Up 30% in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Primary aluminum ingot prices in Canada have been raised 30 per cent. Metals and Alloys Co. Ltd. of Toronto, the exclusive distributor of ingot in Canada for Alcan Canada Products Ltd. of Toronto, has announced.

Alcan Canada Products, the marketing and fabricating unit of Alcan Aluminium Ltd. of Monntreal, attributed the price increase to higher costs for such alloying elements as silicon, manganese and copper.

The increase also reflects the ingot shortage in Canada brought about by production difficulties at the company's Arvida, Que., smelter that caused Alcan to declare a six-per-cent force majeure on shipments last week.

Force majeure provisions protect a company from legal action if it is unable to fill contract orders because of circumstances beyond its control. The protection is routinely negotiated by producers in their supply contracts with customers.

An Alcan spokesman said that because of purity deficiencies, high-purity metal sales are currently being filled on an individual order basis, with the customer's price depending on the price Alcan must pay for high-purity ingot to mix with metal now being produced.

Rothmans Earnings Decrease By 34%

TORONTO (CP) — Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd. of Toronto reports consolidated earnings before extraordinary items dropped 34 per cent for the year ending June 30, compared to 1973 results.

Earnings before extraordinary items were $8.9 million or 82 cents a share compared to $13.5 million or $3.67 a share in the corresponding period the previous year.

Rothmans said increased earnings from tobacco operations were offset by operating losses by the company's majority-owned subsidiary, Carling O'Keefe Ltd.

Including extraordinary items, consolidated earnings were $9.6 million or $1.30 a share compared to $15.4 million or $4.86 in 1973.

Sales increased 5.3 per cent to $720.8 million as compared to $684.3 million in 1973. Tobacco sales increased by $29.1 million and Carling O'Keefe sales increased by $7.3 million.

Excluding extraordinary items, Carling O'Keefe incurred a loss of 34.8 cents a share compared to earnings of 18 cents a share in 1973. Including extraordinary items, the loss was 27.6 cents a share compared to earnings of 35.4 cents last year.

AUTO FIRMS EXPECTED TO CUT PRICE HIKES

DETROIT (AP) — Some United States auto industry observers are betting there will be a rollback in the record price increases planned for 1975 models as criticism of the industry's fall prices mounts.

Several analysts for some of the biggest U.S. banks and investment houses say they expect General Motors — just before the new models go on sale in late September — to announce a modest trimming of its previously announced increase.

The increase disclosed earlier this month averaged $500 or about 10 per cent.

If GM, the industry's pricing leader, rolls back prices, the other companies are likely to follow suit, the analysts say.

Ford said last month its 1975 models will go up an average $418, or eight per cent. Chrysler has not indicated how much it plans to raise prices, but a company spokesman said the increase will be similar to GM. The increases come on top of $500 in price increases the Big Three tagged onto each 1974 vehicle since last fall.

GM, which makes about half of all the domestic cars sold in the U.S., came under fire last week from President Ford, who said he was "very disappointed" by the sharp increase planned for the fall.

More Coal Sought By Japan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Spokesmen for the two major coking coal producers in British Columbia say their Japanese customers are asking for increased shipments.

"The Japanese are in short supply of metallurgical or coking coal, said a spokesman for Kaiser Resources Ltd. "They have wanted increased shipments from us, as well as other companies, for some time."

Kaiser, which shipped 2.592 million long tons of coal to 10 Japanese companies in the first half of this year, is Canada's largest coking coal producer.

Last year, Kaiser shipped 4.7 million tons to Japan. The company's contracts call for annual shipments of 4.5 million long tons, plus or minus five per cent. Kaiser's mines are located in southeastern B.C.

Norman Anderson, Fording Coal Ltd. president, also said the Japanese are asking for maximum shipments of coal.

But Fording, 40-per-cent owned and managed by Cominco Ltd., expects to ship only 1.5 million tons of the three million tons it is contracted for this year, said Anderson.

Earlier this year, Fordins production in southeastern B.C. was affected by a two-month strike.

"We're doing our damndest to meet our contractual obligations, but we're behind now, Anderson said.

Stockpiles of coking coal are low on the Roberts Bank Port south of here where the two companies load their coal for Japan.

The Kaiser spokesman said that although a million tons can normally be stored at Roberts Bank, less than 100,000 tons is on hand because of "accelerated shipping".

The Japanese are also reported to be pressing other western Canadian producers for greater coking coal shipments because of declining stocks, labor problems in the United States coking coal fields and some flooded mines in Australia.

Canadians' Cyprus Role Still Bit of a Mystery

By JAMES ANDERSON
Special to The Times

NICOSIA — A truck pulled to a stop in the batter, destrted outskirts of Nicosia. Half a dozen Canadian paratroppers piled out.

"Now be cool," ordered a sergeant. "There is an incident going on here."

Around the corner of an abandoned house, the incident at observation post Mojave dragged on, a mixture of tension and absurdity under the glaring Cyprus sun.

On a low row of sandbags around a six-foot-square gun pit sat two Turkish army majors, negotiating in fragmentary English with three Canadian peacekeepers. Fifteen yards down a slope of loose rubble, an aging Turkish M-47 tank pointed its gun straight at the big blue United Nations flag.

Two more Canadians perched on the tank, one of them leaning casually on its 50-calibre machine gun chatting with the Turkish crew and privately estimated their combat effectiveness.

Three Canadian armored personnel carriers waited on the city side of observation post Mojave. Up on the roof of the nearest house a Canadian was calmly tying a UN flag to a water storage tank.

After half an hour of stalemated talk, the Turkish officers climbed down the slope and the Canadians from the tank climbed up.

Major Keith Courbould turned to Corporal Donald Mackenzie and said: "We know damn well if they really want this hill they can take it, but I want you to keep the OP where it is."

"We'll stay right here unless they park the tank on top of us," said the corporal.

The major surveyed the scene, noting three more Turkish tanks in the fields stretching away to the north. "They've got us in a cross fire," he said.

"I wouldn't worry too much sir, the way I saw them shooting the other day, replied Corporal Mackenzie.

Major Courbould explained "They claim they occupied this position before the ceasefire, but there was no one here when we arrived on Saturday, and it was the obvious place for an OP."

The Canadian job in Cyprus remained a bit of a mystery during the weekend as United Nations troops tried once again to define the boundaries of Greek and Turkish areas after another round of battles.

Captain Ian Nichols, aspokesman for the Canadian contingent, says: "We are waiting for our mission ot be re-defined, because it is obvious that we are not preventing a further outbreak of fighting."

In the alternation of danger and boredom, the off-again on-again war, the long hours of duty, some of the Canadians here are getting a bit fed up.

"They'll start again in a few days," said one member of Lord Strathcona's Horse sitting on an armored personnel carrier at a quiet cross roads.

"I hope they do, because maybe we'll get out of here."

But Corporal Donald Mackenzie his adrenalin surging as he stared down the barrel of a Turkish gun at OP Mojave, was happy. "We are doing our job for a change."

Pot Agent Retards Cancer

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — An agent in marijuana has retarded the growth of cancer in mice and researchers at the Medical College of Virginia are hopeful that it may be helpful in treating human cancer patients.

The findings were announced over the weekend by the Medical college of Virginia. The experiments are described in the new issue of "Science," the Journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The researchers present their findings Wednesday at a meeting of the American Society of Pharmacology and Experimental Theraputics in Montreal.

The college said: "Experimentation conducted . . . demonstrated that marijuana's active molecule, delta-9THC, slowed the growth of lung tumors, amammary tumor, and a virus induced leukemia, and significantly prolnged the life of the animals" inflicted with the illnesses.

The researchers stressed their studies are still in the early stages and said further investigation will be necessary before the marijuana molecule may be used in human beings.

Ojibwas Give Up Arms, Police Line Drops Back

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Residents of this northwestern Ontario town breathed a collective sigh of relief Sunday following a breakthrough in the month-long armed Indian occupation of Anicinabe Park.

The militants surrendered their arms in a gesture of good faith to try and reach a settlement and police withdrew to positions a half mile from the park area.

Both sides agreed to a 10-day negotiation period during which the Indians will continue to have control of the park.

The latest developments followed the arrival in Kenora of Ontario Deputy Attorney-General Frank Callahan and American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Dennis Banks.

Banks, highly respected by militants here, was invited to mediate by provincial officials as a last-ditch effort to avoid using force to oust the Ojibway Warriors Society from the 14-acre park they claim is theirs by legal and historic rights.

The surrendering of their arms to neutral custody appeared, however, to be purely symbolic. There was no sign of the high-powered and semi-automatic weapons much in evidence during the occupation, which began July 22.

Part of the agreement to get substantive negotiations underway included the appointment of 12 Indian negotiators. Those designed are being allowed free movement to and from the park with no fear of arrest.

The 12 all are on a list of 27 militants police consider ringleaders. Some of them wasted no time taking advantage of their freedom, and only hours after the agreement they could be seen enjoying their first legal walk through downtown Kenora in almost a month.

Cameron insisted the laying down of the arms should not be construed as a surrender.

"To believe this would be disastrous," he said in a brief statement after handing over the weapons in the presence of Callahan and Kenora Mayor Jim Davidson.

The mayor, looking weary but relieved, said when the park situation was finally resolved, there still would have to be a lot of work performed for Indians.

"This is a symptom of a condition that should be changed, and I won't be happy until some of the conditions are changed that brought on the demonstrations such as we have had."

The militants say the municipally-operated camping facility, located on the outskirts of this resort town of 11,000, was illegally sold to Kenora by the Indian affairs department in 1959.

For three previous decades, the land was used by Indians as a stopping-off place on the way to and from Kenora.

Other demands involve correction of alleged police harrassment, improved education and employment opportunities, and improvement of other social and institutional measures.

Horner Seeks Support For Non-Socialist Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — Alberta MP Jack Horner says he and his supporters will seek a leadership candidate so the Progressive Conservative party is not faced with choosing between two "socialist Conservatives" at the next leadership convention.

Horner, who describes himself as right of centre, told panelists on the CTV program Question Period that he will organize a group of like-minded people to look for a leader.

"I think it would be dreadful for the Conservative party and for Canada if the leadership race in the Conservative party went down to the wire and we ended up with two socialist Conservatives and guys like me having no choice at all," he said.

The controversial MP for Crowfoot last week sought an early leadership convention but the party caucus supported Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield's proposal to remain as leader for up to two years.

Horner indicated he might leave the party but was later convinced by friends to stay on.

Horne said members of the group he will form will not be drawn from caucus. They will come from all parts of Canada.

Asked to name socialist Conservatives, Horner memtioned MPs Flora MacDonald (PC—Kingston and the Islands) and Joseph Clark (PC—Rocky Mountain).

Horner said the prices and incomes controls program advocated by Stanfield in the July 8 federal election campaign was not a true Conservative policy.

He had fought against it in the parliamentay caucus for months.

The party had missed a great opportunity in the last campaign by not urging that the Quebec language bill be tested in the Supreme Court of Canada.

Batting Drill Yields High Dividends

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. — It's amazing what a little batting practice will accomplish.

Manager Bob Bull and coach Jim Uhren ran Esquimalt-Vic West through a morning batting drill prior to Saturday's final of the Canadian Little League baseball championship tournament and the result was three home runs, a trip to Williamsport, Pa., and an invitation to Washington from the Canadian embassy.

The home runs were instrumental in a two-game sweep by Esquimalt-Vic West over Lethbridge Norcrest Saturday afternoon at Erindale Springfield Park that gave the B.C. club the Canadian title and a berth in the Little League World Series starting today in Williamsport.

The Canadian champs play their first game at 11 a.m. PDT Wednesday against the western U.S. representative. Other teams in the elimination tournament include Athenai Airport of Athens, Greece; Coquivacoa of Maracaibo, Venezuela; Jackson, Tenn., representing the southern U.S.; the Walter (Pop) Smith Little League of New Haven, Conn., representing the eastern U.S.; and Tollmadge, Ohio, representing the central U.S.

Following the week-long tournament at Williamsport, the Esquimalt-Vic West club has been invited to tour Washington.

The B.C. representatives, coming out of the losers' bracket Saturday in the six-team, double-knockout tournament, dumped previously unbeaten Lethbridge 4-1 in the first game. The winners had to overcome a 1-0 deficiit to force a seventh and extra inning in which Jim Sharpe's three-run homer decided the issue.

That forced a second game an hour later and Esquimalt-Vic West had little trouble in scoring an 8-2 triumph behind the four-hitt pitching of Mike Bitten, who struck out 10. The Alberta team got both its runs in thee final inning after the damage was done.

A six-run second inning provided Bitten with more support than he needed. Derrick Sitar led off the rally with a single and Sharpe walked. Third baseman Ben Christie tagged a home run that sent Lethbridge starter Gord Melnyk from the mound. His replacement, Dick Reedyk, fared no better. Paul Richard walked and scored on singles by Guyle Cornett and Mike Bull. Cornett and Bull scored in turn on wild pitches.

Dave O'Brien, winning pitcher in the first game on a six-hitter, completed the Esquimalt-Vic West scoring in the nightcap by blasting a two-run homer in the fourth that finished Reedyk.

The B.C. team fell behind 1-0 in the fourth inning of Saturday's opener, televised nationally, when Clark Bosch scored Reedyk from third on a single up the middle. But Esquimalt-Vic West tied it in the fifth on successive one-out singles by Bull, O'Brien and Bitten as well as a grounder by Sitar which was bobbled by third-baseman Merylen Bunnage, a former resident of Victoria.

Lethbridge nearly scored in the bottom of the sixth when, with two out and a runner on first, Christie threw wide of first on a grounder by Warren Keith. But Sitar, alertly backinng up the play in right field foul territory, got the throw back to the infield in time to hold the runner at third. O'Brien then got Bosch to end the inning on a popup.

Esquimalt-Vic West got its winning runs in the seventh after two were out. Bitten singled over second, Sitar walked and Sharpe belted a 3-1 pitch over the centrefield fence 200 feet away.

The winners got one more super-play in the bottom of the seventh when Bull raced to his left and fell to his knees to grab a line shot to centre by Bunnage.

Pressure obviously didn't bother the B.C. youngsters. In addition to steady pitching by O'Brien and Bitten, the team made only one erroor in 13 innings.

Baker Defence Jells Too Late In Final Game

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

If the solid defence Victoria McDonalds displayed in the third period had been as noticeable in the first two, Richmond Roadrunners' coach Ron Phillips figures the two Pacific Junior "A" Lacrosse League teams might have been heading for a sixth game in their best-of-seven semi-final series.

But it wasn't, and game No. 6 isn't.

The spirited Runners broke a 12-12 deadlock with less than 3½ minutes left in regulation time and carried on for a 14-12 victory Sunday at Esquimalt Sports Centre to wrap up their series in five games.

Phillips singled out Ray Durante, captain Brian Tasker and goalkeeper John Lewis for praise that was obvious in coming. There was a more subtle inference that Victoria's defensive lapses ("We got a couple of good breaks . . . they went for the stick instead of the man . . .") also helped Richmond's cause.

Victoria led 6-5 after the opening period but fell behind 12-11 after the second. But the Bakers didn't give away much in the final period.

Durante's power-play goal at 16:36 was the Runners' first in the final session, but it proved the winner. John Gamble added Richmond's final goal into an open net when Victoria goalkeeper Mickey Micheaux was yanked in favor of an extra attacker.

While Durante's only goal of the night stamped the hold-over forward as one of Richmond's heroes, the brightest lights were Lewis and Tasker.

Lewis made 34 stops compared to 42 turned away by Micheaux, but came up with several key ones in the late going. The biggest, perhaps, was a stop of a Norm Baker shot just moments before Durante crashed through for his winner.

Tasker was the big gun on offense with four goals and three assists. Gamble, Rico Bellusci and Ron Pinder each added a pair while Richmond's other singles went to Tom Penway, Arnie Bye and Mike Solden.

Baker and Kevin Alexander both scored three times for the Macs. Ken King popped in two and the singles went to Dan Ranger, Gord Neilson, Jamie Roberston and Rick Holinshead.

Richmond now meets Burnaby Cablevision in the best-of-seven league final. Burnaby also won its semi-final round 4-1 by thrashing Surrey Salmonbellies 17-5 at New Westminster.

Kelly McLenaghen scored three goals and four assists while Dan Wilson was 3-and-3 to pace Burnaby.

Field Hockey Tie for Munich

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Munich Sportsclub men's team and the President's Festival team tied 1-1 in an exhibition field hockey match Sunday.

The Munich women's team went down in defeat to Vancouver's representative side 2-0.

The Munich men's squad blanked B.C. junior men — 16 and under — 5-0.

In a fourth game Sunday, the men's Canadian national team defeated B.C.'s representative side 3-1. On Saturday, the men's national team defeated the Munich men's team 2-0.

BREAKING AWAY, Victoria Dolphin halfback Kerry LaCroix (20) racks up good gain against Vancouver Blue Bombers in early action during Sunday's Big Four Junior Football League game at Royal Athletic Park. Bombers made better gain, however, when they struck for two fourth-quarter touchdowns to defeat Dolphins 19-5.

One Bomb Enough

The best thing Vancouver Blue Bombers had going for them Sunday was a ground game.

So it turns out that the pass they ignored all afternoon was the crusher that led to a 19-5 victory over Victoria Dolphins in their Big Four Junior Football League meeting at Royal Athletic Park.

A well-executed 70-yard pass-and run "bomb" from quarterback Tony Shimizu to halfback Bob Hallam was the tide-turning touchdown that sent Dolphins down to their second straight loss.

It was only the second pass Vancouver quarterbacks completed during the afternoon. Blue Bombers threw the ball only five times and generally placed their faith in a strong ground game that racked up 282 yards.

Victoria quarterback Laurie Garrett displayed more versatility by trying 26 passes. He completed nine for 86 yards, and Dolphins managed 137 yards on the ground.

But the versatility of Victoria's attack seemed to be missing once the Dolphins came within 20 yards of the Vancouver goal line. They failed to finish several good mid-field marches.

It was a well-played game. Victoria led 1-0 on Barry Stewart's 45-yard single in the first quarter. Vancouver tied it before the half on a single by Doug Low but the Dolphins went ahead 4-1 on Theo Vandenberg's 15-yard field goal late in the third quarter.

It was Vancouver's game thereafter. Tom Watson scored on a four-yard plunge on the last play of the third quarter. Hallam's "bomb" and a 10-yard romp by Dave Blanchard for another major wrapped it up in the final quarter.

Victoria's other point was scored by Vandenberg when a 25-yard field goal try in the final quarter was wide but went for a single.

Blanchard and Darrell Hall were the big men in Vancouver's attack. Blanchard picked up 99 yards in 13 carries while Hall gained 57 in seven carries.

Sean Flynn, with 59 yards in 13 carries, and Kerry LaCroix, with 31 in seven carries, were Victoria's standout.

Dolphins are scheduled to play Vancouver Meralomas in Victoria next Sunday.

Esquimalt Wins But Oilers Lose

Esquimalt Teamsters came up winners while Victoria Island Pacific Oil was nudged in the clutch during B.C. intermediate lacrosse playoffs at the weekend.

Teamsters collected the provincial "B" title Saturday by completing a sweep of a best-of-three series with a 14-12 win over Richmond Pirates at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Oilers forced a deciding game in their best-of-three series by beating New Westminster Salmonbellies 11-9 Saturday but then dropped a 16-8 decision in the "rubber" match Sunday.

Doug Angrove and Bob Derraugh led Teamsters with three goals each while double tallies were recorded by Jeff Whitney-Griffiths and Randy Bryant.

The Art Green-coached Teasmsters won the opener 13-12 last weekend in Richmond.

Cam Marshall and Tej Labh led the Oilers' victory Saturday with three goals each while Mark Shoor topped Victoria scoring Sunday with two goals. Despite scoring only onee Sunday, Labh played an outstanding game.

Mark Tuura led the final New Westminster win with five goals and two assists.

Victoria goaltender Doug Beech, who made a total of 158 saves during the series, was picked as the most valuable player.

Frankfurt Tops

DUESSELDORF (AP) — Eintracht Frankfurt defeated Hamburger SV, 3-1, in extra time Saturday to win the West German Soccer Federation's DFS Cup.

Burrards Get Jump In WLA Playoffs

RICHMOND (CP) — Vancouver Burrards defeated Coquitlam Adanacs, 16-10, Saturday in the first game of the Western Lacrosse Association best-of-five semi-final series before 1,121 fans.

Vancouver took advantage of a slack Coquitlam defence in the second period to score nine goals and break up an otherwise close game.

Second game will be Tuesday in Coquitlam.

Veterans Ross McDonald and Bob Salt scored three goals each for Vancouver, while junior player Harry Powless, picked up from the Coquitlam J-Hawks, also scored three goals. Other Vancouver scorers were Bill Rawson, Rick Ornar, Mike Smith, Ward Sanderson, Nick Delmonico, Doug Hayes and Steve Matheson.

Jerry Pinder scored three goals for Coquitlam, while Dennis Nagy added two. Singles went to Jim Aitchison, Doug May, Dave Durante, Don Cameron and John Allen.

Record Broken In Swimming

VIENNA (Reuter) — East Germany's Ulrike Tauer set a world record of two minutes, 18.97 seconds in the final of the women's 200-metre individual medley at the European swimming championships here Sunday.

The previous record of 2:20.51 was set last year by Andrea Hubner, also of East Germany. Miss Hubner finished second Sunday with a time of 2:23.97.

Teamsters Take B.C. Crown

SURREY — Esquimalt Teamsters earned a berth in the Canadian junior "B" lacrosse championship in Halifax this weekend by squeezing out two "skin-of-the-teeth" victories during the three-team, single-loss elimination provincial tournament here Saturday and Sunday.

Steve Buckley scored his second goal of the game at 18:41 of the third period Sunday to give Teamsters a 13-12 not over Port Coquitlam Saints in the championship final.

In the opening game on Saturday, John Entzminger hammered in his second goal of the game with barely 21 seconds left to play and gave Esquimalt a 10-9 decision over Prince George Sabres.

Kim Browning topped Teamster Marksman Sunday with three goals while Brian McKinnin, Rick LaPointe, Ross McKinstry, Dale Roberts, Gerry Cadwallader, Darrell Deane, Doug Andro and Lance Hobbs added singles.

LaPointe fired four goals to lead the scoring for Teamsters on Saturday while Roberts added two and singles were contributed by Deane and Browning.

Only 12 minutes in penalties were assessed each team in the cleanly-played final. Allan Radley blocked 48 shots for Esquimalt while Rick Reloff stopped 32 shots in the Port Coquitlam net.

Saints reached the final by defeating Vancouver Junior Burrards 13-10 in the other Saturday game.

Burrards went on to beat Sabres 13-12 in the consolation final.

City Soccer Clubs Back in Business

"We have decided to take the bull by the horns."

Gordon Gloster of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Soccer League, confirmed late Sunday night that the two Victoria entries in the league — Gorge and London Boxing Club — would definitely be playing in the senior circuit this season.

He said the two clubs had been informed by the Vancouver Island Soccer League, which had been trying to absorb them into its top division, that they could enter the B.C. League providing they didn't use any Island facilities.

And therein lies the loophole.

The VISL has no real say over who uses the city-owned Royal Athletic Park.

"I think the time has arrived for us to stand up to the indignities that have been handed us in the past months," Gloster said in reference to the infighting which has occured between his league and the VISL over the question of where the two senior Victoria clubs were to play.

"Those clubs belong in the top echelon of soccer in B.C.," he added.

"It gives the younger players on the Island something to shoot for . . . and the fans something to look forward to."

Gloster went on to explain he wasn't knocking the calibre of soccer on the Island but noted one or more Victoria teams have always played in a senior league involving mainland teams.

As part of his plan to go ahead with plans, Gloster has informed Gorge and London Boxing Club to consider themselves part of the league this season and has received confirmation from Jack Morgan, director of community recreation services for the City of Victoria, that Royal Athletic Park is being held for home matches of the two clubs.

Canadians Share Lead In Tourney

By The Canadian Press

Canada and Nicaragua shared first place Sunday in group one with opening-round victories during the weekend in an international youth soccer tournament involving 12 countries.

The top team from three groups will qualify for semi-final round-robin play next week with the best two advancing to the final of the confederation of North-Central American and Caribbean soccer association tournament Sept. 1 in Toronto.

Games are being held in several Ontario centres.

Canada beat Bermuda 4-1, Saturday before 3,241 fans in Toronto while Nicaragua edged the Dominion Republic 2-1 Sunday in Oshawa. In group two games at Ottawa, Mexico blanked Puerto Rico 16-0 Saturday and Costa Rica tied Trinidad 1-1.

In Sunday's group three games, the United States downed Guatemala 2-1 at London and Cuba shaded Jamaica 1-0 in Sudbury.

The tournament is for players age 15 to 19.

Bruce Miller, an 18-year-old striker from Vancouver, scored three goals in succession to lead Canada to victory. Outside left Carmelio Barbieri of Toronto got the other Canadian goal. Barbieri also set up two of Miller's goals.

A parade preceding the Canada-Bermuda game was led by Pele, outstanding internatoinal soccer star from Brazil.

Esks Expect Earthy Date

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos will be looking for revenge in their first regular-season CFL game with Ottawa Rough Riders since the 1973 Grey Cup clash.

But from all indications, the play in tonight's nationally-televised game will be cautious and literally down-to-earth.

"To beat Ottawa, we're going to have to keep control of the ball, and keep from making mistakes," says Edmonton quarterback Tom Wilkinson.

And Tom Dimitroff, Rider assistant coach, said Ottawa would concentrate less on the long pass that contributed to a 27-14 win over Montreal Alouettes last Tuesday.

"If we keep throwing that thing out West against some of the deefnsive backs they have — guys like Larry Highbaugh, speed guys" we won't do anything," said Dimitroff.

Instead, Ottawa will emphasize its powerful running-back team of Jimmy-Lee Evenson and Art Green. The pair is considered one of the best one-two combinations in the Eastern Football Conference, with Evenson a middle runner and Green an outsile speedster.

"If you can establish a solid running game, you're in good shape," said Rider coach George Brancato.

Observers and players called Ottawa's last match with Montreal one of the most physical games in recent CFL history, and Eskimos are preparing for a similar bout.

"They seem to win by big plays offensively and great over-all efforts defensively," said Edmonton coach Ray Jauch. "They always try to intimidate us."

"From a physical standpoint, we have to be more ready to play this one than any other. We have a few people who have memories of that Grey Cup game.

"I think most of us look at Ottawa as tougher than any other eastern team," added Wilkinson.

The Eskimos have won two of three games so far this season while the Riders, who started with consecutive losses, have battled back into a second-place EFC tie with Toronto Argonauts.

The game will be televised on the full CBC network.

Spill Kills Rider

CHESTER, W.Va. (AP) — Jockey Jimmy Hathaway, 23, one of the leading riders at Waterford Park Race Track, was killed Saturday night when he was thrown from his mount in the fifth race and trampled by a trailing horse.

Playoff Hope Brighter In Maryland

LANDOVER, Md. (CP) — Maryland Arrows clinched at least a tie for a playoff berth Sunday night when they defeated Rochester Griffins 12-9 in a National Lacrosse League game.

The victory moved the Arrows into third place, two points ahead of Montreal Quebecois and eight ahead of fifth-place Toronto Tomahawks. Four teams qualify for the NLL playoffs.

NLL scoring leader Paul Suggate had two goals and two assists, bringing his season's total for the Arrows to 109 goals and 112 assists in 37 league games.

Rick McKenna added three goals and Pat Ryan two for the Arrows. Greg Marchen, Wayne Granger, Jerry McKenna, Ken Henderson and Gord Keates added a goal each.

Dave Wilfong and Graeme Gair scored two goals each for Rochester, with Kevin Parsons, Al Gordaneer, Brian Wilson, Len Powers and Brian Keegan adding singles.

CASTAWAYS DRAW DESPITE CENTURY

With a little help from Alcos, Albion gained more ground atop the Victoria and District Cricket Association standing following play at the weekend.

Third-place Alcos held runner-up Castaways to a draw Sunday at Beacon Hill Park after Albion had posted a four-wicket decision over host Cowichan on Saturday. Albion now leads Castaways by five points.

In another Sunday match, Incogs battered Oak Bay by 54 runs at Windsor Park.

Dave Shaw batted a century with 100 not out to lead Castaways to a total of 188 runs for five wickets declared. John Moss (51 not out) and Bryan Rudgard (24 not out) then led Alcos to 103 for three.

Cowichan batted first and was all out for 110 runs with Peter Lord counting 31 while Albion bowler Don Hughes took six wickets for 54 runs. albion then ran up 111 for six behind Alan Carter's 22 runs.

Jim Wenman rang up 48 runs to lead the way as Incogs declared at 137 for six and Oak Bay's Kortwright Richards toppled three for 18. Oak Bay was all out at 83 with Peter Downs contributing 32 not out.

SPORTS SHORTS

Athans Tops All Divisions

George Athans of Montreal won his 10th Canadian water-ski championship Sunday, in Ottawa, leading the pack in every division of the men's competition — slalom, figures and jumping.

The 22-year-old water skier, twice world champion, had a point total of 4,005. His brother Greg of Kelowna placed second with 2,994 points.

George picked up 1,173 points on 49 buoys in the slalom, 1,324 points in the figures and 1,508 points in the jumping for his total. His best jump was 167 feet, eight feet better than Greg, who had the second-best jump at 159 feet.

Pat Messner of Ottawa won the women's title with 2,441 points, edging Helen Gregoire of Hull, Que., who had 2,381.

Miss Messner led in the slalom and figures with scores of 949 points and 835 points, respectively, but was fourth in the jumping with 657 points. Her best jump was 93 feet, while Miss Gregoire turned in the top jump at 108 feet.

Beth Hatt of Nova Scotia was third in the women's with 1,115 points and Pat Cody of British Columbia was fourth with 1,070 points.

In Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Taiwan, behind superb pitching that produced the team's fourth consecutive shutout victory, defeated San Antonio, Tex. 2-0 Saturday to win the big-league division title in the Little League World Series.

Morgan Fades in the Wind And Panasiuk Breezes In EDMONTON (CP) — It was almost a formality Sunday as Bob Panasiuk matched par 71 in the final round to win the $10,000 Alberta Open golf championship by four shots over his three closest rivals.

Sparked by an opening-round 65, Panasiuk carded 206 for 54 holes over the par-71 Derrick Golf and Winter Club course to collect $2,000 and the Peter Jackson ring.

He now has won $15,077.50 in seven tournaments and leads his closest rival, Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., by more than $4,000 in total earnings.

"It was a tough day for everybody," said Panasiuk, outspoken Windsor, Ont., shotmaker who almost constantly talks about the value of positive thinking.

"I never enter a tournament I can't win," he said. "The only time I admit I can't win is when I've left the last green in the last round and my score isn't good enough."

He entered the final round with a one-shot lead over his two closest rivals, James Barker of San Antonio, Tex., and John Morgan of Victoria, and stretched the margin easily.

At one time, early in the front nine, Morgan led Panasiuk by one shot and Barker was within reach at seven under par, equal to Panasiuk's closing total.

But both faded in the gusty wind while John Kindred of Sarasota, Fla., turned in an impeccable closing 68 to tie them for second spot at 210. Each of the second place finishers won $1,100.

Tied in fifth spot, one shot behind, were Bill Tape of Kitchener, Ont., and Steve Groves, of Lancaster, Ohio, who won $550 each.

The wind, which at times reached 25 miles an hour on the 6,581-yard course, claimed several well-regarded victims, including promising Dan Halldorson of Brandon, Man., and Gene Mixon of Pittsburgh, Calif., both of whom finished out of the money.

They struggled to shocking 86s on the well-trapped layout. Both had trouble judging the wind and could not recover on the greens.

Kindred's 68 was matched only by Rick Sprouse of Fallbrook, Calif. as only five players beat par on the final day.

Perhaps the most disappointed competitor was Dave Barr of Kelowna, B.C. who finished with one over par 72 for 212 and won $400.

He blistered the front nine in 32, four under par, but faded to 40 coming home.

Dave Stockton's Red Hot Rounds Set Tour Marks

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Dave Stockton fired a two-under-par 69 for a four-stroke victory Sunday in the Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open golf tournament.

Stockton, the leader all the way, set tour records for the season with his scores of 130 for two rounds, and 199 for three rounds. His 72-hole total of 268 has been bettered only once this season.

He had only two bogeys for the week and finished 16 under par on the Wethersfield Country Club course, a 6,598-yard layout that was drenched with about two inches of rain Saturday night.

Lee Trevino started the warm, hazy day alone in second — three shots back of Stockton and was the only man who had an opportunity to catch him.

That chance quickly disappeared as Stockton birdied the first hole from 10 feet and Trevino three-putted from 10 feet on the fourth hole and missed from two feet two holes later. That gave Stockton a five-shot lead.

Ray Floyd's fast finish—he had a final-round 66—made him a runner-up for the third time this season. He had a 272 total.

Ray Floyd's fast finish—he had a final-round 66—made him a runner-up for the third time this season. He had a 272 total.

Bob Wynn holed a bunker shot for a birdie on the 17th hole and claimed third alone at 70-273.

Plate Power Puts Pair In Finals

Century Inn and Royal Oak Sporting Goods came up with the telling power at the plate Sunday to move into a pair of men's softball finals.

Century, the pennant winners, won three straight games from Port Angeles Telecable at Central Park to advance to ther Stuffy McGinnis League final. Port Angeles had won the first two games in the best-of-five semi-final last weekend.

Royal Oak, one of the lightest-hitting teams in the league, unloaded 14 hits at Heywood Avenue Park to defeat Mike's Sports Shop 6-4 and capture the district's berth in the provincial senior "C" final at Port Alberni.

Mike's carried the district playdowns to the wire by defeating Royal Oak 8-1 earlier in the day. It was Royal Oak's first loss in the double-knockout competition.

Rick Bate banged out four straight singles and Mike Wallace went three-for-three to pace Royal Oak's attack in the sudden-death finale. Pitcher Ken Fox and Terry Hoy each added two hits.

Century, in humbling Port Angeles 13-2, 17-0 and 5-0, banged out 33 hits in 17 innigs they batted. Their total included a pair of homers by catcher Terry Oscarson and solo blasts by Harry Strukoff and Wally Popoff.

Century Inn will meet the winner of the Seaboard-Sooke semi-final. That best-of-five set, with Seaboard holding a 2-0 edge, resumes tonight at Central Park, starting at 6:45.

In an exhibition game at Heywood, B.C. champion Bate Construction blanked the McGinnis League all-stars 4-0 Sunday.

Ex-AAU Boss Dead at 71

MONTREAL (CP) — Morris Bruker, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in the early 1950s, died Sunday. He was 71.

Bruker also served as president of the Canadian Association for Health and Physical Recreation in the 1940s and from 1965 to 1967 he was executive director of the Canadian Symposium of Recreation.

A funeral service will be held Tuesday.

A Jim Dandy Win

CHEMAINUS — Jim Rutledge of Cedar Hill, the 14-year-old Victoria junior champion, captured low gross honors and led his club to the team title in the Mount Brenton junior invitational tournament here Saturday.

Rutledge won the MacMillan Bloedel Trophy by two strokes over Jeff Hagg of the host club by carding a four-over-par 109 during the 27-hole affair.

The Cedar Hill squad of Rutledge, John MacMillan and Darryl Pynn combined for a 231 total to beat Gorge Vale by four strokes.

Greg Boylan of Port Alberni and Ian Hyde-Lay of Cowichan tied for 18-hole low-gross laurels at 77 but Boylan was declared the winner.

Handicap division winners were MacMillan (under 10) and Bruce Harper of Nanaimo (11-and-over) while Ed Beauchemin of Gorge won an 18-hole competition for golfers aged 15 or under.

Laurie Valleau won the girls' low gross prize.

JoAnne Prevails

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Jo-Anne Carner survived a brief charge Sunday by teenager Laura Baugh to win the $35,000 St. Paul Open golf tournament with a 54-hole, seven-under-par 212.

She watched a six-stroke lead off the front nine shrink to three before rallying to finish the day with a one-over 74 and a four-stroke victory.

Sandra Post, formerly of Oakville, Ont., was in second place after the tournament's first two rounds, but soared to a 75 Sunday for third with a 218.

First Golf Win In Three Tries

SEATTLE (AP) — Cindy Hill won the 74th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Tournament Saturday. It was her third trip to the finals in five years but her first victory.

The 26-year-old Colorado Springs, Colo., golfer played the final 14 holes two-under-par at the Broadmoor Golf Club to beat defending champ Carol Semple of Sewickley, Pa., 5 and 4, in the windup scheduled for 36 holes.

Champ Repeats

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Bill Kozak of Niagara Falls, Ont., successfully defended his Canadian Professional Golfers' Association senior title Sunday with an even-par 70 for a 54-hole total of 216.

The 52-year-old host professional at the Westbrook Golf Club in Welland, Ont., beat 55 other competitors with rounds of 73-73-70. Second-round leaders Al Balding of Toronto and Bill Kerr of Pointe Claire, Que., both had trouble off the tees on the 5,998-yard Galt Country Club course.

Balding soared to a final-round 80 for sixth place with a 223 total.

ONTARIO GIRL TOP JUNIOR

EDMONTON (CP) — Stacey West of Thornhill, Ont., birdied the first extra hole Saturday to capture the Canadian womens junior golf championship in a playoff with Debby Stewart of Long Beach, Calif.

The pretty 15-year-old, who flirted with danger as she drove down the left side of the 435-yard, par-five hole, played a perfect five-iron shot to the green with her second and lagged her putt to within inches. She tapped in for a birdie, her third in four days on the opening hole.

Stewart, also 15, missed by a fraction with a 12-foot birdie attempt that would have prolonged the match. She missed a five-foot putt on the 18th hole for a bogie that left her tied with West at 241.

Paula Phillips of Vancouver was the top B.C. finisher, ending in a ninth-place tie with Diane Doland of Quebec at 252. Jill Badger of North Vancouver carded a 253 while Sydney Thompson of Victoria shot an 88 in the final round for a 259 total. The Royal Colwood miss ended in 19th place.

Another Victoria golfer, Kathryn Little, withdrew after shooting 96 and 98 on the first two days.

SHARKS SHOW CLOSING BITE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coquitlam Sharks, trailing most of the way in spite of a four-gold medal performance by 14-year-old Tammy Wirick, turned on the power in free-style relays Saturday night to successfully defend their B.C. Summer Swim Association provincial championship.

The North Shore Winter Club Marlines of North Vancouver gave the Sharks a stiff battle, leading until the final 12 of the 80 events which brought together nearly 900 swimmers from 53 clubs in eight BCSSA regions in the two-day championship.

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — Three Canadian national age group records were set Saturday in the Far Western Swimming Championships.

Clark Van Dermye of Prince Rupert set a record in the 11-and-12-year-old boys' 200-metre freestyle with a time of 2:13.3. He bettered the time of Robbie Baylis of Vancouver, 2:15.1 in the heats. The previous record was 2:17.3.

Van Dermye also set a record in the 11-and-12-year-old boys' 50-metre butterfly with a time of 0:31.1.

In the boys' 11-and-12-year-old 400 metre freestyle relay, the Dolphin swim club of Vancouver knocked 11 seconds off the previous record with a time of 4:21.9.

Injury-Plagued Leeds Makes Humbling Start

LONDON (CP) — Champion Leeds United slid to humiliating defeat while First Division newcomer Middlesbrough and Carlisle United roared to impressive away victories on the first day of the new English League soccer season Saturday.

Leeds, under new manager Brian Clough but without several stars because of injury or suspension, crashed to a 0-3 defeat against Stoke City, the team that ended its 29-match unbeaten run last season.

John Mahoney put Stoke ahead in the 50th minute with Jimmy Greenhoff, a former Leeds player, and John Ritchie completing the demolition with two goals in the last six minutes.

Middlesbrough, back in the First Division for the first time for 20 years, crushed Birmingham City, 3-0, and Carlisle, making its debut in the top bracket, upset Chelsea, 2-0.

The new season began in violent fashion when hundreds of Manchester United fans clashed with police before the Second Division match with Orient. After order had been restored, United won, 2-0, in its first match in the Second Division for 36 years.

Liverpool, runner-up to Leeds last season and favorite to win the title this season for a record ninth time, won, 2-1, against Luton Town, another promoted team. Barry Butlin headed Luton into the lead, but Tommy Smith and Steve Heighway scored to make the points safe for Liverpool.

Chelsea was still admiring its new $4.8 milllion stand when Carlisle took the lead after only 106 seconds — the first goal of the new season. Bill Green was the scorer and Les O'Neill wrapped up the victory with another goal in the second half.

In Scotland, Celtic and Rangers both gained league victories against Dundee teams. Rangers beat Dundee, 2-0, with goals from Sandy Jardine and Graham Fyfe while Jacky McNamara netted a spectacular goal to give Celtic a 1-0 victory over Dundee United.

$16,000 Win for Vilas

TORONTO (CP) — Hard-hitting Guillermo Vilas overpowered Manuel Orantes 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, Sunday to win the men's singles crown in the $130,000 Canadian Open tennis tournament.

The victory over his doubles partner was worth $16,000 for Vilas, the leader over Orantes in international grand prix standings.

Orantes, who earned $8,000 for making his second losing appearance in the best-of-five sets singles final in two years, simply couldn't match the smouldering groundstrokes that Vilas hit from the baselines.

Saturday, Vilas set up the Spanish-speaking final between the two left-handers by beating second-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands, 7-5, 6-2.

Spaniard Orantes, the fifth seed, eliminated Juan Gisbert, his Davis Cup doubles partner, 6-1, 6-2.

Chris Evert, meanwhile, upstaged her sweetheart Jimmy Connors—who was beaten by Gisbert in the third round—by trouncing Julie Heldman of the U.S. 6-0, 6-3 for the women's singles title, which was worth $6,000.

Miss Heldman, 28, who won this title back in 1965 with a victory over Canada's Faye Urban, had moderate success with lobbing tactics in the final set but she started too late.

Miss Heldman picked up another $1,000 when she and Gail Chantreau of France defeated the Everts-Chris and Jeanne—6-3, 6-4 for the women's doubles crown.

In men's doubles, Orantes and Vilas triumphed 6-1, 2-6, 6-2 over the West German duo of Jurgen Fassbender and Hans Pohman. The victory was worth $6,000 for the winning team and the losers divided $3,500.

U.S. Tennis Player Lives Up to Billing

COWICHAN — Al Stultze of Seattle lived up to his top ranking in the men's singles by collecting the crown and shared in a doubles title as play wrapped up in the Pacific Northwest tennis championships here Saturday.

Stultz downed Billy Hoover of Dallas, Texas, who is playing in Victoria for the summer, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4 in singles play and teamed with Peter Popadopolous of Seattle for a 6-4, 6-4 win over Roger Skillings and Ernie Cockayne of Victoria in the doubles final.

In the semi-finals, Stultze topped Popadopolous 6-7, 6-4, 6-4 while Hoover advanced with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Jeff Harris of Courtenay.

Satellite Tour Won By Aussie

SPOKANE — Steve Docherty of Australia emerged as the points champion after winning the final event on the Western Satellite Circuit tennis tour here Saturday.

The tall teaching professional downed Steve Messmer of Los Angeles 6-3, 6-2 in the men's singles final to record his second win of the tour, which included the B.C. Open in Victoria earlier this month.

Docherty finished with 30 points, two more than Messmer. Both players gain automatic entry into the 128-man main draw of the prestigous U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y., later this year.

Chip Fisher of Palo Alto, Calif., the winner in Victoria, finished third in tour standings with 22 points while Tim Gullikson, another American, finished fourth with 19. Both gain entry into the U.S. Open qualifying round.

Most NFL Vets Back But Fans Stay Away

By the Associated Press

Most of the veteran players were back for the weekend's National Football League exhibition games, but a lot of fans still weren't showing up.

There were only 5,184 fans in Seattle to watch St. Louis Cardinals bomb San Diego Chargers 48-14 while 17,000 tickets were refunded in San Francisco, where Denver Broncos downed the '49ers 10-3.

In other Sunday games, Buffalo Bills edged Washington Redskins 16-15 and New England Patriots beat New Orleans Saints 7-3.

In Saturday games, Los Angeles Rams bombed Kansas City Chiefs 58-16, New York Giants beat New York Jets 21-13, Pittsburgh Steelers downed Philadelphia Eagles in overtime, 33-30, Baltimore Colts trounced Cleveland Browns 37-3, Cincinnati Bengals trimmed Atlanta Falcons 13-7 in overtime, Green Bay Packers defeated Chicago Bears 20-10 and Dallas Cowboys upended Houston Oilers 19-13.

The sparse crowd in Seattle watched as the Cardinals scored four second-quarter touchdowns Sunday, including two by hometown hero Terry Metcalf.

Randy Gradishar, Denver's star linebacker, intercepted a pass and ran 83 yards for a touchdown with four minutes remaining to provide the margin of victory for the Broncos.

The crowd of 29,908 was the smallest for the '49ers since their move to Candlestick Park three years ago.

Buffalo slipped by Washington on John Leypoldt's 52-yard field goal with five seconds left in the game and second-year fullback Sam Cunningham scored the game's only touchdown in New England's win over New Orleans.

Saturday, Kansas City was helpless before the onslaught of Los Angeles veterans led by Jim Bertelsen, Lawrence McCutcheon and new offensive star Cullen Bryant, a former defensive back, who rushed for 117 yards and a touchdown.

Rookie running back Doug Kotar ran 69 yards with a screen pass for one Giants' touchdown and 13 yards for another before only 35,431 fans at the Yale Bowl in New Haven.

Roger Staubach scored from the two-yard line during a sudden death period to climax a come-from-behind victory for Dallas. He put the Cowboys into a tie when he connected on a 23-yard touchdown pass to Ron Howard with 20 seconds left in regulation time.

The Bengals also had to go into overtime to capture their third straight victory. Wayne Clark connected with John McDaniel on a 60-yard touchdown pass for the winning margin.

Joe Gilliam brought the Steelers downfield to set up a Roy Gerela field goal which gave Pittsburgh an overtime victory.

OUT AGAIN: New York Yankee pitcher Mel Stottlemyer was placed on 21-day disabled list Sunday for second time this season due to sore shoulder.

We Needed That—Wynn

By The Canadian Press

Los Angeles outfielder Jim Wynn says the 10-3 thumping the Dodgers suffered Sunday at the hands of Pittsburgh Pirates may be just what his team needed.

The Pirate victory also came in handy for Cincinnati Reds in baseball's National League West pennant race.

While the Dodgers were suffering their sixth consecutive setback, the Reds were edging New York Mets 6-5 to climb within 2½ games of the first-place Dodgers.

The Dodgers' margin is their smallest since they led Houston by two games on May 9 and it's the closest the Reds have been since they trailed by three games way back on April 26. They were 10½ out as recently as mid-July.

Elsewhere, St. Louis Cardinals downed San Francisco Giants 4-1, Philadelphia Phillies turned back Atlanta Braves 7-4, Houston Astros blanked Montreal Expos 3-0 and Chicago Cubs clobbered San Diego Padres 14-6.

"Maybe this is what we need. Maybe getting our pants knocked off will get us going," Wynn theorized after the Pirates pounded out 17 hits, the most against the Dodgers this season, including home runs by Bob Robertson and Richie Zisk.

Dodgers have scored only 11 runs in their six-game slide — actually, they've dropped nine of 11—and the reason is clear to manager Walter Alston.

"The only way I can explain it is that the same guys who have been leading the league in run production just aren't doing it any more," he said. "I kept telling you guys at the beginning of the season when everything was going right that there'd be days like this."

Sunday's assault against Geoff Zahn and three relievers also included two doubles by Robertson, one apiece by Zisk and Rennie Stennett, a two-run single by Willie Stargell and seven-hit pitching by Larry Demery and Dave Giusti.

The Pirates, who have won 11 of their last 13 outings, are tied with Philadelphia for second place in the National League East, 2½ games behind St. Louis.

The Reds nailed down their triumph when Dave Concepcion blasted a tie-breaking three-run homer off Jon Matlack in the seventh inning following an intentional two-out walk to Tony Perez.

Although Luis Tiant didn't exactly pitch well enough to win his 19th game in the American League, he did get the victory. Steve Busby did pitch well enough for his 19th win, but got a loss instead.

Tiant was tagged for 11 hits in 7 1-3 innings Sunday and sent packing when Minnesota Twins scored six runs in the eighth inning of their American League game.

By then, though, Boston had given the veteran right-hander an eight-run cushion. So the Red Sox held on for a 9-6 triumph and Tiant became the only pitcher in the major leagues with 19 victories.

Busby, meanwhile, pitched a six-hitter against Baltimore — but the fifth hit was Paul Blair's double in the ninth inning and the sixth was Brooks Robinson's single.

So instead of getting victory No. 19, Busby wound up with his 10th defeat as the Orioles squeezed out a 1-0 victory over Kansas City Royals.

Chicago's Wilbur Wood also had a shot at No. 19. But he took an early shower and a 14th loss when the White Sox absorbed a 9-4 beating by New York Yankees.

In Sunday's other American League games, Texas Rangers nosed out Cleveland Indians 1-0, Oakland A's clobbered Detroit Tigers 13-3 and Milwaukee Brewkrs beat California Angels 5-2.

MOTORSPORT

Roy Conks Out But Takes IDC

TACOMA — Roy Smith of Victoria figured he would have to finish among the front runners here Saturday to assure himself of first place in the point standings of the International Drivers' Challenge series for modified sprint cars.

Smith didn't finish the double-points windup race at all but still held on to top spot in the points derby for the six-race series.

Smith, piloting the Vantreight Daffodil Special, dropped out with 10 laps to go in the 100-lap main event at Spanaway Speedway. Normally, that would have been enough for his main rival, Don McLeod of Tacoma, to overtake him for the points leadership.

McLeod, however, finished back in the pack because of a three-lap pit stop and couldn't quite make up the difference. Smith completed the series with 643 points and McLeod finished 20 points behind. Bob Cochran of Seattle was third with 620 points while Jerry Sneva of Spokane, the winner here Saturday, was fourth over-all.

A Near Miss for Kershaw

It's hardly the way he would have wanted to do it, but Rick O'Dell came about as close as anyone to stopping Gary Kershaw Saturday night at Western Speedway.

Kershaw drove to his 12th consecutive main-event victory and 13th of the season in the 35-lap super-stock main event before 2,975. He nearly didn't make the starting grid.

Kershaw, who lowered his track record from 17.74 seconds to 17.68, just missed hitting O'Dell, who had spun out in front of him during the fast heat preliminary.

O'Dell was the only driver Kershaw failed to lap in posting a 10-length triumph in the feature.

The result means there'll be $500 in the pot next Saturday for any driver beating Kershaw to the finish line, provided he completes the race. There are four super-stock programs, including the Canada 200 Sept. 7, remaining on the program and the pot goes up $100 every time Kershaw wins.

Saturday's results:

SUPER-STOCKS

Trophy dash: 1. Ron Hancoik, 2. Rick O'Dell, 3. Larry Christie, 4. Gary Kershaw.

First heat: 1. Mike Barteaux, 2. Bill Price, 3. Roy Haslam, 4. Bob Collins.

Fast heat: 1. Tony Johnson, 2. Neil Montgomery, 3. Ron Hancock, 4. Dave Dalby.

Main event: 1. Gary Kershaw, 2. Rick O'Dell, 3. Bill Price, 4. Ron Hancock, 5. Tony Johnson.

STOCKS

"C" trophy dash: 1. Phil Filipovic, 2. Roger Walker, 3. Neville Garner, 4. Gordie Hildebrandt.

"B" trophy dash: 1. Al Smith, 2. Al Wade, 3. Ray Vatcher, 4. Rocky Collins.

First heat: 1. Jesper Lind, 2. Ernie Schoor, 3. Al Johnson, 4. Steve Morris.

Second heat: 1. Phil Filipovic, 2. Neil Moore, 3. Gordie Hildebrandt, 4. Roger Walker.

Fast heat: 1. Rick Poirier, 2. Al Smith, 3. Al Wade, 4. Ray Vatcher, Vatcher.

Main event: 1. Al Wade, 2. Art Reedy, 3. Steve Kennedy, 4. Al Smith, 5. Ray Vatcher.

Mike Rockets Back to Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mike Rocket of Edmonds, Wash., spun while leading on the first lap but came back to win the main event of the $7,500 Datsun Pro Challenge Sunday at Westwood circuit.

The Washington driver spun at the hairpin, dropping to 22nd in the 23-car field before moving his Triumph Vitesse back into first place late in the race. Bob Stevens of Richmond placed second in a Datsun 510, seven seconds behind the winner.

Toronto Driver Tops in Rain

SHUBENACADIE, N.S. (CP) — Bill Brack of Toronto, pushing through heavy rain, lapped the field twice Sunday to win the Player's Maritime auto race and his second straight Canadian driving championship for Formula 1 cars.

Second place went to Bobby Brown of Hicksville, N.Y., while Tom Klausler of Pallantine, Ill., was third.

Rookie Rides to Gold

MONTREAL (CP) — Roy Schuiten of the Netherlands, in his first year as a professional rider, won a gold medal for his country Sunday night when he beat former champion Ferdinand Brack of Belgium in the men's individual persuit event at the world cycling championships.

Schuiten, only 23, held a nine-year edge in age on Bracke, 32, who picked up a silver medal.

At one point mid-way through the race, the two were less thn 10-100ths of one second apart, but Schuiten gradually gained on his older opponent and his time for the 17-lap event was six minutes, 04.71 seconds, more than eight seconds better than Bracke.

Earlier in the day, the Soviet Union picked up its third gold medal in four days.

This one was the second for the Russian women's team, as Tamara Garkouchina became the 1974 women's individual pursuit champion. Garkouchina won the gold medal in a final raced against countrywoman Valentina Smirnova. Her time for the event was three minutes, 58.73 seconds. Smirnova was four seconds slower and grabbed the silver.

Keetie Van Oosteen made it a three-medal night for the Netherlands as she won the bronze in a battle for third position in the women's individual pursuit. The Dutch girl had a time of 4:00.36, six seconds faster than Mary Reoch of the United States.

Earlier in the day, West Germany and Czechoslovakia won gold medals.

The West Germans won a gold in the motor-paced final and saw Jean Breuer take over the world championship crown from fellow-countryman Horst Gnass, who had held it for the last three years.

Chechoslovakia's initial gold medal of the competition came after one of the most bitter battles of the competition so far.

It was won by Anton Tkak in the amateur sprint event. But he needed three heats to oust a determined Sergei Kravtsov from the world title.

It was a bad day for Canada in the track events.

In the men's amateur team pursuit eliminations, of the 16 teams trying for a spot in the eight-team quarter-finals, Canada was last as the foursome of Marc Blouin of Drummondville, Que., Ron Hayman of Calgary and Roy Fondse and Brian Keast, both of Winnipeg, finished at four minutes, 52.52 seconds.

Burnaby Takes Title

PROVOST, Alta. (CP) — British Columbia's Burnaby Steelers became the Western Canada junior baseball champions Sunday, winning two games against Edmonton Willows, the team that beat Steelers Saturday.

Bert Haaas, named the tournament's most valuable player, stroked a three-run homerun to lead Burnaby to a 15-10 win in the final game.

Earler, in the "A-B" final, Burnaby trounced Edmonton 15-4 in eight innings.

Earlier Sunday, Burnaby knocked Estevan, Sask., out of the championship, 6-3.

Greaves, Farmers Split

Greaves Movers and league-champion Farmer Construction split a Sunday doubleheader which opened their best-of-seven Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League final playoff series at Lambrick Park.

Farmers won the opener 9-5 but Greaves bounced back to take the second game 4-1.

John Yankoski, who was the league's leading batter during the regular season with a .453 average, and Ralph Perkins each had two hits on three trips to lead the Farmer victory while Barry Cozier and Dave Morgan were two-for-four for Greaves.

Terry Karpiuk went the distance for Greaves in the second encounter, striking out 11 batters while yielding only two hits and three bases-on-balls.

Cozier again set the pace at the plate with a two-for-three performance.

Third game in the series is scheduled for 6:15 p.m. Tuesday with fourth and fifth games slated for the same time Wednesday and Thursday.

Holding Pattern Holds On

Times News Services

Holding Pattern surged into the lead midway through the stretch and then held off fast-closing Little Current to win the $116,100 Travers Stakes Saturday at Saratoga. The filly, Chris Evert, finished third,

Holding Pattern, ridden by Mike Miceli, got home a head in front of Little Current, the Preakenss and Belmont Stakes winner and the even-money favorite in the Travers. Holding Pattern had upset Little Current by a nose in the Monmouth Invitational Aug. 3.

Ceio Me, a horse with mystery ailments, was as sound as gold Saturday and put on a sparkling display to win the $10,000 added PNE President's Cup at Exhibition Park in Vancouver.

MAGIC

A Spiritual Re-Awakening Or a Fun-Thing . . . it's Great

Tony Eng, admirer Christopher Devlin

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

With a flick of the wand and a flick of the wrist, a top-hatted magician transports his audience from the real world of rising prices to a fantasy world where coins appear out of nowhere and disappear just as quickly.

What a way to beat the rising cost of living — a shiny quarter appears behind someone's ear where there was no quarter before. A quick flick and the quarter now is 50 cents, another twist and the coin in the magician's hand is a Chinese yen.

White rabbits turn black, black rabbits turn into feather dusters, feather dusters become silk scarves and silk scarves disappear up the magician's sleeve, along with the endless bag of tricks he seems to keep up there.

The magic, the old vaudeville pull-a-rabbit-out-of-a-hat-type magic, is not kids' stuff.

The magician by any other name, an illusionist or a prestidigitator, is still a maker of fantasy and more and more adults seem to be looking for that fantasy world these days.

The U.S. manufacturers of magic tricks, supplies, Ouija boards and tarot cards report soaring sales and say the recent upsurge in interest in mystical acts is similar to the magic boom during the Depression.

Tony Eng is a Victoria magician whose card, coin and stage tricks are literally faster than the eye can see.

"Pick a card, any card," he says, holding out a fanned deck of red-backed playing cards.

A card is picked, the two of diamonds, and put back into the deck face down.

A few quick shuffles later and Eng says the card that was picked will "stick out like a sore thumb." He runs through the deck, still face down, and picks out the only blue-backed card out of the 52 — it's the two of diamonds and it wasn't blue before!

Eng is one of about 18 magicians in Victoria who belong to the Magic Circle, which meets once a month to practise and learn new tricks.

Magic is a hobby for Eng, but because of the new interest in it, he gets a chance to practise it more often. He puts on two shows every Sunday night in the dining room of a local hotel and the room is packed for both shows.

"People come out and support it and the interest is there. Magic is really something for everyone from age zero to 90—they're all amazed at what they see, he said.

Eng says magicians like the internationally-known Kreskin and television shows such as The Magician have heightened the interest in magic.

"I never try to make people believe that I have any sort of supernatural powers," Eng says.

"I tell them it's all an illusion and then I let them believe what they want to. Some just smile when I finish a trick, but others really have to try to figure it out."

Julian North, 1121 Caledonia, has another explanation for the upsurge of interest in Eng's type of magic and in his own practices of spiritualism and mysticism.

"It's all a part of the spiritual reawakening," North said.

"Tony's (Eng) kind of magic is fascinating for people now because they're in a period of searching out the truth. Tony knows both the cause and effect of what he's doing in his magic, but the audience only sees the effect. They have to search for the cause.

"It's the same in the church. People are searching for the truth, for the cause, they won't settle anymore for just the effect."

North, an artist, is a minister in training in the Spiritualist Church which has a branch on Fort Street.

Philosophies of the church include miracle healing, prophecy, proof of life after death and communication with spirits.

The world is coming to the end of an era, North said, and people are becoming more interested in the spiritual side of life, instead of only the physical aspects.

North is a tarot card reader and that art is now entering into its "reincarnate state of being," he said.

The deck of 78 cards can be used to tell a person's past, present and future, but the cards must be interpreted by a diviner. The percentage of accuracy lies in the degree of the diviner's spiritual development, North said.

He has had some strange experiences with the cards.

Two women came in together one time, both to have their cards read. The first woman was difficult to read, he said, but when he started to read for the second woman, the first woman "grasped her throat and cried out 'That's my husband.'"

North said the explanation of the experience was that the second woman was being used as a medium for the first woman's dead husband to make contact.

The rebirth of things supernatural or mystical has had other bizarre manifestations.

In Chicago, the ex-wife of Terry Taylor, who styles himself as the high priest of the Satanic Church, asked a judge to order Taylor to stop driving their 10-year-old daughter around in a hearse decked out with an empty coffin. Mrs. Taylor also asked the court to make Taylor stop taking their daughter to his house of the occult and showing her a tombstone with Mrs. Taylor's name on it.

Julian North . . . it's all in the cards

The Political Reality: Always Be on the Alert

An NDP member of the legislature whose honesty is simply beyond question had me to lunch this week (fish-and-chips, wouldn't you know?) and voiced an opinion on the tragedy of the United States' White House that I find so curious that it practically commands comment.

It's his view, you see, that the evidence of rampant rot in the upper political echelons of the world's richest nation will have a backlash wherever governments are elected, that every politician has been hurt in prestige, trust and respect.

"Now," he said, "We are all under suspicion. It's created a cynicism that's bound to lower the caliber of men and women who seek office and may even lower the calibre of governments. We feel it already in our own party. All legislation must be approached with caution, with the awareness that we must first establish the honesty of our motivation."

As you'll have guessed, my friend is a freshman in politics, a man who entered that field, naively or otherwise, because he thought it the highest form of public service. The American — and, to some extent, the Canadian — reaction to the hypocrisy of Nixon and Company have thus hit him more personally than they'd hit the old-time, rough-and-ready politician, the animal, as somebody has said, who can sit on the fence and yet keep both ears on the ground.

It has always been true, I believe, that people vote their resentment, not their appreciation, that the average man does not vote for anything, but against something. So I do not believe that the Nixon affair will mean any great difference. If he's right, however, if it does mean a decline in respect and trust on the part of the voter, then America's loss may be our gain.

It's always been my belief that a man entering politics should first taste them as an observer, preferably as a newsman covering any level of government from the municipal to the federal. In my own time on those beats I reached the conclusion that the healthiest and sanest attitude was that of the day-to-day watch that, invariably, produces the deepest cynicism.

No one who has done that for any length of time can escape the wonderment that so many trivial men and women are given such enormous powers over their fellows.

To be a chemist, as someone has observed, you must study chemistry. To be a lawyer or physician you must study law or medicine. But to be a politician you need only to study your own interests. This is true whether the interests are for good or for evil and, unhappily, there are more evil politicians than good politicians.

It is the power that corrupts, which is one reason that I am for any legislation designed to do away with conflicting interests. In this province, alone, any reporter who has covered the legislature can give you the name of at least three evil men who have made personal fortunes in the name of public service.

What the public does not seem to understand is that there exists a constant temptation for personal gain. Any roads or bridges that are built, any public hospitals or schools or other institutions, any zoning regulations or new access routes, anything, in fact, that means expenditure from the public purse, involves the politician, even those who are below the cabinet level, in an invitation to peddle his influence, to profit from advance knowledge or to serve local interests for his own gain. Disraeli called it the art of "plundering and blundering." That is still an apt description.

From time to time politicians are charged with specific crimes that arise from this temptation. More often it is all absolutely legal — the paving contractor, for example, getting the job because of his financial support of the local candidate — and, indeed, patronage in any government is such an accepted philosophy that we simply consider it the legitimate spoils of victory.

That is the cross that must be borne by those few politicans who have never wavered in their integrity — again, men and women well known and respected by those who chronicle the affairs of state. It's a burden they must accept, perhaps even to cherish, since the one slim hope for a government worthy of trust is precisely that kind of wary suspicion.

I don't believe that this cynicism or scepticism should be a negative thing. I would not endorse for a minute, for example the life-long voting pattern of Malcolm Muggeridge who always opts for the party out of power, whatever it may be. I believe that there are politicians and even parties that are basically honest and one of the few real pleasures of democracy is to believe so much in a man or a group that you will give them the personal mandate of your vote.

But I believe, too, that we should always be alert and on guard, however much we may believe in the policies or the ideologies we support, and if the American people had followed that simple instinct Nixon would never have been in the White House in the first place.

$3 Million Needed To Finish Highway

The cost of completing the last unpaved section of the West Coast road between Jordan River and Port Renfrew could be $3 million, Esquimalt MLA Jim Gorst said today.

But he said the people west of Sooke deserve better communication with the larger communities where they must do business, attend school and cultural activities.

"They are physically and psychologically cut off from Sooke and Victoria," Gorst said.

One of about 65 people who took part in a 30-car cavalcade Sunday from Sooke to the mouth of San Juan River, Gorst said he will report to Highways Minister Graham Lea the 10-mile stretch straddling the Sombrio River is "without doubt the most difficult."

"I think highways ought to get on with the job," Gorst added.

The cavalcade organized by Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce was to draw attention to the hazardous, rough and time-wasting gravel section.

The provincial economy requires that people work in these outlying areas for the logging, mining and fishing industries.

"I told the people they should be able to get back and forth easier than that," Gorst said.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Bob McHaffie was among guests invited to make the 100-mile return trip which featured a smelt barbecue on the beach at Port Renfrew.

He contended the completion of engineering and paving of the West Coast Road would be an important factor in serving the tourist industry.

"People are coming here in great numbers than ever before whether we like it or not, with improved ferry service," he said. The road would be of "great benefit" to the circle route which takes travellers back to the Island Highway by way of Lake Cowichan or Shawnigan Lake.

The section, which starts about five miles east of Port Renfrew, is cut by three or four deep ravines and would be costly to bring up to standard required for paving.

Gorst said bridging would be required: "You'd probably be looking at about $3 million."

School buses have a 50-mile run from Port Renfrew to Edward Milne Secondary School east of Sooke village, virtually all of it in darkness during the winter. Children must be up at 5 a.m. to make the trip, the MLA said.

Ask The Times

Q. Who are the "Contemptibles" and what are they noted for? Do they have a special insignia or decoration pin? A.M.S.

A. The "old Contemptibles" are a select group of First World War veterans. In August of 1914 after the Germans had invaded Belgium, Kaiser Wilhelm ordered his generals to wipe out "the contemptible little British Army" which had come to the aid of the Belgians.

The soldiers seized on this reference, calling themselves the "Old Contemptibles," a name they carried with pride.

In 1925 the Old Contemptibles Association was formed. To be a member, a veteran must have served in the lines with the British Expeditionary Force between Aug. 3 and Nov. 22, 1914.

There are about 16 names on the roll of the Victoria branch, the last remaining organized branch in Canada, says president William Jones.

The association has a badge, a circle with crossed swords, the association name and the dates Aug. 3 to Nov. 22, 1914.

Deer Control Call Made By Saanich

Saanich council has asked for provincial government help in fighting the increasing deer nuisance.

"The deer population on the peninsula is now around 2,000," Mayor Ed Lum said today, "They're really playing havoc with the crops. The problem has been with us for some time but it's getting worse."

Lum said Saanich wants the provincial government to come up with an over-all policy for control of deer throughout British Columbia.

He said farmers on the lower mainland are also suffering serious losses.

"It's a problem we're going to be faced with," he said. "We need support and guidance. Right now, the only thing we can do is fence, which is not very practical. The only other alternative is to shoot them."

Lum said there is a bylaw forbidding the use of firearms and there had to be a better solution than shooting.

At tonight's council meeting, Saanich will deal with the latest complaint.

It's from John Bradshaw of the Island Seed Company on West Saanich Road.

Bradshaw said deer nibble flowers being grown for seed.

"They don't do it all in one night," Bradshaw said, "It's a little bit every night. We've tried everything short of shooting. If we didn't watch it, we'd lose everything by the end of the season."

Bradshaw said provincial wildlife officials recommend erection of sloping fences but this is not the answer.

"We only have 2½ acres," he said, "and fences like that would lose us a lot of valuable land because it would be impossible to cultivate ground under the fence. That ground would be lost."

They're Sailing for No. 1

Eighteen competitors began a 10-race series off Esquimalt today to decide who will be this year's North American single-handed sailing champion.

The series is the North American Yacht Racing Union's George O'Day championships, one of the most highly competitive dinghy sailing events on the continent.

Racing will be held until Thursday and, if the weather doesn't co-operate could continue until Friday.

With the exception of Tony Rosé of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, all the sailors are American.

If Rose wins, he will be the second Canadian to capture the coveted George O'Day Trophy. Colin Park of Vancouver won it in 1965.

The NAYRU has stipulated the championships, as in 1973, will be raced in Lasers, 20 new boats being shipped from the Montreal factory for the event.

Designed by Canadian Bruce Kirby, editorial chairman for the magazine Yacht Racing, the Laser is acclaimed as the "miracle" boat in dinghy racing.

In three years, more than 20,000 have been sold, it was given international status in June and expected to be accepted as an Olympic boat by 1980.

The conviction that the Laser is one of the best designs to come off a drawing board is shared by at least two of those racing in the championship series.

Mike Hill, 21, of Newport, R.I., says there are 500 of them being raced in the New England area.

"They couldn't have chosen a better boat for this series," he said. "The Laser is very responsive, very quick, yet it's simple."

Carl Buchan, 17, of Seattle, agreed, stating that, because the Laser required no tuning, the onus of winning — or losing — was squarely on the shoulders of the competitors, not their boats.

Don Trask of the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco will be the man to watch in this year's series, being the North American Laser champion.

Linen Strike Over

A 75-day strike at Canadian Linen Supply Company Limited, 947 North Park, is over and 57 employees are back on the job.

The business, which was put up for sale during the dispute, is no longer on the market, manager Ken Smith said today.

The laundry was shut down June 5 when members of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union went on strike for improved wages and fringe benefits.

Smith said today he did not know the terms of the settlement but a union spokesman said they include a wage hike of $1.65 in four stages over two years, the company paying all of health insurance premiums and three-quarters of the premium for a new dental plan.

Basic pay was $2.92 an hour at the time the dispute started. At that time the union wanted $1 an hour more in a one-year contract and the company offered 93 cents an hour over two years.

Empress Vote Set

Empress Hotel employees will take a strike vote Wednesday in support of undisclosed contract demands made to CP Hotels.

A spokesman for the Transport Workers Union hotel division said 350-400 employees of The Empress would be eligible to vote. He said negotiations had been carried on over the past six to eight weeks and would not confirm a report that staff were seeking an $2 an hour raise.

There had been an undertaking not to discuss the contract negotiations publicly, he said.

Burglar Nets $2,130 Cash

A burglar fled with about $2,130 from a Hillcrest Avenue house early this morning.

Saanich police said the burglar, who entered the house by an unlocked door, was scared off by a woman who heard rummaging through purses.

Police Chief Bob Peterson declined to release the name and address of the family because he said "we don't think the family would like it."

Car Crash Kills Victorian

One man died and two others were injured in a two-car crash late Saturday night at Blanshard and Hillside.

Name of the dead man has not been released pending notification of next-of-kin, but police said he was from Victoria.

City police said the dead man's car, which had been westbound on Hillside, was in collision with a car driven south on Blanshard by Eric Huntley, 24, of 1230 Fort.

Huntley and a passenger, Michael Durling, 24, of 991 Cloverdale, are in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with multiple injuries.

Police said Huntley's car struck a lamppost on a pedestrian island in the intersection after the impact.

Damage to the Huntley car was estimated at $2,000 and to the other car at $1,500.

Fourteen other persons died in traffic accidents in B.C. during the weekend.

Cut the Fooling

DEAR ABBY: Bob (not his real name) and I have been engaged since last Christmas. The problem is I am pretty sure I am pregnant, and my wedding is four months away. I probably shouldn't wear a white gown and veil, but I already bought mine, and if I can get into it I'm going to wear it.

I haven't told anybody but Bob, but I may have to tell my mother because I feel lousy in the morning, and she wasn't born yesterday.

If I'm pregnant, would it be okay to go ahead with the church wedding like I planned? We would tell people afterwards that the baby was premature. Rush your answer to me. — Sue (Not My Real Name.)

DEAR SUE: First, see a doctor. If you're pregnant, make the wedding simple and soon. And don't count on fooling anybody who can count to nine.

DEAR ABBY: About the wife who wrote that her husband was having an affair with a young teacher. (She was a minister's daughter he had met in church.) The wife asked you if she should tell the girl's father, and you told her not to.

Thanks for advising her not to tell Dad. I don't want her husband for keeps. I just want to borrow a little of what she doesn't want. (She says their marital relations are not enjoyable to her.)

I'll be leaving town soon. Maybe this experience will jolt that wife enough so she will at least try to love her husband. He certainly needs it.

It's positively stupid for any wife to leave her husband vulnerable to an affair when it's so easy to please a man. — Dora.

DEAR DORA: Dumb, you're not!

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I am still a virgin.

My problem: Every time a guy tries to get something off me and I turn him down he starts spreading dirty rumors about me saying I gave in. I live in a small town where people like to run their mouths.

How come boys never talk about the girls they get something off, but they make up lies about the girls who won't give in?

How can a nice girl save her reputation from trash like that? — A NICE GIRL.

DEAR NICE: Stay "nice" and don't worry about what anybody says. The kind of people who matter don't listen to trash. And the other kind don't matter.

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By Dr. WALTER ALVAREZ

A few people write to ask me to explain von Recklinghausen's disease. Another equally long and complicated name for this disease is neorofibromatosis ("neuro" refers to nerves; "fibro" refers to fibrous tissues, such as tendons; "oma" means a tumor, and "osos" is a condition).

People with this disease often have, scattered over their skin, little violet colored nodules and perhaps "cafe au lait" (meaning, in French, coffee with milk) patches. Often, because of involvement of nerves, these people suffer with pain here and there throughout their body.

The person with this disease may have trouble with spells of fear, terrible temper, "the shakes" or "the jerks," plus many other troubles of the nervous system.

With it all, I have known some persons with neurofibromatosis who were working hard in their 40s. At times they need medicine for pain, nervousness, and for sleeplessness. I never heard of a cure for the condition.

ULCERATIVE COLITIS

This is a serious inflammatory disease of the colon (the large bowel). The main symptom is usually a chronic diarrhea with sometimes blood in the stools.

A physician will look into the patient's rectum and will see the inflammed inner lining of the bowel. An x-ray technician will get a picture of the bowel which will show the typical picture of inflammation.

A number of times I have seen this disease come when the person had suffered some severe mental distress.

Unfortunately, we physicians have no good drug treatment that will surely cure the disease, but some treatments have been found which help. In some very severe cases, a surgeon will take out the diseased bowel.

A good physician to consult is a gastroenterologist (a stomach and bowel specialist).

FAT CHILD

I recently read that Dr. James B. Sidbury, an expert on the body chemistry of children and a teacher at Duke University Medical School, says that a fat child is very likely to grow into a fat adult.

Recently, when I was asked to see a young woman who weighs 350 pounds, her mother showed me a picture of her when she was less than a year old, and she was too chubby then.

As several able physicians have been saying, a wise mother or children's specialist will make an effort to keep a child from growing too fat and early getting a bad heart.

VITILIGO

Scores of people write asking what to do for big areas in which the pigment goes out of their skin and leaves it white. I am sorry, but I know of no good medicine to take, because we physicians do not know why the white patches come. The best treatment I have found for the areas is to stain them skin color, with the help of Lydia O'Leary's Covermark. It is non-greasy and waterproof.

HICCUP TREATMENT

Dr. Klaus Kergt recently told of a man with emphysema (with much difficulty in breathing), a marked arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), and a hiatus hernia (a little rupture in the diaphragm which separates the chest cavity from that of the abdomen), who was plagued with a persistent hiccup.

Several strenuous treatments — like with a tube passed into his stomach through his nose, with inhalations of carbon dioxide; blockage of the phrenic nerves that supply the diaphragm (midriff), the induction of anesthesia, and the giving of muscle relaxants, had no effect. Then he vomited repeatedly, and the hiccup quit.

Plato, in ancient Greece, said that to stop hiccup one should gargle with water, hold one's breath, tickle the nose until it causes sneezing, and also to press downward one's diaphragm.

In all mild cases sipping water will stop hiccup. I have seen only a very few cases of very rebellious hiccup, and in every case I quickly cured the patient by giving a large dose of a barbiturate. The person slept for hours and woke without the hiccup.

ALCOHOL AND RAPE

In the journal published by the Addiction Research Foundation of Toronto, Canada, is an article by Anne Maclenna in which she says that in a study of 77 rapists in the Atascadero State Hospital of California, "A dramatically high association" was found between drinking alcohol and forcible rape.

Fifty per cent of th rapists were drinking at the time of the rape, and 43 per cent were drinking heavily (10 or more beers or the equivalent).

Obviously, a man who has drunk too much had better keep away from women. Better yet, the man should stop drinking before he loses his inhibitions and his good sense.

Butter Cake Bite Leads to Another

By MARY MOORE

The treat I am relaying to you today is one of those perfected cakes that you cannot leave alone. One bite leads to another.

It is a true butter cake with very fine but light texture. To add to its delectability you drizzle a butter sauce over the top after it comes from the oven, in lieu of an icing. I hasten to add that for reducers and cholesterol shunners the butter sauce may be ignored.

The secret of the success of this cake is long continual beating.

KENTUCKY BUTTER CAKE
(10" tube pan)

Batter:
- 1 cup butter, room temperature (do not substitute)
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 4 large eggs
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk (see note below)
- 3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- ¾ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. baking soda
- 2 tsp. vanilla

Butter Sauce:
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 2 tbsp. hot water
- ¼ cup butter
- 1½ tsp. vanilla or rum flavoring

To make Batter in large beater bowl cream the butter. Gradually add sugar, creaming until light and fluffy. Add all of the eggs at once and beat on "high" until batter is very thick and creamy — at least 5 minutes. Add milk and blend thoroughly. (Note: If you do not have buttermilk or sour milk add 2 tablespoons vinegar to a one-cup measure, then fill to one-cup mark with sweet milk. Stir and let sit for 5 minutes.) In a small bowl combine flour, salt, baking powder and baking soda. Add to batter all at once and beat at least 10 minutes. Batter will be very thick and creamy. Stir in vanilla. Generously grease bottom of a 10-inch tube pan. Turn batter into prepared pan. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 55 to 60 minutes until top springs back when touched lightly in centre.

Meanwhile prepare the Butter Sauce by combining sugars, hot water and butter and stirring over low heat until butter is melted. DO NOT BOIL. Remove from heat and add vanilla or rum flavoring. Let cake sit on rack for 5 minutes after baking, then poke deep holes all over top with large meat fork or skewer (I used a shish kabob skewer.) Pour warm butter sauce over slowly, letting it soak into holes and down between sides of cake an dpan. Cool cake completely before removing from pan. If desired, spinkle with icing sugar just before serving.

If you have a new baby, your pediatrician will no doubt guide you in the choice of food for your little one. But are you aware of the wide selection of ready made baby foods that are on themarket?

You can have a colourful poster entitled "Basic Daily Foods for Baby's Balanced Diet". It offers menus geared to the different age groups from two weeks to 18 months. These sample menus will help you prepare varied, nutritious meals either from scratch or with ready-made foods.

The poster lists the whole range of prepared baby foods and divides them into groups.

You will find a list of precooked cereals and a variety of milk products. The fruit and juice group stretches from prune drink and mixed fruit to blueberry dessert and peaches with honey.

Also impressive is the long list of vegetables and vegetable-meat combinations. Among the meat dishes are all kinds of meats with broth.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Tuesday, Aug. 20

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21 — April 19): Contracts, agreements, longstanding relationsips are shaken. Change is order of the day. Analyze — find reasons. Take nothing for granted. You may be heading for surprise — of embarrassing variety. Look for loophole which has been kept under wraps.

TAURUS (April 20 — May 20): Those who supposedly perfirm services for you now request a turnabout. Means employees could come up with a myriad of excuses, requests. Persons you pay may say they need more money. Atmosphere is puzzling but message will be clarified.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Be wary of flattery. Someone wants something for nothing — and you could be prime target. Accent is on emotional response, dealings with opposite sex, basic changes. Pisces, Virgo persons could be in picture.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): The home and how to bring more pleasure into it — this is of concern. You also find how to build security. You take on more responsibility but reward factor is greater, too. Capricorn looms large in picture.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Relatives have some "funny" things to say, report. Maintain balance and sense of humor. Relationship is put to test. Be a person who is above the petty. Live up to your personal potential. Aries, Libra are involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Guard valuables. Be wary where purchases, sales are concerned. Maintain independent stance. Leave options open. Don't make long-range money commitment. Relative reveals secret. Don't cast first stone. Finances dominate and you should be ready for surprises.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Cycle is such that persons are drawn to you and you could be center of controversy. You are supported by some and berated by others. However, you gain and could be promoted. Debt is paid and a friendship is formed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Cycle is such that persons are drawn to your and you could be centre of controversy. You are supported by some and beated by others. However, you gain and could be promoted. Debt is paid and a friendship is formed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): You gain access to privileged information. You are abe to know what has been concealed. You deal from position of strength, knowledge. Social activity accelerates. Your appetite returns. You feel better and act in a more vital manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Friends could act in explosive manner. Means many; ordinarily calm, quiet, will be rebellious. Answers ware not all on table face up — there are puzzle pieces and flaws. Know it and do something about it. Cycle is favorable and some wishes will be fulfilled.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Study Sagittarius message. Be ready for change, variety, travel and special relationship. Accent is on point of view in connection with ultimate goal. Gemini, Virgo persons aid in deciding, analyzing and formulating plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your philosophy could become more aggressive. Persons who want to see you laugh may first have to listen to a diatribe. An illusion is shattered. As a result, you grow, become more practical and gain greater ultimate reward. Taurus, Libra individuals are in picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — March 20): Aura of mystery is present. You sense that something of importance is to occur. You are right, too. Money, partnership, contract, agreement is featured. One close to you has been battling for your best interests. Question concerning television could arise.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are musical, sensitive and have digestive problem. Cancer, Capricorn persons play important roles in your life. You make significant changes in October. If single, marriage is on horizon. Now is time to clear away emotional debris. April was a month which saw you taking steps to improve basic security.

Mish-Mash—Not Magic—Greets Tourists

elizabeth forbes

I'll go on record as agreeing with Mayor Peter Pollen in his recently publicized concern over proliferation of tourist-bate attractions on the front-door streets of Victoria.

Where I disagree is in his statement that with every new venture of this kind, Victoria is "turning into a second-rate Disneyland."

I don't think, by the wildest stretch of imagination, that you can compare the funaramas, lands of little people and the haunted houses that have sprung up, hit or miss, on streets close to our Inner Harbor, with the controlled fantasy-atmosphere of Disneyland.

There, you have a magic kingdom on its own acreage, where imagination becomes an exciting reality. Where the greatest attraction is an ability to create happiness and to shut out the pressures and frustrations of the present-day world.

Attractions here don't come anywhere near that definition. Into the bargin they are piece-meal. Fragmented.

They have been established anywhere and everywhere. No attempt has been made to keep them back from our front-window streets.

You're right, of course, when you say we do not have many such places in Victoria.

Nevertheless, if as Mayor Pollen says, "these places receive licences through at least 15 chinks in the city's armor" and when they go to public hearing "they pass without any opposition," then the time may not be too far away when we will have many more.

If that happens, Victoria will then have taken on the image — not of Disneyland — but of another well-known tourist-oriented place in Canada — the town of Niagara Falls.

I remember a day when that town close above the Falls, was a place of beauty and dignity. When its main street boasted garden courts, walkways, an outdoor theatre, shops and a hotel or two in keeping with the grandeur of the Falls.

Gradually the facade changed. At first, I would guess, without the people who live there realizing what was going on.

A funarama, a place of miniatures, a land of this and a house of that, established beachheads.

Then suddenly, the flood came. And it seemingly could not be stopped.

Today, you cannot find the lovely old town that once stood above the Falls. It's now mostly a place of mediocre tourist attractions — side shows, pizza palaces, hot dog corrals, motels and square sided hotels, huddled together in a mish-mash of garishly colored neon-lighted buildings, with little beauty and no dignity.

Don't try to tell me that couldn't happen in Victoria.

Right now, we are told, there is an application for a "Believe It or Not by Ripley" establishment in the offing. Soon there will be others.

If it's as easy as we are led to believe, to receive a licence there will be weird monsters from outer space, snakes and spiders of all dimensions, ladders to the Moon, distorted mirrors — you name it, they've got it in the carnival-style world.

If Mayor Pollen's warning is not needed; if the "quality of tourism, as he puts it, in this city is not upped, if teeth are not put into municipal laws that govern issuing of licences to that kind of attraction, the suggestion that Victoria will turn into a replica of Niagara Falls, holds far more truth than that it could become a second-rate Disneyland.

Mind you, I'm not against having a selected number of funaramas, miniatures, fun lands and houses to give those tourists who must have "something to do" a chance to indulge their enthusiasms.

However, I do believe such attractions should be carefully screened both for plans and position. And that they should be kept, in nearly every instance, away from the city's front door.

Ideal way, of course, would be to take a small leaf from the Disneyland book. Have an area allotted for such enterprises. Give that area a fantasy name and keep it a place where tourists and visitors to our city could wander — and part with their money — as they wished.

A dream, you say? Maybe so! Maybe not! Perhaps Mayor Pollen could take it from there!

HERNANDEZ . . . the first

Spanish Women Proclaimed Matadorable

MADRID (UPI) — The government has agreed to let women become full-fledged bullfighters, opening Spain's stronghold of male chauvinism to both sexes.

The decision marked the end of a three-year battle by Angela Hernandez, a 27-year-old bullfighter, for equality with men in Spain's arenas.

A decree in the official government bulletin gave women the right "to perform in taurine spectacles" and said restrictions against toreras violated equal employment legislation.

Hernandez promptly announced plans to go into training at the ranch of her mentor, Manuel "El Cordobes" Benitez, the most famous matador in Spain during the 1960s.

"I am overjoyed," she said. "My manager says I may have my debut before the end of the month. It's a great victory for women's rights."

The buxom, blonde torera, who has been gored three times, is a veteran of bullrings in Latin America, where there are no rules against women performers.

She said bullfighting "is neither toil nor butchery but an art. It is grace and guts — superbly fitted for modern woman."

Hernandez, a policeman's daughter, killed her first calf at the age of 11 during a children's fiesta in the dusty Spanish port town of Algeciras.

She carried her fight for equal rights through various courts, winning a landmark victory last year when Madrid's Supreme Labor Court ordered the nation's bullfighters union to accept her as a member.

The official decree did away with her last legal obstacle — a police ordinance requiring women bullfighters to appear on horseback in a watered-down version of Spain's national sport. Male matadors fight bulls on foot.

Last month, some of Spain's top matadors signed a petition supporting Hernandez and saying the appearance of female bullfighters would "benefit the fiesta and give it a modern slant."

Death of Cooking Highly Exaggerated

By HILDA BEASTALL

Home cooking was on its way out in January, 1970, according to Ernest Steele, then president of Grocery Products Manufacturers Association of Canada. In 10 years' time, he said, 70 per cent of all food was likely to be eaten outside the home.

He could have added that convenience packaged meals could account for another 25 per cent, leaving only five per cent of meals being put together, prepared and cooked at home.

But it hasn't turned out that way in four and a half years; not here. Recipes for using basic ingredients for everything from soups to hiking foods are constantly sought. Enthusiasm is high for home preparation of garden-produced fruits and vegetables. Those who realize it takes extra thought and planning are getting results in being able to serve something different every time, since recipes can be varied with herbs or by substituting similar though different ingredients.

Home prepared meals are never monotonous; they smell good when cooking; they taste the way you want them to (or you complain to the cook at the other end of the table); they can be easily made attractive to look at with just the right color of fruit or vegetable at the last minute; and they cost less because they are more sustaining in smaller quantities.

Baking cakes and cookies is just one phase of home cooking, but a very popular one. With the 60-year-old warning about sugar being the cause of tooth decay coming back to prominence, thinking people are wanting recipes with much less sugar. Increase in sugar prices scarcely affects the home baker who is aware how little sugar is necessary if flour and fruits still have natural sugars.

So here we come with a good Fruit Loaf Cake with no sugar but using a tablespoon of blackstrap molasses. You can substitute a tablespoon of demerara sugar. Since blackstrap molasses is not a refined sugar it still is a source of some iron, calcium and has traces of vitamin B, while all refined sugars have a "zero" across the board except in the calorie-carbohydrate columns.

Fruit Loaf Cake

1 cup chopped dates
4 Tbsp. soft margarine
1 Tbsp. blackstrap molasses
2 cups boiling water
2 cups wholewheat flour
1 cup unbleached flour
2 tsp. brewers yeast powder
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking soda
2 small eggs OR 1 large egg
½ cup raisins
½ cup ground peanuts

Grease and dust with flour, either a 10-inch tube pan or an 8-inch round fluted pan, three inches deep.

Into a mixing bowl, measure the dates, margarine and molasses. Dissolve baking soda in boiling water and pour over dates, margarine and molasses. Stir until partially cooled.

Measure out the flours, brewers yeast and salt. Add to the cooling liquid; add the beaten eggs, the raisins and nuts.

Stir just enough to mix. Spoon into pan and bake in a slow oven 325 degs. for about one hour or until a clean knife comes out clean. Cover with foil if need to prevent scorching.

Turn the cake out at once and cool thoroughly on a wire rack. When cold, wrap in waxed paper and foil for a day or two. It slices well for picnics and can even have a slice of mild cheese put between two slices for a lunch box dessert with fresh fruit.

After two days, wrap and keep in refrigerator, as the cake is moist and with the wholewheat flour will not keep without refrigeration.

APRICOT UNIQUE TO B.C.

Uniquely British Columbian apricots are commercially grown nowhere else in Canada but right here in our province — in the Okanagan Valley. The current B.C. Food Information recipe sheet is about apricots with tasty recipes, helpful tips on nutrition, storage and freezing. the "Apricot" sheet are now available in food stores.

"Versatility Plus" describes apricots well. This luscious fruit is equally delicious fresh, baked, preserved or frozen. B.C. grown fresh apricots are available through August.

Bag It

Dress Up Your Closet Door With This Decorative Stowaway Unit for Shoes

Why is it that necessary and functional articles always seem to lack the decorative touch?

They needn't! Here's a colorful shoe bag that makes a summer garden bloom on the inside of your closet door.

1. The material used for the shoe bag should be heavy, non-woven vinyl, oilcloth or felt. The appliques are felt.

2. The bag's base is made from two 14x35-inch sections of fabric. Sew both together, wrong sides facing, ½ inch in from the edge, along all sides.

3. The shoe pockets measure 8x10 inches.

4. To position the first pocket, place it on the base fabric with the pocket's left edge 2 inches in from the side edge and 1½ inches up from the bottom edge.

5. To construct the first pocket, sew the left edge to the base fabric, ¼ inch in.

6. Fold the pocket over 1½ inches to meet the left edge. This fold should take up a total of 3 inches of fabric. Pin.

7. The front of the pocket measures 4 inches. Pin.

8. The remaining 3 inches is tucked under exactly like the left side. Stitch down.

9. Re-pin the front 4 inches of the pocket in line with the under sides.

10. Sew across the bottom, ½ inch in from the edge.

11. Sew on the remaining pockets, 2 inches in from the base fabric's side edges 1½ inches up from bottom) as well as 2 inches away from each other.

12. Fold under 2 inches of the base fabric's top edge. Hem.

13. Cut freeform felt flower shapes and glue to each pocket. For those who want accurate patterns, the flowers are placed on a lined network called a grid, 1 square equals ¾ inch.

14. Hang bag on a curtain rod.

For information on how to use a grid, send your request and a business-size, self-addressed, stamped envelope to The Leisure Craftsman in care of The Times.

Patio Gardeners Can Add Food Plants For Winter

Apartment dwellers who have balconies and the few with roof gardens have been adding food plants to their collections this year. In New York and other eastern cities they were doing this back in the 1930's.

Before the end of this month, you too can make a modest beginning by setting aside one planter for growing green edibles for winter. Parsley, chervil and lettuce are suggestions. Mint and green onions are possible if you have space.

For this particular project, you need either a south or southwest facing balcony to catch maximum winter sun. Such a balcony misses the coldest of winter winds which come from the northeast.

If your balcony has a solid front as I notice on many apartments, you need to raise your planter up on something to catch the low winter sunlight, a wood or metal stand or some ingeniuous device to suit you.

In really bad weather, you can provide protection for one planter by placing it against the wall on a stack of old newspapers for warmth, and a wool or heavy cotton cover over and around the whole planter. It is mainly the root area which must be protected from deep freezing, though the top growth will of course benefit from shelter too. Four sticks of wire coat hangers bent into supports, in the corners of the planter will prevent the little green plants from being flattened.

This kind of protection would only be needed occasionally, though a newspaper section or a couple of large brown paper bags could be a regular cover each cool winter night.

Seeds can be sown into any fairly fine compost mixture of rotted leaves, soil and a little sand. Sow a half dozen seeds of parsley along one edge; a half dozen chervil along another; and a half inch apart sow as many lettuce seed as the planter will accommodate without crowding.

Chervil is a fine-leaved, delicately-flavored green herb about eight inches tall. You pick leaves to use in soups, salads and sandwiches, and the plants grow all winter enough to keep up the supply of leaves. Parsley is well known in appearance, but most people don't use enough of it in their daily food. Especially in winter it should go into every kind of savory food as a source of vitamin C.

Its use compensates for loss of that vitamin in cooking, especially if added freely, raw, with potatoes and cooked beans, peas or spinach that have been frozen or canned.

The lettuce seed to look for is one which endures cool growing conditions. Early Curled Simpson is suggested. Not all retailers maintain a fall display of seeds—year-round garden centers and specialist seed stores will be your best sources to try. This lettuce makes fine leafy plants in the chilly early days of spring and lacking other winter varieties. Early Curled Simpson is my choice for this late sowing.

Sowing at one half inch apart, alternate plants will be thinned out to use first as sandwich greens.

Then again alternates will come out (this time they'll be larger) and help to brighten up a bought-lettuce salad. That is when you notice the difference in texture and flavor.

With any kind of luck in winter weather, this scheme should go on for most of the winter to add flavor and interest to routine meals.

SOLUTION TUESDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

An old anecdote that had been going the rounds this past spring concerns itself with the two experts whose bidding had gone: one heart, one spade; two hearts, two spades; three hearts, three spades; four hearts, four spades. The four-spade contract suffered a three-trick set. Had the hand been played at hearts, eight tricks were all that could have been made.

The four-spade bidder apologized to his partner, explaining: "I wouldn't have kept on bidding, but the lady on my right showed me her entire hand. I knew where every card was."

"Do you think I'm blind?" inquired the heart bidder.

North-South vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH
♠ K Q 5
♡ K 9 6
◇ 7 5 4 3
♣ Q 6 3

WEST
♠ 10 9 8 7
♡ A 10 7 3
◇ J 9 8
♣ J 5

EAST
♠ 6 4 3 2
♡ Q 8 4
◇ 10 2
♣ A 9 7 4

SOUTH
♡ J 5 2
◇ A K Q 6
♣ K 10 8 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

Forquet's one-club opening showed a minimum of 17 high-card points. North's one-heart response denoted at least 6 points. The rest of the bidding was natural.

After winning the opening lead with his spade ace, Forquet cashed the ace and king of diamonds. When both opponents followed, four diamond tricks now became a certainty. At this point, most experts would have led a club to dummy's queen, which would have been captured by East's ace. upon winning East's spade return with the board's queen, a club would be led next, with South's ten being finessed. West's jack would take this trick, and a spade would be returned. South would now have to sweat out the fulfillment of his contract.

But Forquet, after cashing his two top diamonds (at trick two and three) made the "abnormal" play of laying down his king of clubs at trick four. East won this with his ace, and continued the attack on the spade suit, dummy's queen winning.

The club queen was cashed next, felling West's jack. The board's remaining club was then led. South's eight-spot being finessed. Eventually, Forquet also made dummy's heart king, and scored two overtricks.

GASTOWN TOURS SAVED

A privately-operated tour of Gastown which took 25,300 students through the old area of Vancouver this past school year has obtained government financing to enable it to continue.

Education Minister Eileen Dailly said Insights on Early Vancouver, a tour consisting of a side show, displays, written material and a walk through Gastown, will get $3,000 a month to prevent it from closing at the end of summer.

Since Raymond McAllister started the program a year ago, students paid 75 cents each. He got research grants to augment expenses, and also used up personal savings and bank loans to keep it running, said Dailly.

The Simon Fraser University graduate plans to expand the program this year to include tours of Chinatown in Vancouver.

He is also working on a presentation on development of Vancouver Harbor, to include a trip on S.S. Beaver, a replica of the first steamship on the west coast of Canada.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

The gratitude in our hearts can never be fully expressed, but we want our friends, relatives and neighbors to know how much their kind words and expressions of sympathy have meant to us during our recent time of sorrow, in the sad loss of our husband and father, Thomas Kowalchuk. Special thanks for donations to the Heart Fund and to Carin Covin, Cathy While, Danny Lomas, Joel Ozard, Per Sivertsen, Gladys Dibben, Mary and Don Breer; to the staff and faculty of University of Victoria, International Paint Company and to the many CUP E locals, especially 951. — Edna Kowalchuk, Thomas, Judith, of Victoria, and Linda and Garry Howarth, Kamloops.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GIBSON — In loving memory of Jessie, wife and mother, who passed away August 18, 1973, in Duncan.
We do not forget her, we love her too dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
—Greatly missed by us all, and always remembered. Hamish and Family.

WILLIAMS—Jill.
We do not forget her, we love her too dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
—Mom and Dad and family.

'I HAVE BEEN THROUGH THE VALLEY OF DEATH . . .'

LYNCHBURG, Va. (WP)—Alabama Governor George Wallace, looking pale and drawn after a week-long, three-city swing through the South and West Sunday gave widely-televised testimony to his Christian faith at a Baptist church here that bills itself among the largest in the U.S.

Wallace ending his longest trip since an assailant's bullet paralyzed his legs two years ago, said he had been reluctant in the past to speak publicly of his religion.

"As one in public life," he said, "I never wanted anyone to think because of the particular profession I was involved in that I did so maybe sometimes for that reason."

"But I, like many of you, have been through the valley of the shadow of death," Wallace said. "I know when I was there I asked God to let me live if it be His will . . . and I do know that one reason I stand here today . . . is because of the prayers of so many people . . . I know from personal experience that God is alive and Jesus saves."

Wallace spoke from the floodlit, carpeted sanctuary stage of the Thomas Road Baptist Church in this city of 57,000, while a golden robed, 90-voice choir and a 5,000 member congregation applauded his words, and police sharpshooters stood roof-top guard outside, their telescopic rifles silhouetted against the sky.

As he spoke, television lights bathed the specially-braced podium where he stood, and the church's color cameras recorded the service for broadcast this week to some 10,000 communities throughout the U.S.

The congregation rose and applauded warmly for several minutes when Wallace arrived and departed and his 10-minute address was puncutated by murmers of "Amen."

Wallace's appearance here followed speeches in New Orleans and Albuquerque. But unlike his stops in those cities, this appearance was marked by a notable lack of publicity.

Mayor Leighton Dodd said neither he nor any other of the city's elected officials were ever officially notified Wallace was coming. The governor politely but firmly turned down all requests for news conferences, interviews and comments about politics or his future plans.

His press aide, Elvin Stanton, said the governor had simply been asked by Pastor Jerry Falwell to visit the church several times in recent years, but had never had the chance until Sunday.

Sky Spies Grounded

EPHRATA, WASH. (AP)—A Grant County Superior Court judge has granted a temporary injunction prohibiting the Washington state patrol from using airplanes and stopwatches to catch speeding motorists in the county.

Judge Felix Rea granted the injunction in a suit filed by lawyer Nels. A. Hansen who contends the aerial observation is illegal under state law. The law only permits radar and other precision electronic equipment to catch speeders, Hensen said.

The injunction orders a stop to use of an airplane and stopwatches to measure the elapsed time of vehicles between special marks on the highways of grant County.

A mathematical table kept by the pilot of the plane translates the elapsed time into speed.

The use of airplane sightings always involves a distance of at least one half mile, according to the WSP.

Apartment Crisis The Key Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — While the general high cost and scarcity of housing troubles Barnett Danson, the new urban affairs minister is most concerned about the lack of rental apartment units which he says is reaching serious proportions.

Danson says he is disturbed but not surprised by high mortgage rates and high housing prices.

He did not, however, consider the single-family home problem a crisis, he said.

But, he added, the decline this year in rental unit construction is serious. He wanted to meet industry representatives and urban affairs department officials to discuss the problem.

The construction decline could lead to a "really high pressure situation in the major cities especially," the minister said.

Danson said the high cost of borrowing money and building material prices are probably big reasons for the slowdown in apartment construction this year. Local building codes — such as the height limit in Toronto — may also be a factor, he said, though he doubted it was a major one.

"I think we are going to have to go through a tough adjustment period," the minister said.

A Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. survey released last month, revealed that the average apartment vacancy rate for 22 metropolitan areas in mid-June was 2.4 per cent, down from the mid-1973 average of 3.3 per cent. The local vacancy rate varied from city to city. In Victoria it was practically nil.

Federal housing experts have said that a vacancy rate of three or four per cent generally yields fair rents to tenants and is attractive enough for builders to put up more apartment buildings.

Below that level, apartment owners could safely push up rents, they say.

There were 102,503 apartment units under construction at the end of June, down 2.5 per cent from last year. So far this year, builders have begun work on 38,782 new units, an 8.9-per-cent decline from the corresponding period last year.

Danson said he is disturbed by the decline in single-family home construction as well. But the drop in demand for mortgage loans probably will mean that mortgage rates will eventually level off.

High mortgage rates may also make government programs for low-cost housing more attractive to builders, he said.

Stepped up efforts to assemble land, encouraged by federal programs, might lead to increased house construction and better house prices.

This would not happen quickly, he added, but he thought the tide had turned.

U.S. HOUSING SLUMP GROWING

WASHINGTON (WP) — The U.S. home building industry, its customers already discouraged by rising prices and soaring interest rates, plunged farther into depression in July, the Department of Commerce reports.

New housing units were begun at an annual rate of 1.335 million, the department said — 16 per cent below the 1.59 million pace in June and 38 per cent below the 2.152 million rate of July, 1973.

New building permits, an indication of future housing starts, were off nearly 43 per cent from a year ago.

James Lynn, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development called the July housing figures "disheartening."

Dramatic improvement in the pace of housing construction requires a successful attack against what President Ford characterizes as "Domestic Public Enemy Number One: Inflation."

The housing industry has been buffeted by inflation, which has pushed up the cost of housing sharply over the past year, as well as much higher interest costs on mortgage loans.

To make matters worse, mortgage money has been drying up as small savers take their money out of savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks to invest in high-yielding government and private securities.

According to data from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates the savings and loan industry, the average interest rate borrowers paid on new home loans was 8.97 per cent in July, compared with 7.87 per cent in July, 1973.

The average new single-family home cost $40,700 last month, up from $37,000 the year before.

SUPERSTITION SCUTTLED

SALMO (CP) — Cominco Ltd., defying an old miner's superstition and alarmed by a labor shortage is hiring women to work underground at its B.C. mines.

The first women are toiling at the company's H. B. mine in this southeastern B.C. village after permission was received from the provincial government to hire them.

Howard Barker, superintendent of the lead-zinc mine, said a labor shortage prompted him to apply for permission to use women. The main stipulation made by the government was that any woman hired to work underground would have to undergo a medical examination annually, rather than every two years, as do men.

Florence Gaal, a hoist operator, is the first woman to work entirely underground, while Jo Ruelle, an assistant geologist, spends much of her time underground.

Mrs. Gaal, a 32-year-old mother of two, said she thinks mining jobs are "a fantastic opportunity for women."

She operates the hoist that transports other workers and equipment up and down the 700-foot main shaft and assists in other communications duties.

Mrs. Gaal was trained for six weeks before taking over the hoist, spending some time as an observer and then working as a skip tender to learn the other half of the hoist operation.

The skip tender rides in the elevator-like hoist cage and signals the hoist operator to raise or lower the apparatus through a system of bells.

She said that at first "some of the men definitely weren't used to seeing a woman around the mine."

That's in keeping with an old superstition among miners, that a woman going underground would be followed by disaster.

The superstition is dying out but Mrs. Gaal said the men tend to watch their step around her.

"Sometimes they seem overly polite and I know there's a lot less swearing than there was before I came."

Greece Treading Neutrality Line

... a calculated risk that could fall flat

By JONATHAN C. RANDAL

ATHENS (WP) — Greece is trying to give the impression of drawing closer to Western Europe and Yugoslavia that halfway house between East and West — in an effort to strike a semi-neutralist stance and diminish previously paramount U.S. influence.

Much of the new gambit is dictated by the government's need to persuade Greek public opinion that real teeth accompany the decision to withdraw Greek armed forces from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization integrated command and thus prove Greek independence.

Prompted by the government's temptation to find a foreign scapegoat for the former military dictatorship's disastrous meddling in Cyprus, nonetheless the withdrawal decision has stolen much of the thunder of the left which has been denouncingf NATO and U.S. air and naval bases for years.

But the new desire to improve relations with the nine-nation European Common Market and Yugoslavia also underlines Prime Minister Constantine Carmanlis' long-held view that Greece's future lies as much with Europe as with the United States.

Toleration of the military dictatorship for seven years did nothing to improve the image of the United States which has inherited the great power mantle from Britain and with it almost automatic blame for anything unpleasant befalling Greece.

The Cyprus catastrophe ranks high in Greek national disasters, and Washington is held responsible for tilting towards Turkey.

In this period of profound national humiliation over Cyprus, the government has played up the weekend visit of Milos Minic, the Yugoslav foreign minister who arrived with a message from Marshal Tito, that veteran apostle of non-alignment.

Perhaps understandably neither the government nor the Athenian press has mentioned that a visit to Ankara was also on Minic's schedule.

Similarly, France is a suddenly-discovered ally thanks to spirited French condemnation of Turkish behavior in Cyprus in the United Nations Security Council — and the French government's decision to speed up deliveries of warplanes, tanks and missile boats.

Left unsaid has been the fact that the orders for 50 Mirage fighter-bombers, 100 AMX-30 tanks and a dozen missile boats were placed by the military junta.

Even the government's desire to improve the status of its Common Market associate membership — which was all but frozen during the dictatorship — could well be hampered by its decision to withdraw from the NATO military command.

Still under study is the fate of the so-called "joint use" bases run under bilateral agreements by the United States.

In an effort to prove its policy is not pure bluff, the government on Friday banned all U.S. military flights in and out of Greece.

Over the weekend the ban was relaxed to allow flights in and out of the U.S. air base at Athens civilian airport, then extended to allow use of air bases on Crete.

With crowds of Greeks demanding the expulsion of American bases in daily demonstrations in Athens' Constitution Square, that seemed the least the government could do.

EGYPTIAN GIRL, 13, BEATS THE CHANNEL

DOVER, England (Reuter) — Abla Khairy of Cairo, at 13 the youngest person to swim the English Channel, awoke today a celebrity.

A photograph of her, showing her giving a triumphant thumbs-up after her 12½-hour battle with the sea Sunday, appeared in a variety of British newspapers under headlines such as "Queen of the Nile Conquers the Channel."

Abla Cright, who learned to swim only six years ago, had to fight through rough seas and biting winds to complete the 21-mile crossing from Dover to France.

When she did, she succeeded American Leonor Modell, who established herself as the youngest successful channel swimmer 10 years ago at the age of 14. Abla also improved on Leonore's crossing time by more than three hours. "I'm very proud, I did it for Egypt and President Sadat," she said afterwards.

U.S. President or Not . . . Jerry Won't Sleep Alone

WASHINGTON — President and Mrs. Ford will spend their first night in the White House tonight, breaking a longtime presidential custom by sharing the same bed.

As far back as the Franklin D. Roosevelts, and perhaps longer, separate bedrooms were used by the president and his wife.

"After 25 years of marriage, why should they be separated because they are living in the White House?" said Nancy Howe, the First Lady's personal secretary.

Mrs. Howe said the possibility Betty Ford will be disturbed by late night phone calls "will be nothing new to Mrs. Ford. She's accustomed to such calls."

The Fords' double bed has been moved into the suite formerly occupied by Pat Nixon. The former president's bedroom will be transformed into a combination study and hideaway.

TORONTO — Bobby Hull player-coach with Winnipeg Jets got the most attention Sunday of those participating at Salute-to-Winnipeg festivities at the Canadian National Exhibition. Also participating in the salute were Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg, television personality Monty Hall, who is a Winnipeg native, and Sharon Sutherland, Miss Winnipeg, 1974.

BETTY
. . . togetherness

WASHINGTON — Karl Earl Mundt, 74, who came out of the corn-and-hog prairie of South Dakota where he had been a teacher of speech to become one of the most vocal congressional critics of Communism, died Friday. Cause of death was given as cardio-respiratory arrest.

Mundt, who served in the House and the Senate for 34 years, was as familiar to television viewers in 1954 as Sen. Sam Ervin was during the Watergate hearings, presiding over the Army-McCarthy hearings that presaged the fulminating Wisconsin senator's downfall.

Mundt ran the hearings after Sen. Joseph McCarthy stepped down during the dispute over charges that the army had been pressured to give preferential treatment to draftee C. David Schine, who had been an unpaid consultant on McCarhty's staff.

Mundt also was acting chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1948 when it conducted investigations into alleged Communist infiltration of the State Department and other government agencies. That investigation resulted in the indictment of Alger Hiss for perjury and also brought then Rep. Richard Nixon, a freshman congressman onto the national scene.

HITCHCOCK
. . . birthday

LOS ANGELES — "I never realized I would be working so hard at this age," commented Alfred Hitchcock as he turned 75.

By all the rules he should be slowing down his work pace. He isn't.

Before entering a birthday interview, he engaged in a long script session with Ernest Lehman, who wrote one of the director's biggest hits, North by Northwest. "I've been working on this script since the first of the year," Hitchcock explained.

ROME — Police are investigating an apparent attempt to extort about $700,000 from actor Marcello Mastroianni by threatening to detroy his house. The threat and the demand were made in two anonymous telephone calls to the actor's home Saturday. Mastroianni was not in Rome police added.

When Disaster Hits . . .

HESPERIA, Mich (AP) — Blaine Johnson is a farmer who has learned to live with disaster and near economic ruin. But now he's faced with an even more hurtful obstacle: fear and suspicion from his neighbors.

In 1972, Johnson's dairy herd was the best producer of dairy products in the county.

But today his future as a livestock farmer teeters on the brink. He is one of about 100 farmers who learned last May that their cattle herds would have to be destroyed because they'd inadvertently eaten contaminated feed containing a fire-retardant chemical.

The livestock of those farmers involved has been quarantined, their milk barred from the marketplace and their beef pronounced unfit for human consumption.

The sickness of the contaminated cattle isn't contagious, but many of Johnson's longtime neighbors apparently think it is.

Last week, neighbors threatened to boycott the Newaygo County Fair if Johnson's cattle were exhibited.

"These are people who are good neighbors," Johnson said. "But they said they were afraid. They said 'We've got a clean herd, and we want it to stay that way.' "

Compounding his problems are court delays in getting the contaminated herds destroyed.

The cattle have to be buried someplace, but where?

To date, every county considered as a possible site has filed an injunction seeking to block the burial.

The farmers who own contaminated herds have lost a market for their crops.

Nobody wants to buy hay from farmers whose fields were spread this spring with manure from the contaminated cows, even though tests have shown the fields to be clean.

When it's finally over, Johnson and the others will have the added expense of plowing under their fields, steam-cleaning their barns and equipment and, then, rebuilding their herds.

But Johnson is a strong and proud man who has vowed to fight it through.

"We could qualify for the food stamps and welfare now, I guess, but I guess I'll get a lot thinner before I do that."

Worst Yet to Come In Woods Lay-Offs

Victoria sawmill activity is at full capacity at present but the long-term outlook is "rather bleak," says Walter Nelson. Victoria manager of B.C. Forest Products.

He was commenting on reports that 2,880 woodworkers have been laid off in British Columbia this month, 2,000 of them in the interior.

Nelson said Victoria mills have lumber orders for the next three months and expect only minor layoffs in that period.

"Beyond that, we just don't know. The lumber market is dreadful."

B.C. Forest Products employs 550 in its sawmill and 350 in a plywood plant.

Elsewhere on the island there have been minor layoffs but some are related to normal vacation schedules and the forest fire hazard.

Nelson said the company was becoming very concerned about the prospects for this fall unless export markets improve drastically. There was no indication these markets would improve.

He said he could not recall a time before when all export markets were in a severe slump at the same time. The market was soft in Japan and western Europe as well as in the United States.

Other mills in the district report some layoffs already.

Plumper Bay Sawmill at Esquimalt harbor is down to 25 men from a normal crew of 150.

Sooke Forest Products is down to just over 200 men from 300.

The Youbou sawmill of B.C. Forest Products is down to two shifts from three, but this is normal cutback for this time of year.

MacMillan Bloedel is reviewing its employment lists and expects to make some changes later this week.

Pulp and paper markets are very strong and pulp mills are at full production.

Some sawmills are diverting their activities to chipping whole logs for the pulp mills, rather than cutting lumber and sending mills the left over chips as in normal practice.

On the coast the layoffs have been only slightly above normal but are expected to become severe unless the market changes. Ironically, some B.C. Forest Products and MacMillan Bloedel logging camps on the island have a shortage of men. Usually, logging activity is as brisk as allowed by the fire hazard at this time of the year to build up a log inventory for the fall.

Meanwhile, in the interior sawmill production is down 21 per cent and 2,000 men have been laid off from a usual forest work force of 12,000.

Al MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Interior Lumber Manufacturer's Association, said further layoffs could be expected.

He has arranged a meeting with Resources Minister Bob Williams for Wednesday afternoon in Victoria to seek relief from stumpage costs.

The government charges forest companies a percentage of their selling price as a stumpage fee. Most trees are logged from government property and the logging firms pay a fee for permission to cut. The fee varies with the market price for lumber.

MacDonald said the Social Credit government in 1969 gave redress to the industry when it agreed to ignore a temporary surge in the market price of lumber which would have resulted in high stumpage fees for logging firms.

He said this is a precendent which indicates the government should give relief when prices are abnormally high or the market is very soft.

STATE PLAN SNARLED

SPOKANE (AP) — A state-funded study on ways to train coyotes not to eat sheep came to an end here this weekend when dogs ate the sheep.

Dr. Carl Gustavson, an adjunct assistant professor of psychology at Eastern Washington State College, said eight sheep being held in pens were eaten by a dog pack.

The dogs had jumped a 12-foot fence to reach the sheep.

Gustavson had headed the $50,000 program, funded by the state department of agriculture, to develop a method of making coyotes temporarily ill after they eat chemically doctored lamb meat patties.

Radiation Tests On U.S. Flights

NEW YORK (NYT) — Passengers aboard United States airliners in the next few weeks may notice a transparent plastic badge, about two inches square on the uniform of one of the flight attendants serving drinks and meals.

The badge, called a thermal luminescent dosimeter, or TLD, contains five crystal beads that absorb radio-activity.

About 200 attendants are wearing these badges in an experiment aimed at measuring the extent to which they (and their passengers) are exposed to emissions from radioactive materials carried in the cargo holds of commercial aircraft.

After an eight-week test, the badges will then be sent for examination to the Atomic Energy Commission, which supplied them to the Transport Workers Union and the Association of Flight Attendants, the two organizations that represent stewardesses and stewards.

The TLD program springs from a growing concern among airline employees about "the hidden passenger" — hazardous cargoes.

The 31,000-member Air Line Pilots Association, which for the past four years has been conducting a study of the regulations governing the carrying of potentially dangerous goods, charges that the "vast majority" of passenger planes have some type of hazardous material aboard such as radioactive drugs, pesticides and other poisons, viruses, germ cultures and even explosives.

Developed Countries Borrowing Heavily

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain, France and Italy borrowed heavily in the Euro-Currency market during the first six months of the year, in part to pay their oil bills.

New figures from the World Bank Sunday showed that borrowing of Euro-currency funds in the first half of 1974 totalled $19.7 billion, close to the total of $22 billion borrowed in all of 1973.

The big increase in borrowing was chiefly by developed countries, whose share of total publicized borrowing increased to 66 per cent in the first half of 1974 from 51 per cent in 1973.

Total borrowing by developed countries was $13.1 billion, compared with $11.1 billion for all of 1973.

Britain arranged for the biggest loans $4.8 billion, followed by France, $2.9 billion, and Italy, $2.2 billion. The borrowing of these three countries accounted for 76.2 per cent of total borrowing of developed countries.

The Euro-currency market refers to funds which are lent internationally, primarily in Europe. Transactions formerly were largely in surplus United States dollars held in European banks but other currencies lately have been included.

The new World Bank figures on lending activity in the first six months were reported in the latest issue of the IMF Survey, a publication of the International Monetary Fund IMF.

The figures referred to loans which had been arranged for, and did not reflect whether the loans had actually been taken and the use to which it was put. They also included publicized loans.

TTC STRIKE SETTLEMENT FORECAST

Times News Services

Metropolitan Toronto enters the second week of its transit strike today with negotiations still proceeding slowly between the Toronto Transit Commission and the Amalgamated Transit Union.

Since talks resumed between the two sides a week ago, negotiators have been attempting to reach agreement on relatively minor issues contained in the union's original 148 demands.

There has been some discussion of more contentious items — wages, split shifts and pensions — but intensive negotiation on thes esubjects has not begun.

The two sides negotiated through the weekend under provincial mediator J. D. Speranzini, but the pace of progress remained slow.

Speranzini said Sunday he is hopeful the two sides will begin intensive negotiations on major issues "in a few days," and added that both sides have begun to make concessions.

Leonard Moynehan, president of division 113 of the union also said in an interview Sunday it is likely the big issues in the strike will be before the bargaining teams by Tuesday and that if any break occurs in the dispute it will probably be then.

The union president, representing the 5,700 TTC drivers engaged in Toronto's first public transit strike in 22 years, was optimistic about the talks and said they were going well.

Neither Metro Council nor the provincial government have yet shown any inclination to intervene directly in the dispute. But if talks do break off, government might be called in to order an end to the strike in the public interest.

In Montreal, city bus service was restored today following a weekend of maintenance checks on the buses by supervisory personnel because of the 13-day-old walkout by garage and maintenance workers.

A spokesman for the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission said however that service could not be guaranteed beyond Friday.

A spokesman for the transport union said 600 of the transit commission's 1800 buses were out of service because of major breakdowns.

"A lot of the buses are good for nothing but the scrap heap and the MUCTC is going to lose about 100 a day," the spoksman said. The union has called a meeting today and plans to demonstrate in front of the courthouse where 71 members face contempt of court charges for defying as Quebec Superior Court injunction issued Aug. 7 ordering the men to return to work immediately.

Coast Traffic Under Wide Radar Eye

VANCOUVER (CP) — In about two weeks, the last man on shift will lock the door of the shaky little signal station atop Lions Gate Bridge for the last time, and the Vancouver traffic management port radar centre on the 12th centre will be on its own.

The new Ministry of Transfloor of a building at the north end of the bridge will still be assisted in its watch of Vancouver Harbor traffic by a television camera under the roadbed of the bridge.

A flick of the switch in the management centre's offices, and the camera rotates about 180 degrees, providing a view of the water around First Narrows. Another switch and there's a close-up of a vessel on the monitor.

The camera has an adjustable iris, providing a clearer picture at night than at day.

First narrows is busy — last year 39,000 vessels, excluding pleasure and fishing boats, passed through the water under Lions Gate Bridge — but this is only a small part of the radar centre's coverage.

With wider-ranging equipment and more ambitious surveillance plans, the MoT has established a communications system and a zone from the coastal waters east of Vancouver Island and from Cape Flattery, Wash., to Cape Caution at the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

However, the centre's radar covers only the six miles from Point Grey to Second Narrows, and depends on very high frequency radio to keep informed of vessel traffic outside radar range.

The centre's role is strictly advisory, says John Cottingham, officer in charge. Through radio and radar, the regulators advise ships of oncoming traffic and that is all. "No one tells a captain what to do," he says.

The system is voluntary and a ship is not compelled to keep in touch with the centre when in zone.. However, nearly all deepsea ships and tugs comply.

Compliance with the system is expected to be made manadatory in two to five years if approval is won from the international maritime consultant organizations.

Once in the zone, there are several calling in points at which a ship may report its position and any adverse weather.

The traffic regulators at the centre advise ships of other vessels in the area. The regulators keep track of vessel movements with color-coded blocks representing the ships. These are slotted into trays marked off into geographical sections so they can at a glance whether any vessels are inbound or outbound.

They pay particular attention to the heavy traffic areas of Haro Strait, Sand Heads (at the mouth of the Fraser River) and the entrance to the harbor. Captain David Johns, regional supervisor, said supertankers don't pose any more problems than other vessels from the point of view of traffic control. However, their larger stopping time has to be taken into account.

The Lions Gate station is being abandoned because its radar and radio are old and difficult to maintain as bridge traffic below creates a constant shaking. Also, modern equipment with greater range takes up more space than the "broom closet" on the bridge had.

Park Murder Try Well-Prepared

TOKYO (UPI) — South Korean President Park Chung-Hee's attempted assassination in Seoul was well prepared at least one year in advance, Japanese police in Osaka said.

They said the would-be assassin, Moon Se Kwang, 22, a Korean resident in Japan, left a signed statement which was found during a search of his home in Osaka.

Moon is now under arrest in Seoul accused of fatally shooting Park's wife Thursday.

The statement which Moon called a "battle declaration" said "as of Aug. 1, after one year of preparation, we have completed 50 per cent of the (planned) punitive expedition against Park."

He said "truly, national liberation day (Aug. 15) will be an event for the people. All our fellow men should be prepared to become fighters to save the nation."

"The time for prayer to God has gone . . . our future is guaranteed only by the mouth of the gun. We will march forward, whether it be to death or victory," Moon's declaration said.

Earlier, Osaka police indicated preparations for the attempted assassination of Park and the slaying of his wife may have involved more than one person.

Officers said Moon lived beyond the means provided by his salary as an irregularly employed janitor. They also said a long-time friend, Mrs. Mikiko Yoshii, 23, had been arested for reportedly using her husband's name to get a Japanese passport for Moon.

EVIDENCE DESTROYED IN CRIME LAB FIRE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Corporal R. G. Adams said Sunday that evidence from several crimes was destroyed when fire heavily damaged the toxicology section of the RCMP crime laboratory here Saturday.

The toxicology section tests evidence gathered from RCMP investigations. He said an exact list of what was lost won't be available for a while.

A vapor explosion is believed responsible for the fire and Corporal Adams said arson has been ruled out as the cause of the two-alarm blaze.

About 45 firemen battled for nearly an hour to douse the fire which apparently started in a refrigerator used to store highly volatile chemicals such as ether.

Corporal Adams said the refrigerator's door had been blown open and a nearby wall was dislocated by several inches. Glass from windows in the section was scattered 20 to 25 feet, he said.

Other sections of the laboratory suffered smoke and water damage but are still operational.

Esquimalt-Vic West is the best Little League baseball team in Canada, thanks to excellent pitching by Dave O'Brien and Mike Bitten, near-flawless fielding and a last-minute batting practice called by manager Bob Bull and coach Jim Uhren. The batting drill took place Saturday morning and in the afternoon the B.C. champions socked three home runs to sweep two games from Lethbridge and take the Canadian title in Mississauga, Ont. Esquimalt-Vic West now competes in the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., starting today. Page 12.

Elsewhere on today's sports pages:

The B.C. Soccer League believes it has found a loophole in a Canadian Soccer Association directive forcing two Victoria clubs, Gorge Molsons and London Boxing Club, to play in the Vancouver Island League next season. As a result, the teams are ready to enter the B.C. league and play against Mainland clubs again. Page 12.

Two Esquimalt teams by the same name, the Teamsters, won provincial lacrosse championships on the weekend but two Victoria clubs didn't fare as well. Esquimalt won titles in Junior "B" and Intermediate "B" playdowns. Victoria McDonalds were eliminated in Pacific Junior "A" semi-finals and Victoria Island Pacific Oil lost out in the B.C. Intermediate "A" finals. Page 12.

In golf, Victoria's John Morgan came close to winning the Alberta Open in Edmonton. His chances blew away in the win on the final nine holes, however, and Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., grabbed the victory. Page 13.

When baseball's Cincinnati Reds are winning, their fans refer to them as the Big Red Machine. They're winning these days and now are only 2½ games behind the leading Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West. That's the closest they've been to first place since April 26. The Dodgers, meanwhile, could use a tuneup. They lost 10-3 to Pittsburgh Pirates, their sixth defeat in a row. Page 15.

People Crisis Eyed

Times News Services

BUCHAREST — Representatives of more than 130 nations are gathered here to discuss the population crisis which is taking shape as one of the greatest problems the world has to face.

Organizers of the United Nations World Population Conference, however, fear it may degenerate into a quarrel between rich and poor countries.

Despite a mood of official optimism, plenty of private qualms remain with many of the poorer countries demanding curbs on what they consider excessive consumption by advanced countries.

A row over sealing has already cast a pall over the meeting.

Several Communist countries, led by China, and Romania, have campaigned for the seating of an uninvited delegation from the Vietnam Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) — the Viet Cong.

The main question before the conference, which formally opened today is the global explosion in man's numbers that is beginning to tax both the earth's capacity to produce food and many of its other resources.

Given the current world population growth rate of two per cent annually, man's numbers will double every 35 years.

It took mankind all of its history until the early 19th century to reach one billion; only another 100 years were needed to double that figure; at 3.8 billion last year, the population is expected to double by the end of the century.

Roughly 85 per cent of the projected increases would be in underdeveloped countries.

The very fact that the conference is taking place is viewed by Western specialists as a major achievement.

This is the first attempt by world governments to grapple with the problem that contributes to widespread hunger, a deteriorating environment, and a vicious cycle of poverty and misery in developing nations of the Third World.

Because of the complexity of the problem and because of growing inter-dependence in areas of food production, energy, raw materials and uncontrolled human fertility, the conference is not likely to come up with a firm plan of action.

U.S. Envoy Killed In Cypriot Protest

Times News Services

The U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, Rodger Davies, was killed today in a rain of submachinegun fire by gunmen who stormed the American embassy in Nicosia under cover of a riot by 700 Greek Cypriots screaming against U.S. failure to stop the Turkish invasion of the island.

The gunmen wore the military-style uniforms favored by Eoka-B, the Greek Cypriot guerrilla organization that has fought for years to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said an unidentified U.S. marine also was killed in a burst of submachinegun fire.

Clerides rushed to the embassy to try to help and issued a statement deploring "this heinous crime."

In Athens, Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis denounced the shooting and said it will only add to Greece's troubles over Cyprus.

Also in Athens, thousands of demonstrators clashed with police in Constitution Square today when a hunger strike by students over Cyprus erupted into anti-American riots.

Seven policemen were injured in the rioting. Police detained 23 persons but later released all but four.

The violence erupted after three days of anti-American rallies in various parts of Greece in the wake of strong popular feeling over the alleged U.S. support of the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

Correspondent Michael Keats said Davies was killed when a mob of 700 Greek Cypriots descended on the embassy screaming "Kissinger! Kissinger! Get your Turkish friends to help you now!"

The mob burned U.S. Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger in effigy and set fire to at least five cars in the embassy compound. The cars blew up when flames reached their gasoline tanks, darkening the embassy area with clouds of thick black smoke.

The demonstators burned the U.S. flag, shouting, "burn them down, as they burned Cyprus down."

Police hurled tear gas grenades at the demonstrators in a futile effort to hold them back.

But still the mob came on, carrying banners reading Murderers, Your Mask Has Fallen and NATO Murderers of Cyprus.

On the military front, correspondent Nat Gibson reported the Turks within three miles of the Nicosia - Limassol Road, the only road to the Mediterranean still open.

Hundreds of Greek Cypriot refugees were streaming down the 32-mile road, he reported.

In Washington, Defence Secretary James Schlesinger accused the invasion force of going too far and hinted at a possible cut off in U.S. military aid to Turkey.

GREEK PURGE

ATHENS (AP) — The commander-in-chief of the Greek armed forces and nine other top members of the army command were ousted today, the government announced.

The purges appeared to be a move to further strengthen the civilian government's hold over the armed forces by Premier Constantine Caramanlis.

IRA Guerrillas Blast Way Free

Times News Services

DUBLIN — Police and troops today mounted one of the biggest dragnets ever seen in the Irish republic in an effort to recapture 19 guerillas who blasted their way out of a top-security jail.

The men, all leading members of the violent Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army, broke out of Portlaoise jail 50 miles southwest of here Sunday.

They used explosives to open two gates before hijacking cars at gunpoint.

In Ulster thousands of heavily armed British troops combed the countryside today.

Although an Irish security official claimed the Irish had "sealed off all the escape routes," a spokesman at the Lisburn British Army headquarters for Ulster said "an immediate tightening of security was ordered on the frontier."

Most of the escapers were from the north and others from border areas.

British troops boarded Dublin-to-Belfast trains at the border for intensive searches and long lines of automobiles formed at border checkpoints where soldiers looked for the jailbreakers among returning weekenders.

"Sadly the escape will be a boost to IRA morale which has been reeling in recent months from the effect of a series of successes by the army and police in the north," a British army officer said.

The Irish government, embarrassed by the second spectacular IRA jailbreak in 10 months, has ordered an inquiry.

The previous escape featured a helicopter snatch of three IRA men from Dublin's Mountjoy jail.

The latest escapees are believed to include former Londonderry Provisional leader Martin McGuinness and Kevin Mallon, the leading "provo" in the Mountjoy escape.

Pot Final Straw

SEATTLE (AP) — First they took Kathy Corey's TV, a radio, a strong box and finally a hair dryer.

But when they took her marijuana plants from her apartment, that was the last straw.

Kathy phoned police to report the latest loss, although she was unable to place a monetary value on the plants.

Kathy, who has been robbed four times in the past month, says stolen property is stolen property and should be reported even if it is marijuana.

"I suppose I had a lot of nerve to report it, but those were my plants and I don't feel it's wrong to be growing them. If I have to go to jail for reporting it, I will."

A police spokesman said no action was planned against Miss Corey.

And she said police saw the plants when they visited her following the earlier burglaries but they took no action.

"Every officer who has come up here has seen it. One told me he liked it; another said he thought the plants looked pretty healthy.

NEWS BRIEFS

Black Moderator

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Rev. Wilbur K. Howard, a black Ottawa minister, was elected moderator of the United Church of Canada Monday. Howard, 62, is the first black man ever chosen for the position, highest in the church that claims about two million members and adherents and is the largest in Canada.

Amnesty Eyed

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford told a stunned audience of ex-servicemen today he is prepared to consider conditional amnesty on young exiles who refused to serve in Vietnam and who now are willing to "work their way back" into U.S. society.

Takeover Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain workers today urged Justice Minister Otto Lang to recall paliament and legislate the takeover of grain elevators here. It described the wheat pools as "unnecessary and inefficient oligarchies" and complained they have created bottlenecks in the export of wheat.

Pilot Pay Hike

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Pacific Air pilots have reached a settlement in contract negotiations allowing for pay increases ranging from 14 to about 33 per cent in a 14-month agreement.

Current salaries range from $11,000 to $64,000 a year.

Reds Cut Road

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners today cut a key northern approach road to Saigon and captured a large village seven miles from the provincial capital of Tay Ninh in the heaviest Communist attacks in two years, South Vietnamese officers said.

WATERLOO MAN SEEN LIKELY UVIC CHOICE

Dr. Howard Petch, academic vice-president at the University of Waterloo, will likely be named the new president of the University of Victoria later this week.

A source close to the selections committee at the university said today that Petch is front-runner on a short list of candidates. The university's board of governors met today and there were indications it was to clean up details before announcing a successor to Dr. Hugh Farquhar. (See Page 17.)

Among candidates for the presidency known to be under close consideration are Petch, Dr. Walter Young, head of university's political science department, and a Dr. Harrow from Queen's University.

Mayors Chase Elusive Cabinet

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

MESACHIE LAKE — A delegation of alarmed mayors from northern B.C. chased up the Island Highway today in search of some positive answers from the provincial cabinet.

Concerned about the lack of communication on the status of northwestern development, the mayors arrived in Victoria this morning only to find all the ministers they had hoped to see had left town for a special cabinet meeting here, three miles west of Cowichan Lake.

The mayors were not to be swayed from their purpose, however, and jumped into a borrowed car and set off in search of the cabinet.

The determined delegation includes Mayors George Thom of Kitimat, Peter Lester of Prince George and J. J. Kempf from Houston.

The delegation arrived at the forest camp where cabinet was meeting around noon and slipped past the guard at the gate by saying they had a meeting with the ministers.

"The security system was lousy," said one of the mayors, "because anyone could walk in and say they were part of cabinet."

Once inside the compound, they talked with Highways Minister Graham Lea and finally reached an agreement to return at 3 p.m. to talk with Northern Affairs Minister Alf Nunweiler.

They were disappointed they did not get to meet with Resources Minister Bob Williams or Economic Development Minister Gary Lauk, and one of the delegates said, "I think we've been pushed down to the second string."

The mayors were sent from a meeting of northwestern mayors and regional district chairmen in Kitimat over the weekend where a resolution was drawn up to present to cabinet.

The resolution said the local government representatives fear that recent statements by the government "indicated some serious reservations by the spokesman as to the direction and the speed with which the government intends to move in expanding the economy of B.C. and this northwest sector in particular."

The representatives said they fully support regional economic expansion of the northwest as outlined by the Government.

Last spring Resources Minister Williams announced details of a $500 million development plan, including new transportation plans, lower freight rates, new sawmills and resource development, for the northwest sector of the province.

Thom said today his group has heard nothing "official" but had indications of a change in thought or a change of priorities on the part of the government.

RUBBLE STILL SMOULDERS on a city block in downtown Los Angeles which was wiped out by an explosion Saturday night. The mysterious alphabet bomber — sought in a three-death blast at Los Angeles International Airport earlier this month — has claimed responsibility for the blast which police earlier said was caused by a chemical ignition.

TEACHERS TO DEMAND HEFTY PAY RAISES

Times News Services

NARAMATA — School trustees and taxpayers in British Columbia were warned Sunday to be braced for hefty pay-hike demands by the province's teachers.

In a speech opening the B.C. Teachers' Federation summer conference, president Jim McFarlan said the demands would be "a hell of a lot."

"Inflation has eroded many of the gains of last year," he added, pointing out that teachers will be even worse off than they were before the last settlements if inflation continues at its present rate.

Mistaken for Hit-Man, Girl Slain

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Edith Perchman was delivering the Detroit Free Press on her regular route when she approached the Rudolph Acosta residence in Highland Park.

It was about 5 a.m. Sunday and still dark. Her father, Marion, who always drove her, was waiting in his car with Edith's 11-year-old sister and one of her friends.

Edith was about to flip the newspaper onto Acosta's front porch when a shotgun blast from a window in the house sprayed her in the face.

She fell in the yard, but pulled herself up and was stumbling toward her father's car when a man appeared on the porch with a pistol and began firing.

Police say Edith was hit at least 15 times in the two shootings.

She died after being admitted to hospital.

The girl's father told police he also was fired at as he pulled his daughter into the car from a grassy strip between the sidewalk and the curb.

Perchman was not hit, but as he sped off the car door flew open and Edith fell to the pavement. Perchman lost control and his car slammed into a nearby house.

Perchman was taken to hospital in serious condition with internal injuries. Edith's sister and friend were not hurt.

Acosta, 24, who told police he mistook the girl for a "hit man," was arraigned on charges of manslaughter and freed on $2,500 bail. An examination was set for Sept. 10. Police said he surrendered without a struggle when police arrived at his house.

Police said Acosta was not charged with murder because he did not intend to kill the girl. Detective Donald Roberts said state police had told Acosta that someone was out to kill him in connection with the drug-related death of another individual, and that Acosta apparently thought the girl was the assailant.

About 200 angry neighbors are demanding that Acosta be charged with murder.

Canadians' Cyprus Role Still Bit of a Mystery

By JAMES ANDERSON
Special to The Times

NICOSIA — A truck pulled to a stop in the batter, destrted outskirts of Nicosia. Half a dozen Canadian paratroppers piled out.

"Now be cool," ordered a sergeant. "There is an incident going on here."

Around the corner of an abandoned house, the incident at observation post Mojave dragged on, a mixture of tension and absurdity under the glaring Cyprus sun.

On a low row of sandbags around a six-foot-square gun pit sat two Turkish army majors, negotiating in fragmentary English with three Canadian peacekeepers. Fifteen yards down a slope of loose rubble, an aging Turkish M-47 tank pointed its gun straight at the big blue United Nations flag.

Two more Canadians perched on the tank, one of them leaning casually on its 50-calibre machine gun chatting with the Turkish crew and privately estimated their combat effectiveness.

Three Canadian armored personnel carriers waited on the city side of observation post Mojave. Up on the roof of the nearest house a Canadian was calmly tying a UN flag to a water storage tank.

After half an hour of stalemated talk, the Turkish officers climbed down the slope and the Canadians from the tank climbed up.

Major Keith Courbould turned to Corporal Donald Mackenzie and said: "We know damn well if they really want this hill they can take it, but I want you to keep the OP where it is."

"We'll stay right here unless they park the tank on top of us," said the corporal.

The major surveyed the scene, noting three more Turkish tanks in the fields stretching away to the north. "They've got us in a cross fire," he said.

"I wouldn't worry too much sir, the way I saw them shooting the other day, replied Corporal Mackenzie.

Major Courbould explained: "They claim they occupied this position before the ceasefire, but there was no one here when we arrived on Saturday, and it was the obvious place for an OP."

The Canadian job in Cyprus remained a bit of a mystery during the weekend as United Nations troops tried once again to define the boundaries of Greek and Turkish areas after another round of battles.

Captain Ian Nichols, aspokesman for the Canadian contingent, says: "We are waiting for our mission ot be re-defined, because it is obvious that we are not preventing a further outbreak of fighting."

In the alternation of danger and boredom, the off-again on-again war, the long hours of duty, some of the Canadians here are getting a bit fed up.

"They'll start again in a few days," said one member of Lord Strathcona's Horse sitting on an armored personnel carrier at a quiet cross roads.

"I hope they do, because maybe we'll get out of here."

But Corporal Donald Mackenzie his adrenalin surging as he stared down the barrel of a Turkish gun at OP Mojave, was happy. "We are doing our job for a change."

Pot Agent Retards Cancer

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — An agent in marijuana has retarded the growth of cancer in mice and researchers at the Medical College of Virginia are hopeful that it may be helpful in treating human cancer patients.

The findings were announced over the weekend by the Medical college of Virginia. The experiments are described in the new issue of "Science," the Journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The researchers present their findings Wednesday at a meeting of the American Society of Pharmacology and Experimental Theraputics in Montreal.

The college said: "Experimentation conducted . . . demonstrated that marijuana's active molecule, delta-9THC, slowed the growth of lung tumors, amammary tumor, and a virus induced leukemia, and significantly prolnged the life of the animals" inflicted with the illnesses.

The researchers stressed their studies are still in the early stages and said further investigation will be necessary before the marijuana molecule may be used in human beings.

Ojibwas Give Up Arms, Police Line Drops Back

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Residents of this northwestern Ontario town breathed a collective sigh of relief Sunday following a breakthrough in the month-long armed Indian occupation of Anicinabe Park.

The militants surrendered their arms in a gesture of good faith to try and reach a settlement and police withdrew to positions a half mile from the park area.

Both sides agreed to a 10-day negotiation period during which the Indians will continue to have control of the park.

The latest developments followed the arrival in Kenora of Ontario Deputy Attorney-General Frank Callahan and American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Dennis Banks.

Banks, highly respected by militants here, was invited to mediate by provincial officials as a last-ditch effort to avoid using force to oust the Ojibwa Warriors Society from the 14-acre park they claim is theirs by legal and historic rights.

The surrendering of their arms to neutral custody appeared, however, to be purely symoblic. There was no sign of the high-powered and semi-automatic weapons much in evidence during the occupation, which began July 22.

Part of the agreement to get substantive negotiations underway included the appointment of 12 Indian negotiators. Those designed are being allowed free movement to and from the park with no fear of arrest.

The 12 all are on a list of 27 militants police consider ringleaders. Some of them wasted no time taking advantage of their freedom, and only hours after the agreement they could be seen enjoying their first legal walk through downtown Kenora in almost a month.

Cameron insisted the laying down of the arms should not be construed as a surrender.

"To believe this would be disastrous," he said in a brief statement after handing over the weapons in the presence of Callahan and Kenora Mayor Jim Davidson.

The mayor, looking weary but relieved, said when the park situation was finally resolved, there still would have to be a lot of work performed for Indians.

"This is a symptom of a condition that should be changed, and I won't be happy until some of the conditions are changed that brought on the demonstrations such as we have had."

The militants say the municipally-operated camping facility, located on the outskirts of this resort town of 11,000, was illegally sold to Kenora by the Indian affairs department in 1959.

For three previous decades, the land was used by Indians as a stopping-off place on the way to and from Kenora.

Other demands involve correction of alleged police harrassment, improved education and employment opportunities, and improvement of other social and institutional measures.

Horner Seeks Support For Non-Socialist Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — Alberta MP Jack Horner says he and his supporters will seek a leadership candidate so the Progressive Conservative party is not faced with choosing between two "socialist Conservatives" at the next leadership convention.

Horner, who describes himself as right of centre, told panelists on the CTV program Question Period that he will organize a group of like-minded people to look for a leader.

"I think it would be dreadful for the Conservative party and for Canada if the leadership race in the Conservative party went down to the wire and we ended up with two socialist Conservatives and guys like me having no choice at all," he said.

The controversial MP for Crowfoot last week sought an early leadership convention but the party caucus suppoted Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield's proposal to remain as leader for up to two years.

Horner indicated he might leave the party but was later convinced by friends to stay on.

Horne said members of the group he will form will not be drawn from caucus. They will come from all parts of Canada.

Asked to name socialist Conservatives, Horner memtioned MPs Flora MacDonald (PC—Kingston and the Islands) and Joseph Clark (PC—Rocky Mountain).

Horner said the prices and incomes controls program advocated by Stanfield in the July 8 federal election campaign was not a true Conservative policy.

He had fought against it in the parliamentay caucus for months.

The party had missed a great opportunity in the last campaign by not urging that the Quebec language bill be tested in the Supreme Court of Canada.

MAGIC

A Spiritual Re-Awakening Or a Fun-Thing . . . it's Great

Tony Eng, admirer Christopher Devlin

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

With a flick of the wand and a flick of the wrist, a top-hatted magician transports his audience from the real world of rising prices to a fantasy world where coins appear out of nowhere and disappear just as quickly.

What a way to beat the rising cost of living — a shiny quarter appears behind someone's ear where there was no quarter before. A quick flick and the quarter now is 50 cents, another twist and the coin in the magician's hand is a Chinese yen.

White rabbits turn black, black rabbits turn into feather dusters, feather dusters become silk scarves and silk scarves disappear up the magician's sleeve, along with the endless bag of tricks he seems to keep up there.

The magic, the old vaudeville pull-a-rabbit-out-of-a-hat-type magic, is not kids' stuff.

The magician by any other name, an illusionist or a prestidigitator, is still a maker of fantasy and more and more adults seem to be looking for that fantasy world these days.

The U.S. manufacturers of magic tricks, supplies, Ouija boards and tarot cards report soaring sales and say the recent upsurge in interest in mystical acts is similar to the magic boom during the Depression.

Tony Eng is a Victoria magician whose card, coin and stage tricks are literally faster than the eye can see.

"Pick a card, any card," he says, holding out a fanned deck of red-backed playing cards.

A card is picked, the two of diamonds, and put back into the deck face down.

A few quick shuffles later and Eng says the card that was picked will "stick out like a sore thumb." He runs through the deck, still face down, and picks out the only blue-backed card out of the 52—it's the two of diamonds and it wasn't blue before!

Eng is one of about 18 magicians in Victoria who belong to the Magic Circle, which meets once a month to practise and learn new tricks.

Magic is a hobby for Eng, but because of the new interest in it, he gets a chance to practise it more often. He puts on two shows every Sunday night in the dining room of a local hotel and the room is packed for both shows.

"People come out and support it and the interest is there. Magic is really something for everyone from age zero to 90—theyre all amazed at what they see, he said.

Eng says magicians like the internationally-known Kreskin and television shows such as The Magician have heightened the interest in magic.

"I never try to make people believe that I have any sort of supernatural powers," Eng says.

"I tell them it's all an illusion and then I let them believe what they want to. Some just smile when I finish a trick, but others really have to try to figure it out."

Julian North, 1121 Caledonia, has another explanation for the upsurge of interest in Eng's type of magic and in his own practices of spiritualism and mysticism.

"It's all a part of the spiritual reawakening," North said.

"Tony's (Eng) kind of magic is fascinating for people now because they're in a period of searching out the truth. Tony knows both the cause and effect of what he's doing in his magic, but the audience only sees the effect. They have to search for the cause.

"It's the same in the church. People are searching for the truth, for the cause, they won't settle anymore for just the effect."

North, an artist, is a minister in training in the Spiritualist Church which has branch on Fort Street.

Philosophies of the church include miracle healing, prophecy, proof of life after death and communication with spirits.

The world is coming to the end of an era, North said, and people are becoming more interested in the spiritual side of life, instead of only the physical aspects.

North is a tarot card reader and that art is now entering into its "reincarnate state of being," he said.

The deck of 78 cards can be used to tell a person's past, present and future, but the cards must be interpreted by a diviner. The percentage of accuracy lies in the degree of the diviner's spiritual development, North said.

He has had some strange experiences with the cards.

Two women came in together one time, both to have their cards read. The first woman was difficult to read, he said, but when he started to read for the second woman, the first woman "grasped her throat and cried out 'That's my husband.'"

North said the explanation of the experience was that the second woman was being used as a medium for the first woman's dead husband to make contact.

The rebirth of things supernatural or mystical has had other bizarre manifestations.

In Chicago, the ex-wife of Terry Taylor, who styles himself as the high priest of the Satanic Church, asked a judge to order Taylor to stop driving their 10-year-old daughter around in a hearse decked out with an empty coffin. Mrs. Taylor also asked the court to make Taylor stop taking their daughter to his house of the occult and showing her a tombstone with Mrs. Taylor's name on it.

Julian North . . . it's all in the cards

The Political Reality: Always Be on the Alert

An NDP member of the legislature whose honesty is simply beyond question had me to lunch this week (fish-and-chips, wouldn't you know?) and voiced an option on the tragedy of the United States' White House that I find so curious that it practically commands comment.

It's his view, you see, that the evidence of rampant rot in the upper political echelons of the world's richest nation will have a backlash wherever governments are elected, that every politician has been hurt in prestige, trust and respect.

"Now," he said, "We are all under suspicion. It's created a cynicism that's bound to lower the caliber of men and women who seek office and may even lower the calibre of governments. We feel it already in our own party. All legislation must be approached with caution, with the awareness that we must first establish the honesty of our motivation."

As you'll have guessed, my friend is a freshman in politics, a man who entered that field, naively or otherwise, because he thought it the highest form of public service. The American — and, to some extent, the Canadian — reaction to the hypocrisy of Nixon and Company have thus hit him more personally than they'd hit the old-time, rough-and-ready politician, the animal, as somebody has said, who can sit on the fence and yet keep both ears on the ground.

It has always been true, I believe, that people vote their resentment, not their appreciation, that the average man does not vote for anything, but against something. So I do not believe that the Nixon affair will mean any great difference. If he's right, however, if it does mean a decline in respect and trust on the part of the voter, then America's loss may be our gain.

It's always been my belief that a man entering politics should first taste them as an observer, preferably as a newsman covering any level of government from the municipal to the federal. In my own time on those beats I reached the conclusion that the healthiest and sanest attitude was that of the day-to-day watch that, invariably, produces the deepest cynicism.

No one who has done that for any length of time can escape the wonderment that so many trivial men and women are given such enormous powers over their fellows.

To be a chemist, as someone has observed, you must study chemistry. To be a lawyer or physician you must study law or medicine. But to be a politician you need only to study your own interests. This is true whether the interests are for good or for evil and, unhappily, there are more evil politicians than good politicians.

It is the power that corrupts, which is one reason that I am for any legislation designed to do away with conflicting interests. In this province, alone, any reporter who has covered the legislature can give you the name of at least three evil men who have made personal fortunes in the name of public service.

What the public does not seem to understand is that there exists a constant temptation for personal gain. Any roads or bridges that are built, any public hospitals or schools or other institutions, any zoning regulations or new access routes, anything, in fact, that means expenditure from the public purse, involves the politician, even those who are below the cabinet level, in an invitation to peddle his influence; to profit from advance knowledge or to serve local interests for his own gain. Disraeli called it the art of "plundering the blundering." That is still an apt description.

From time to time politicians are charged with specific crimes that arise from this temptation. More often it is all absolutely legal — the paving contractor, for example, getting the job because of his financial support of the local candidate — and, indeed, patronage in any government is such an accepted philosophy that we simply consider it the legitimate spoils of victory.

That is the cross that must be borne by those few politicans who have never wavered in their integrity — again, men and women well known and respected by those who chronicle the affairs of state. It's a burden they must accept, perhaps even to cherish, since the one slim hope for a government worthy of trust is precisely that kind of wary suspicion.

I don't believe that this cynicism or scepticism should be a negative thing. I would not endorse for a minute, for example the life-long voting pattern of Malcolm Muggeridge who always opts for the party out of power, whatever it may be. I believe that there are politicians and even parties that are basically honest and one of the few real pleasures of democracy is to believe so much in a man or a group that you will give them the personal mandate of your vote.

But I believe, too, that we should always be alert and on guard, however much we may believe in the policies or the ideologies we support, and if the American people had followed that simple instinct Nixon would never have been in the White House in the first place.

Linen Strike Over

A 75-day strike at Canadian Linen Supply Company Limited, 947 North Park, is over and 57 employees are back on the job.

The business, which was put up for sale during the dispute, is no longer on the market, manager Ken Smith said today.

The laundry was shut down June 5 when members of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union went on strike for improved wages and fringe benefits.

Smith said today he did not know the terms of the settlement but a union spokesman said they include a wage hike of $1.65 in four stages over two years, the company paying all of health insurance premiums and three-quarters of the premium for a new dental plan.

Basic pay was $2.92 an hour at the time the dispute started. At that time the union wanted $1 an hour more in a one-year contract and the company offered 93 cents an hour over two years.

Empress Vote Set

Empress Hotel employees will take a strike vote Wednesday in support of undisclosed contract demands made to CP Hotels.

A spokesman for the Transport Workers Union hotel division said 350-400 employees of The Empress would be eligible to vote. He said negotiations had been carried on over the past six to eight weeks and would not confirm a report that staff were seeking an $2 an hour raise.

There had been an undertaking not to discuss the contract negotiations publicly, he said.

Burglar Nets $2,130 Cash

A burglar fled with about $2,130 from a Hillcrest Avenue house early this morning.

Saanich police said the burglar, who entered the house by an unlocked door, was scared off by a woman who heard rummaging through purses.

Police Chief Bob Peterson declined to release the name and address of the family because he said "we don't think the family would like it."

$3 Million Needed To Finish Highway

The cost of completing the last unpayed section of the West Coast road between Jordan River-Port Renfrew could be $3 million, Esquimalt MLA Jim Gorst said today.

But he said the people west of Sooke deserve better communication with the larger communities where they must do business, attend school and cultural activities.

"They are physically and psychologically cut off from Sooke and Victoria," Gorst said.

One of about 65 people who took part in a 30-car cavalcade Sunday from Sooke to the mouth of San Juan River, Gorst said he will report to Highways Minister Graham Lea the 10-mile stretch straddling the Sombrio River is "without doubt the most difficult."

"I think highways ought to get on with the job," Gorst added.

The cavalcade organized by Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce was to draw attention to the hazardous, rough and time-wasting gravel section.

at 5 a.m. to make the trip, the MLA said.

The provincial economy requires that people work in these outlying areas for the logging, mining and fishing industries.

"I told the people they should be able to get back and forth easier than that," Gorst said.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Bob McHaffie was among guests invited to make the 100-mile return trip which featured a smelt barbecue on the beach at Port Renfrew.

He contended the completion of engineering and paving of the West Coast Road would be an important factor in serving the tourist industry.

"People are coming here in great numbers than ever before whether we like it or not, with improved ferry service," he said. The road would be of "great benefit" to the circle route which takes travellers back to the Island Highway by way of Lake Cowichan or Shawnigan Lake.

The section, which starts about five miles east of Port Renfrew, is cut by three or four deep ravines and would be costly to bring up to standard required for paving.

Gorst said bridging would be required: "You'd probably be looking at about $3 million."

School buses have a 50-mile run from Port Renfrew to Edward Milne Secondary School east of Sooke village, virtually all of it in darkness during the winter. Children must be up

Ask The Times

Q. Who are the "Contemptibles" and what are they noted for? Do they have a special insignia or decoration pin? A.M.S.

A. The "old Contemptibles" are a select group of First World War veterans. In August of 1914 after the Germans had invaded Belgium, Kaiser Wilhelm ordered his generals to wipe out "the contemptible little British Army" which had come to the aid of the Belgians.

The soldiers seized on this reference, calling themselves the "Old Contemptibles," a name they carried with pride.

In 1925 the Old Contemptibles Association was formed. To be a member, a veteran must have served in the lines with the British Expeditionary Force between Aug. 3 and Nov. 22, 1914.

There are about 16 names on the roll of the Victoria branch, the last remaining organized branch in Canada, says president William Jones.

The association has a badge, a circle with crossed swords, the association name and the dates Aug. 3 to Nov. 22, 1914.

Deer Control Call Made By Saanich

Saanich council has asked for provincial government help in fighting the increasing deer nuisance.

"The deer population on the peninsula is now around 2,000," Mayor Ed Lum said today. "They're really playing havoc with the crops. The problem has been with us for some time but it's getting worse."

Lum said Saanich wants the provincial government to come up with an over-all policy for control of deer throughout British Columbia.

He said farmers on the lower mainland are also suffering serious losses.

"It's a problem we're going to be faced with," he said. "We need support and guidance. Right now, the only thing we can do is fence, which is not very practical. The only other alternative is to shoot them."

Lum said there is a bylaw forbidding the use of firearms and there had to be a better solution than shooting.

At tonight's council meeting, Saanich will deal with the latest complaint.

It's from John Bradshaw of the Island Seed Company on West Saanich Road.

Bradshaw said deer nibble flowers being grown for seed.

"They don't do it all in one night," Bradshaw said, "It's a little bit every night. We've tried everything short of shooting. If we didn't watch it, we'd lose everything by the end of the season."

Bradshaw said provincial wildlife officials recommend erection of sloping fences but this is not the answer.

"We only have 2½ acres," he said, "and fences like that would lose us a lot of valuable land because it would be impossible to cultivate ground under the fence. That ground would be lost."

Car Crash Kills Victorian

One man died and two others were injured in a two-car crash late Saturday night at Blanshard and Hillside.

Name of the dead man has not been released pending notification of next-of-kin, but police said he was from Victoria.

City police said the dead man's car, which had been westbound on Hillside, was in collision with a car driven south on Blanshard by Eric Huntley, 24, of 1230 Fort.

Huntley and a passenger, Michael Durling, 24, of 991 Cloverdale, are in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with multiple injuries.

Police said Huntley's car struck a lamppost on a pedestrian island in the intersection after the impact.

Damage to the Huntley car was estimated at $2,000 and to the other car at $1,500.

Fourteen other persons died in traffic accidents in B.C. during the weekend.

They're Sailing for No. 1

Eighteen competitors began a 10-race series off Esquimalt today to decide who will be this year's North American single-handed champion.

The series is the North American Yacht Racing Union's George O'Day championships, one of the most highly competitive dinghy sailing events on the continent.

Racing will be held until Thursday and, if the weather doesn't co-operate could continue until Friday.

With the exception of Tony Rose of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, all the sailors are American.

If Rose wins, he will be the second Canadian to capture the coveted George O'Day Trophy. Colin Park of Vancouver won it in 1965.

The NAYRU has stipulated the championships, as in 1973, will be raced in Lasers, 20 new boats being shipped from the Montreal factory for the event.

Designed by Canadian Bruce Kirby, editorial chairman for the magazine Yacht Racing, the Laser is acclaimed as the "miracle" boat in dinghy racing.

In three years, more than 20,000 have been sold, it was given international status in June and expected to be accepted as an Olympic boat by 1980.

The conviction that the Laser is one of the best designs to come off a drawing board is shared by at least two of those racing in the championship series.

Mike Hill, 21, of Newport, R.I., says there are 500 of them being raced in the New England area.

"They couldn't have chosen a better boat for this series," he said. "The Laser is very responsive, very quick, yet it's simple."

Carl Buchan, 17, of Seattle, agreed, stating that, because the Laser required no tuning, the onus of winiing — or losing — was squarely on the shoulders of the competitors, not their boats.

Don Trask of the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco will be the man to watch in this year's series, being the North American Laser champion.

Others taking part in the event are Peter Branning of Miami, Les Chigwin of Stamford, Conn., Terry Cronburg of Marblehead, Maine; Mark Foster of Corpus Christi, Texas; Rick Kern of Sherman Oaks, Calif.; Gary Knapp of Syosset, N.Y.; Larry Levin of Honolulu, Brad McCoy of Canton, Ohio; Will Norris of Wauwatosa, Wis.; Jeff O'Brien of Warwick, R.I.; David Patterson of Dallas, Tex.; Michael Price of Long Island, N.Y.; Gary Smith of Arlington, Vir., and Randall Swan of Folly Beach, S.C.

Esquimalt-Vic West is the best Little League baseball team in Canada, thanks to excellent pitching by Dave O'Brien and Mike Bitten, near-flawless fielding and a last-minute batting practice called by manager Bob Bull and coach Jim Uhren. The batting drill took place Saturday morning and in the afternoon the B.C. champions socked three home runs to sweep two games from Lethbridge and take the Canadian title in Mississauga, Ont. Esquimalt-Vic West now competes in the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., starting today. Page 12.

Elsewhere on today's sports pages:

The B.C. Soccer League believes it has found a loophole in a Canadian Soccer Association directive forcing two Victoria clubs, Gorge Molsons and London Boxing Club, to play in the Vancouver Island League next season. As a result, the teams are ready to enter the B.C. league and play against Mainland clubs again. Page 12.

Two Esquimalt teams by the same name, the Teamsters, won provincial lacrosse championships on the weekend but two Victoria clubs didn't fare as well. Esquimalt won titles in Junior "B" and Intermediate "B" playdowns. Victoria McDonalds were eliminated in Pacific Junior "A" semi-finals and Victoria Island Pacific Oil lost out in the B.C. Intermediate "A" finals. Page 12.

In golf, Victoria's John Morgan came close to winning the Alberta Open in Edmonton. His chances blew away in the wind on the final nine holes, however, and Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., grabbed the victory. Page 13.

When baseball's Cincinnati Reds are winning, their fans refer to them as the Big Red Machine. They're winning these days and now are only 2½ games behind the leading Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West. That's the closest they've been to first place since April 26. The Dodgers, meanwhile, could use a tuneup. They lost 10-3 to Pittsburgh Pirates, their sixth defeat in a row. Page 15.

IRA Guerrillas Blast Way Free

Times News Services

DUBLIN — Police and troops today mounted one of the biggest dragnets ever seen in the Irish republic in an effort to recapture 19 guerrillas who blasted their way out of a top-security jail.

The men, all leading members of the violent Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army, broke out of Portlaoise jail 50 miles southwest of here Sunday.

They used explosives to open two gates before hijacking cars at gunpoint.

In Ulster thousands of heavily armed British troops combed the countryside today.

Although an Irish security official claimed the Irish had "sealed off all the escape routes," a spokesman at the Lisburn British Army headquarters for Ulster said "an immediate tightening of security was ordered on the frontier."

Most of the escapers were from the north and others from border areas.

British troops boarded Dublin-to-Belfast trains at the border for intensive searches and long lines of automobiles formed at border checkpoints where soldiers looked for the jailbreakers among returning weekenders.

"Sadly the escape will be a boost to IRA morale which has been reeling in recent months from the effect of a series of successes by the army and police in the north," a British army officer said.

The Irish government, embarrassed by the second spectacular IRA jailbreak in 10 months, has ordered an inquiry.

The previous escape featured a helicopter snatch of three IRA men from Dublin's Mountjoy jail.

The latest escapees are believed to include former Londonderry Provisional leader Martin McGuinness and Kevin Mallon, the leading "provo" in the Mountjoy escape.

BUCHAREST — Representatives of more than 130 nations are gathered here to discuss the population crisis which is taking shape as one of the greatest problems the world has to face.

Organizers of the United Nations World Population Conference, however, fear it may degenerate into a quarrel between rich and poor countries.

Despite a mood of official optimism, plenty of private qualms remain with many of the poorer countries demanding curbs on what they consider excessive consumption by advanced countries.

A row over seating has already cast a pall over the meeting.

Several Communist countries led by China, and Romania, have campaigned for the seating of an uninvited delegation from the Vietnam Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) the Viet Cong.

The main question before the conference, which formally opened today is the global explosion in man's numbers that is beginning to tax both the earth's capacity to produce food and many of its other resources.

Given the current world population growth rate of two per cent annually, man's numbers will double every 35 years.

It took mankind all of its history until the early 19th century to reach one billion; only another 100 years were needed to double that figure; at 3.8 billion last year, the population is expected to double by the end of the century.

Roughly 85 per cent of the projected increases would be in underdeveloped countries.

The very fact that the conference is taking place is viewed by Western specialists as a major achievement.

This is the first attempt by world governments to grapple with the problem that contributes to widespread hunger, a deteriorating environment, and a vicious cycle of poverty and misery in developing nations of the Third World.

Because of the complexity of the problem and because of growing inter-dependence in areas of food production, energy, raw materials and uncontrolled human fertility, the conference is not likely to come up with a firm plan of action.

U.S. Envoy Killed In Cypriot Protest

Times News Services

The U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, Rodger Davies, was killed today in a rain of submachinegun fire by gunmen who stormed the American embassy in Nicosia under cover of a riot by 700 Greek Cypriots screaming against U.S. failure to stop the Turkish invasion of the island.

The gunmen wore the military-style uniforms favored by Eoka-B, the Greek Cypriot guerrilla organization that has fought for years to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said an unidentified U.S. marine also was killed in a burst of submachinegun fire.

Clerides rushed to the embassy to try to help and issued a statement deploring "this heinous crime."

In Athens, Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis denounced the shooting and said it will only add to Greece's troubles over Cyprus.

Also in Athens, thousands of demonstrators clashed with police in Constitution Square today when a hunger strike by students over Cyprus erupted into anti-American riots.

Seven policemen were injured in the rioting. Police detained 23 persons but later released all but four.

The violence erupted after three days of anti-American rallies in various parts of Greece in the wake of strong popular feeling over the alleged U.S. support of the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

Correspondent Michael Keats said Davies was killed when a mob of 700 Greek Cypriots descended on the embassy screaming "Kissinger! Kissinger! Get your Turkish friends to help you now!"

The mob burned U.S. Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger in effigy and set fire to at least five cars in the embassy compound. The cars blew up when flames reached their gasoline tanks, darkening the embassy area with clouds of thick black smoke.

The demonstators burned the U.S. flag, shouting: "burn them down, as they burned Cyprus down."

Police hurled tear gas grenades at the demonstrators in a futile effort to hold them back.

But still the mob came on, carrying banners reading Murderers, Your Mask Has Fallen and NATO Murderers of Cyprus.

On the military front, correspondent Nat Gibson reported the Turks within three miles of the Nicosia-Limassol Road, the only road to the Mediterranean still open.

Hundreds of Greek Cypriot refugees were streaming down the 32-mile road, he reported.

In Washington, Defence Secretary James Schlesinger accused the invasion force of going too far and hinted at a possible cut off in U.S. military aid to Turkey.

GREEK PURGE

ATHENS (AP) — The commander-in-chief of the Greek armed forces and nine other top members of the army command were ousted today, the government announced.

The purges appeared to be a move to further strengthen the civilian government's hold over the armed forces by Premier Constantine Caramanlis.

SEATTLE (AP) — First they took Kathy Corey's TV, a radio, a strong box and finally a hair dryer.

But when they took her marijuana plants from her apartment, that was the last straw.

Kathy phoned police to report the latest loss, although she was unable to place a monetary value on the plants.

Kathy, who has been robbed four times in the past month, says stolen property is stolen property and should be reported even if it is marijuana.

"I suppose I had a lot of nerve to report it, but those were my plants and I don't feel it's wrong to be growing them. If I have to go to jail for reporting it, I will."

A police spokesman said no action was planned against Miss Corey.

And she said police saw the plants when they visited her following the earlier burglaries but they took no action.

"Every officer who has come up here has seen it. One told me he liked it; another said he thought the plants looked pretty healthy."

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners today cut a key northern approach road to Saigon and captured a large village seven miles from the provincial capital of Tay Ninh in the heaviest Communist attacks in two years, South Vietnamese officers said.

WATERLOO MAN NEW UVIC HEAD

Dr. Howard Petch, 49, academic vice-president at the University of Waterloo, has been named the new president of the University of Victoria.

He will take up his new post Jan. 1, 1975.

A selection committee of the university's board of governors had narrowed the choice to three in its search for a successor to Dr. Hugh Farquhar (see story on page 17).

Petch's appointment was announced today, rather than later in the week as planned, apparently to end speculation.

The new president came to the University of Waterloo in 1967 as vice-president in charge of academic affairs and served as acting president there in 1969-70.

Mayors Chase Elusive Cabinet

By LINDA HUGHES

MESACHIE LAKE — A delegation of alarmed mayors from northern B.C. chased up the Island Highway today in search of some positive answers from the provincial cabinet.

Concerned about the lack of communication on the status of northwestern development, the mayors arrived in Victoria this morning only to find all the ministers they had hoped to see had left town for a special cabinet meeting here, three miles west of Cowichan Lake.

The mayors were not to be swayed from their purpose, however, and jumped into a borrowed car and set off in search of the cabinet.

The determined delegation includes Mayors George Thom of Kitimat, Peter Lester of Prince George and J. J. Kempf from Houston.

The delegation arrived at the forest camp where cabinet was meeting around noon and slipped past the guard at the gate by saying they had a meeting with the ministers.

"The security system was lousy," said one of the mayors, "because anyone could walk in and say they were part of cabinet."

Once inside the compound, they talked with Highways Minister Graham Lea and finally reached an agreement to return at 3 p.m. to talk with Northern Affairs Minister Alf Nunweiler.

They were disappointed they did not get to meet with Resources Minister Bob Williams or Economic Development Minister Gary Lauk, and one of the delegates said, "I think we've been pushed down to the second string."

The mayors were sent from a meeting of northwestern mayors and regional district chairmen in Kitimat over the weekend where a resolution was drawn up to present to cabinet.

The resolution said the local government representatives fear that recent statements by the government "indicated some serious reservations by the spokesman as to the direction and the speed with which the government intends to move in expanding the economy of B.C. and this northwest sector in particular."

The representatives said they fully support regional economic expansion of the northwest as outlined by the Government.

Last spring Resources Minister Williams announced details of a $500 million development plan, including new transportation plans, lower freight rates, new sawmills and resource development, for the northwest sector of the province.

Thom said today his group has heard nothing "official" but had indications of a change in thought or a change of priorities on the part of the government.

TEACHERS TO DEMAND HEFTY PAY RAISES

NARAMATA — School trustees and taxpayers in British Columbia were warned Sunday to be braced for hefty pay-hike demands by the province's teachers.

In a speech opening the B.C. Teachers' Federation summer conference, president Jim McFarlan said the demands would be "a hell of a lot."

"Inflation has eroded many of the gains of last year," he added, pointing out that teachers will be even worse off than they were before the last settlements if inflation continues at its present rate.

Mistaken for Hit-Man, Girl Slain

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Edith Perchman was delivering the Detroit Free Press on her regular route when she approached the Rudolph Acosta residence in Highland Park.

It was about 5 a.m. Sunday and still dark. Her father, Marion, who always drove her, was waiting in his car with Edith's 11-year-old sister and one of her friends.

Edith was about to flip the newspaper onto Acosta's front porch when a shotgun blast from a window in the house sprayed her in the face.

She fell in the yard, but pulled herself up and was stumbling toward her father's car when a man appeared on the porch with a pistol and began firing.

Police say Edith was hit at least 15 times in the two shootings.

She died after being admitted to hospital.

The girl's father told police he also was fired at as he pulled his daughter into the car from a grassy strip between the sidewalk and the curb.

Perchman was not hit, but as he sped off the car door flew open and Edith fell to the pavement. Perchman lost control and his car slammed into a nearby house.

Perchman was taken to hospital in serious condition with internal injuries. Edith's sister and friend were not hurt.

Acosta, 24, who told police he mistook the girl for a "hit man," was arraigned on charges of manslaughter and freed on $2,500 bail. An examination was set for Sept. 10. Police said he surrendered without a struggle when police arrived at his house.

Police said Acosta was not charged with murder because he did not intend to kill the girl. Detective Donald Roberts said state police had told Acosta that someone was out to kill him in connection with the drug-related death of another individual, and that Acosta apparently thought the girl was the assailant.

About 200 angry neighbors are demanding that Acosta be charged with murder.

Esquimalt-Vic West is the best Little League baseball team in Canada, thanks to excellent pitching by Dave O'Brien and Mike Bitten, near-flawless fielding and a last-minute batting practice called by manager Bob Bull and coach Jim Uhren. The batting drill took place Saturday morning and in the afternoon the B.C. champions socked three home runs to sweep two games from Lethbridge and take the Canadian title in Mississauga, Ont. Esquimalt-Vic West now competes in the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., starting today. Page 12.
